World Situation As Precarious as After Czech Coup, President Declares

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

So far as President Truman is concerned, the outlook for world peace is about what it was two months ago after the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia and the death of Jan Masaryk.

Mr. Truman told reporters yesterday that his hopes for peace had not been increased as a result of the Molotov-Smith exchange of views in Moscow.

He was reminded that, following the events in Czechoslovakia in mid-March, he said his confidence in ultimate world peace had been shaken.

The Chief Executive said that his position hadn't changed.

Criticism on Hill

On Capitol Hill, some Republicans were critical of the Administration for refusing to talk peace with Russia. One GOP lawmaker, Representative Lawrence W. Smith of Wisconsin, accused Mr. Truman of "slamming the door" in Russia's face.

The thing that nobody in authority talked about, at least openly, was the feeling here that Russia's word is no good, as shown by a score or more of broken treaties and agreements. This has long been regarded as the chief stumbling block to any real settlement, and one that will remain until Russia does something to show her good faith.

At yesterday's White House news conference, as at nearly every one for the last six months, Mr. Truman was asked if he would be willing to meet Premier Josef Stalin if he comes to Washington. The question, because of its familiar ring, evoked laughter.

No Word From Stalin

Mr. Truman smiled and wanted to know how many times he was going to have to answer yes to the question.

"Have you received any direct communications from Stalin?" he was asked.

The President said that he had not and that he didn't expect any.

In reply to another question, he said that of course he supported the statement made on Wednesday by Secretary of State Marshall apropos the Russian overtures. He said that Marshall had covered the matter adequately, and that he himself had nothing to add.

Secretary Marshall, after ruling out any full-dress conference with Russia, said that what the United States wanted was action in the areas where there are diplomatic stalemates—Germany, Austria, Korea and the Security Council of the United Nations.

He said that if the United States and Russia entered into a general conference, and if the conference

Tappings in Mine, Heard 2d Time, Stir Hopes for 3

Shamokin, Pa., May 13 (U.P.).—Faint tappings, heard tonight for the second time from the depths of a coal mine, heartened rescue crews working to reach three men trapped in a flooded mine tunnel.

The second signal from the miners, entombed by a rush of water 150 feet underground, came as rescuers put two pumps into action to suck out the water that filled the mine shaft to a depth of 80 feet.

State Mine Inspector Joseph Brophy estimated that the pumps would cut the water's depth by a foot an hour.

The men, Peter Gordon, Edward Heck and Charles Bashore, all of Shamokin, were trapped when the wall between the independent mine and an abandoned flooded colliery broke yesterday.

House Takes Up Bill Today

President Against Outlawing Of Communist Party in U. S.

By Tom Twitty

President Truman came out against outlawing the Communist Party yesterday as the House prepared to take up today the Mundt bill which would bring Communist organizations under rigid control with penalties on membership.

Mr. Truman told his press conference that he didn't believe splinter parties do any harm and that if there is a conspiracy to overthrow the Government of the United States, we have laws to cover that.

The question arose when a reporter asked if he han "any comment on the Mundt bill to outlaw the Communist Party."

Mr. Truman declined direct comment on the Mundt bill, which does not provide for outright outlawing of Communist organizations, but on the question of outlawing a political party he commented that it was entirely contrary to our principles.

A short time later Attorney General Tom C. Clark told a National Press Club luncheon that outlawing the Communist Party would do more harm than good by driving members "underground."

The Justice Department, he asserted, is keeping "good taos" on their operations now. He added that the Communist movement is on the wane in the United States, particularly in labor circles.

Representative Karl E. Mundt, Republican, of South Dakota, sponsor of the controversial bill, pointed out late today that the question put to President Truman was faulty, since the bill does not outlaw the party.

"The President repeated what we said in the subcommittee report on the outlawing of the Communist Party," Mr. Mundt declared, adding he considered the White House statement an indorsement.

Passage of the measure today by a 4 to 1 margin was predicted. Six hours of debate has been granted.

The principal provisions of the Mundt bill would require all Communist and party front organizations to register with the Justice Department and furnish the names of all members; prohibit members from obtaining visas for foreign

House Passes Bill on Agency Secret Data

Acts 219-142 to Force Surrender; Clause to Jail Newsmen Deleted

By Jack Steele

The House yesterday passed the Hoffman bill to force the executive branch to divulge confidential information less than seven hours after President Truman again refused to make public the Condon loyalty report and served notice that he would veto any such legislation.

These rapid-fire events carried further along the election-year battle between the Democratic President and the Republican Congress over the disputed Federal Bureau of Investigation report on the loyalty of Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities, on the basis of a quick look at the report by one of its investigators, has accused Dr. Condon of associating with Communist spies.

The President told his press conference yesterday morning that he had no intention of making public the Condon report, despite a request from Dr. Condon last week that this be done to clear his name.

Matter of Principle

Mr. Truman noted that a matter of principle was involved and declared that Congress had no power to force Cabinet officers to divulge such confidential information.

He confidently predicted that he would have the last word in the fracas, serving notice that he planned to veto the Hoffman bill and forecasting that it would not be enacted without his signature.

The House responded late in the afternoon by passing the measure by a party-line vote of 219 to 142. This fell 65 votes short of the two thirds necessary to override a veto.

Indications last night were that the President may not have the opportunity to deliver his promised veto, however. Republican

38-to-37 Vote Kills Regional University Bill

Senate Pigeonholes Measure; No Chance Of Revival Is Seen

Post Reporter

By a photo-finish roll call of 38 to 37, the Senate yesterday pigeonholed the bill to give congressional approval to a Southern compact to establish regional universities.

The vote came on a motion by Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) to refer the measure to the Senate Judiciary Committee for further study, but supporters and opponents of the plan both acknowledged it killed the bill for this session.

The Senate action was a major triumph for Morse, who said congressional approval of such a regional plan was not necessary, but that if the Congress acted it could not countenance the segregated schools contemplated under the measure.

Defeat Was Predicted

Defeat of the measure had been predicted, but when the roll was first called it looked as if Southern Senators, to their own amazement, had won the day.

The first tally was 37 to 36 to defeat the Morse proposal, but on the recount Senator Arthur Capper (R., Kans.) reached the chamber and tied the vote. Then Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.) arrived a minute or so later with another "aye" and the bill was down.

Before the vote was taken, Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.) had told a reporter that the Southerners would lose the proposal by one vote, or possibly two.

Fifteen Southerners had met in the office of Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) earlier to rally for a last-ditch fight for their measure.

Morse had announced that if he lost the motion to refer the House-passed measure to committee, he would attempt to get the Senate to adopt an amendment banning

Mrs. Meyer Urges House Action

Federal Aid to Education Declared Basic Need of Nation

Describing Federal aid to education as a basic need of the Nation, Mrs. Eugene Meyer yesterday took apart House Speaker Joe Martin's statement that it was because of economy that the House had bottled up the pending 300-million-dollar school aid bill.

Mrs. Meyer, member of the President's Commission on Higher Education and wife of the chairman of the board of The Washington Post, spoke before a Conference on Human Rights—Civil and Cultural, at Howard University.

"The question I should respectfully like to ask the Speaker," said Mrs. Meyer, "is this: Can the Republican Party face the people of this Nation at the coming election without a single measure to its credit that indicates sympathy for our country's social progress and human welfare?

"How does Mr. Martin think it will sit with the voters," she asked, "when he tells them that with billions for Europe and for armaments we can't afford 300 millions to educate our own children properly and give their teachers a living wage?"

Citing a Gallup Poll to be published soon showing a majority of the American people favor the education bill and are willing to pay extra taxes if necessary to raise the funds committed by the bill, Mrs. Meyer asked of Speaker Martin:

"How can he continue to plead the need for economy when the people, themselves, are willing to pay the extra taxes to foot the bill?"

Declaring that the most elementary social needs of the American people cannot be neglected if we are to carry out the Marshall Plan and a defense program which makes not only for military strength but "holds aloft the moral superiority of democratic principles," Mrs. Meyer urged persons attending the conference to get their leaders and welfare organizations to impress upon Speaker Martin the need for

2.4 Billions More Asked For Defense

President's Request Is 282 Millions Less Than 66-Group Air Force Estimate

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

President Truman laid a cut-back supplemental defense budget before Congress yesterday—calling for $2,434,441,000 additional for the Army, Navy and Air Force next year.

The proposal is 282 millions less than Defense Secretary James Forrestal previously had indicated would be allowed to provide a 66-group Air Force, a 790,000-man Army and a rounded out Navy.

Only 444,500 officers and men are provided for the Air Force—8500 short of the number that Gen. Carl Spaatz, retiring USAF chief, had said was necessary to operate 66 groups next year.

Effect on Economy Weighed

This action, plus a warning by Mr. Truman that the effect of defense outlays on the national economy "must be weighed," indicated that the President is not going along with the congressional mandate for a 70-group air force—at this time, at least.

There was no word from the White House as to whether or not Mr. Truman will sign the $3,198,000,000 aircraft procurement bill—which carries 822 millions more than he asked for new warplanes.

Backers of the big air power fund declared it would start modernizing the Air Force and give us a powerful, 70-group air armada by 1952. Congress ignored the Administration objections to launching such a vast expansion now and voted it by overwhelming majorities.

Procurement Not Covered

The funds requested by the President yesterday do not cover plane procurement, but operating expenses for the armed services next year. During the debate over the Air Force expansion, Forrestal proposed a compromise.

In lieu of the additional 822 millions to start building a modern 70-group air force, he proposed boosting USAF strength immediately from 55 to 66 groups, by taking planes out of storage and increasing personnel.

By yesterday's action, President Truman appeared to be saying that since Congress rejected this compromise plan, he too was not going to back 66 active groups next year. However, Air Force officials last night were unable to state how many groups the budget estimate would allow them.

Copies of the new budget message did not reach the Pentagon and the Capitol until late yesterday afternoon. Defense fiscal experts immediately went into a huddle to see what the White House cuts meant.

Budget Director James E. Webb disclosed that the Air Force estimates "will permit an increase in the number of groups previously

GOP Chiefs Clear Trade Act Changes

Steering Committee Indorses Extension For One Year, Veto Power by Congress

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, with Congress given "veto" authorization over tariff cuts or increases not recommended by the Tariff Commission, yesterday was cleared by the House Republican Steering Committee.

The House Republican high command thus approved in advance of Ways and Means Committee action a GOP counterprogram curbing Mr. Truman's tariff-making powers and overriding his request for a straight three-year extension of the law.

Republican leadership action came in the face of Administration warnings that anything less than a three-year extension, without modifying changes, would "cripple" the act, damage United States global prestige, and hamper efforts to reduce tariff barriers abroad.

Rayburn Deplores Move

Following the GOP announcement, House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn (Texas) told reporters:

"Anything that cripples reciprocal trade agreements is dangerous not only nationally but internationally. I fear this is a crippling move."

Slapping at Ways and Means "closed" hearings on the bill, the Citizens Committee for Reciprocal World Trade, representing 40 farm, industry, labor, church, women's and veterans' organizations, meanwhile scheduled a day-long open meeting at the Mayflower Hotel today.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley (Ky.), former Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton, Mrs. Dana Converse Backus and others will address this meeting. Gerard Swope, chairman of the citizens' group, will preside.

Committee Due to Act Today

The GOP counterproposals were laid before the Republican steering group by Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart (R., Calif.), chairman of a nine-man Ways and Means Subcommittee.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.) later announced steering committee clearance. Ways and Means Committee approval today by a party line vote, was indicated. Gearhart said the bill may go to the House floor early next week.

Here are the six Reciprocal Trtde Act modifications in the Republican bill:

1. Extension of the act until June 30, 1949, instead of June 12, 1951.

2. An independent status for the Tariff Commission, separating it from voting participation in the Interdepartmental Committee on Reciprocity Information which considers proposed tariff changes. The commission would continue to "cooperate" and supply information

Joseph P. Kennedy's Daughter Believed Killed in Air Crash

Paris (Friday), May 14 (AP).—French gendarmes said early today Lady Kathleen Hartington had been killed in a plane crash near Saint Bauzile in the Rhone River valley north of Marseille.

The gendarmerie at Privas, near Saint Bauzile, said Lady Kathleen, identified from her American passport, was one of four persons whose bodies had been found in the wreckage. She was the daughter of Joseph P. Kennedy, former United States Ambassador to Britain.

The authorities said no information was available on whether former Ambassador Kennedy was aboard the plane.

The gendarmes said bad weather was hampering night searches and clearing weather later in the morning might bring the discovery of more bodies.

The plane was an unidentified British aircraft that crashed in a storm last night.

Lady Kathleen was 28, the widow of the English Marquess of Hartington.

She met the Marquess in court circles in 1938 while her father was United States Ambassador to the court of St. James's.

They were married May 6, 1944. She was then 24 and he was 26.

Lord Hartington, a captain of the Coldstream Guards in World War II, was killed in action in France September 10, 1944, four months after the marriage.

Lady Kathleen at the time of her marriage had been serving for several months as a resident helper at a Red Cross club.

She is the sister of Representative John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.). Another brother, Lieut. Joseph Kennedy, jr., was killed in action in the war when a Navy plane exploded.

LADY HARTINGTON

Gendarmerie officials heard the crash of the plane in which Lady Hartington was killed. They said the plane was completely destroyed, with wreckage strewn over a wide area.

Bad weather and darkness hampered efforts to find and identify the other dead.

In October, 1946, London cat burglars robbed the Marchioness of $40,000 in jewelry. Subsequently she appealed to the burglars through the newspapers to return two mementoes—her husband's cufflinks and her brother's pilot wings.

French airport authorities at Orly said they believed the plane might be a private Skyways Aircraft, which left Le Bourget Field, Paris, yesterday for Cannes on the French Riviera.

Jews Set to Proclaim New Sovereign State; 4 Arab Armies Near

Syria Predicts Invasion Saturday; Armored Cars and Tanks Moving Up

Damascus, Syria, May 13 (AP).—The armies of four Arab nations were reported closing in tonight toward the Palestine frontier 24 hours before the British surrender their Holy Land mandate.

Official Syrian circles predicted an invasion of Palestine early Saturday. Military sources said a "state of siege" is expected to be declared in Syria Friday.

[Egyptian army forces have been ordered to cross the Palestine frontier at 12:01 a. m. Saturday, the United Press was informed tonight. The troops were ordered to battle stations effective at midnight tonight, informants said. Egyptian troops are concentrated in the area of El Arish, on the coastal side of the Sinai Desert 30 miles from the frontier.]

Firemen in Damascus conducted air raid drills and blackout curtains were suggested for public buildings because of unconfirmed rumors of Jewish air strength.

Cheering crowds lined the streets as Syrian tanks and armored cars moved southward.

Travelers from Trans-Jordan said 400 vehicles of an Iraqi brigade were moving westward toward the Palestine frontier. Mechanized units of Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion were speeding along the main highway between Zerka and the Allenby Bridge entrance to the Holy Land, the same informants said.

[Dispatches from Amman, Trans-Jordan, said King Abdullah was ready to move into Palestine simultaneously from the north and east with his forces, drawn from Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Syrian and Lebanese armies. The dispatches indicated that Abdullah would confine his movements, at first at least, to Arab areas of Palestine, the United Press said.

[A Beirut, Lebanon, newspaper reported that King Farouk of Egypt and King Abdullah would meet in Damascus Friday to plan strategy.]

In Cairo Education Minister Abdul Razak el Sanhouri said martial law will be declared at 1 a. m. local time Saturday "when Egyptian troops cross the frontier into Palestine."

The daily Egyptian Gazette said Premier Nokrashy Pasha had disclosed that the Arab states have decided to take over the annual 12-million-dollar subsidy paid by Britain to Trans-Jordan troops. A British Foreign Office spokesman in London said: "We have no confirmation of that at all."

An official Syrian source said Arab countries voted to appropriate 200 million dollars for the Palestine war. There was no Arab League confirmation.

A member of the league's political committee said yesterday the United States and Britain were notified of decisions reached during Arab conferences here.

Russians Cut Off Power to Southern Zone of Korea

Seoul, Korea (Friday), May 14 (U.P.).—All electric power into South Korea from Soviet-occupied northern zone was cut off at noon today at the expiration of a Communist ultimatum.

The U. S. Army immediately threw into operation the vast emergency power generating plant it had set up.

Russia Blocks Mediator Plan For Palestine

Lake Success, N. Y., May 13 (NYHT).—Russia tonight blocked final decision on a plan to send a U. N. mediator to Palestine and leave the question of partition to be settled between Jews and Arabs.

With the end of the British Palestine mandate coming up at 6:01 p. m. (EDT) Friday, the Russians obviously wanted the U. N. to fail to reach any sort of Palestine action before that time, so that the original partition resolution would stand.

While the United States pressed in vain for immediate action, Russia demanded an overnight recess to study the latest documents on Palestine—despite the fact high Russian officials took an active part in formulation in a 12-nation subcommittee of the documents in question.

The scene of the Russian delaying tactic was the fifty-eighth country political committee of the U. N. General Assembly. The subcommittee earlier had approved the proposal. The political committee will try for a vote Friday morning. The full assembly will meet at 2 p. m.

Gromyko Ends U. N. Duties in Near Future

Russian Delegate Will Be Replaced By Jacob A. Malik

Lake Success, N. Y., May 13 (U.P.). Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko soon will be replaced—probably permanently—as Russia's chief delegate to the United Nations, it was learned tonight.

Gromyko will be replaced by Jacob A. Malik, another deputy foreign-minister and a major figure in the conduct of Russian foreign policy in the Far East. Malik, already on his way here by plane from Berlin, handed Japanese officials Russia's declaration of war in 1945.

Gromyko confirmed he was leaving the U. N. in the next few weeks to take a long-delayed vacation in Russia.

Asked if he would participate in the General Assembly next fall in Paris Gromyko replied: "I do not know what I will be doing in September."

The development represented a major shift in the Kremlin's foreign personnel. In addition to Gromyko's own hint of another assignment there were substantial reasons for believing he was headed for a new task.

Gromyko, whose name in Russian means "thunder," has been with the United Nations since the Dumbarton Oaks conferences of 1944.

Gromyko's muscular right arm has signaled almost everyone of Russia's 24 vetoes in the U. N. Security Council.

Malik in London En Route to U. S.

London, May 13 (AP).—Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik arrived here tonight by air from Berlin, en route to United Nations headquarters in New York.

Asked if his trip had anything to do with talks between the United States and Russia, Malik replied:

"I am very tired."

Shertok Asserts U. S. Seeks Delay But Only U. N. Can Now Halt Plans

Tel Aviv, Palestine, May 13 (U.P.).—A five-man Jewish cabinet committee drafted a declaration today proclaiming a sovereign Jewish state after 20 centuries of Roman, Saracen, Turkish and British rule.

Moshe Shertok, foreign minister-designate of the Jewish government, announced that the United States had asked the Jewish Agency to delay establishment of a Jewish state until later.

Shertok indicated that unless the United Nations provide acceptable authority to take over when the British mandate ends at midnight Friday (6 p. m. E. D. T.), the Jewish state would be proclaimed.

"There is an iron certainty we will not leave a vacuum here even for one second," he declared.

[The United Press reported that Secretary of State George C. Marshall advised both Arab and Jewish leaders last week to avoid taking hasty action in Palestine when the British mandate expires.

Preparing for War

[Marshall told both Shertok and representatives of the Arab states they should warn their leaders in Palestine against proclaiming sovereign states, the United Press said it had learned.

[Reliable informants said Marshall told both sides that if they proclaimed sovereign states in Palestine they would henceforth be on their own.]

Commander-in-Chief Israel Galilee, preparing for war, cancelled leaves of his Haganah militiamen, who will become the Jewish army, put reserves on an emergency alert and prepared to draft thousands of expected refugees into the military forces.

[The Associated Press reported that all trained Jewish men and women of fighting age were called to arms today.]

The mobilization call, issued in Haifa, applies to all Jewish men and women between 18 and 35 who have had any previous military training or who have been deferred previously. They were asked to report for duty immediately.

As the zero hour approached, dispatches from Arab capitals said that armies of the Arab League were ready to march into Arab areas of Palestine and possibly right on into Jewish areas.

Arabs Capture Settlement

[Arab Legion troops have captured the important Jewish settlement of Kfar Etzion in Central Palestine, Haganah said tonight, according to the Associated Press. Kfar Etzion, Haganah said, is the first important Jewish settlement captured by Arabs since the Arab-Jewish war began five months ago. Haganah said the Jews suffered more than a hundred casualties in dead and wounded.

[Fighting continued indecisively at Bab el Wad—the gorge where Arabs and Jews have clashed for several days in a battle which will determine who will control the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway. The Arabs have retaken the western end of the gorge, but the Jews are

McCarthy, Snerd Check In at Depot For Tournament

In the unclaimed division of the Union Station baggage room yesterday reposed two valuable pieces of ashwood labeled "Charlie McCarthy" and "Mortimer Snerd," respectively.

Neither made a sound, but both will do plenty of yapping today when the fellow who can make them talk, Edgar Bergen, makes them do just that.

McCarthy and his traveling companion, Snerd, arrived from Hollywood yesterday by train, preceeding by 12 hours the arrival of Bergen, who landed at National Airport late last night.

Today, after Bergen picks up his talkative timber, the three will go to Uline Arena to rehearse their NBC (WRC) show which will be presented here Sunday night as the climax of the National Celebrities Golf Tournament.

145 Names Reported on List

Records of Big D. C. Gamblers Are Supplied to U. S. Attorney

United States Attorney George Morris Fay's office yesterday received from police the completed list of names, addresses and criminal records of Washington's big gamblers, it was learned.

The much-publicized list, now reported to contain 145 names, is expected to play a major role in the special grand jury investigation of gambling which will open Monday.

Coupled with this information were indications that part of this area's tightly knit numbers-writing operation is beginning to develop signs of confusion, resulting from a rush to avoid implication in the impending probe.

Some numbers writers have been stranded on street corners, unsuccessfully waiting for "pickup" men to come by to collect their number bets to be turned in to "backers," it was reported.

Adding to the confusion, it was said, has been the closing down, and moving, of some numbers-writing and horse race spots, without notice to bettors.

While neither Fay nor police would make any comment on the list of gamblers, compiled by a special squad of police from headquarters' records and other information, it was reliably reported that this list was delivered to Fay's office at 5:30 p. m.

Yesterday afternoon, members of the special squad assigned to aid Lieut. Roy Blick in completing the list, were back at their regular police duties.

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett is on leave from duty until Monday, and other police officials said they could not discuss the "list," which figured in a letter-writing barrage between Barrett and Fay over the role of police investigators in the grand jury probe.

Fay has taken the position that the grand jury itself will determine what further police aid it desires.

All day yesterday a parade of visitors passed in and out of Fay's

David Ben-Gurion Began His Career In Palestine as a Vineyard Laborer

The roughened hands of a laborer will hold the reins of government in Palestine when the new Jewish state is proclaimed at 6:01 tonight, Washington time.

David Ben-Gurion went to Palestine at the turn of the century in one of the Jewish waves of immigrants from Russia. He was about 17 then and the best job he could get was in a vineyard at Richon Le Zion and later on a farm at Sejera in Galilee.

That's where he got two ideas that guide him even today—despite his 62 years, despite all the international intrigue he's known. He saw then that Palestine someday must be a great industrial and agricultural country and that her workers' only hope lay in organization.

Thus it was that he became interested in an early labor group, Shomrim, the organization of watchmen who guarded Jewish farms from neighboring Arabs. It was Shomrim that grew into Haganah, Palestine's army.

To fit himself, Ben-Gurion went off to Turkey and studied law. When World War I came, he and other Jews were expelled from the country. Ben-Gurion came to the United States. In New York, he formed the Jewish Legion, two regiments that fought with the British at Gallipoli. Before he himself went over as an officer, he was married in New York to a Russian-born girl who joined him as a nurse.

Back in Palestine after the war, Ben-Gurion plunged into the growing trade union movement. In several years, he was secretary of Histadrut, the largest labor federation. By 1931, he was elected to the executive of the Jewish Agency, the "State Department" of the Palestinian Jews. He also worked in Vaad Leumi, the council for internal affairs.

Although this swarthy, stocky man officially becomes premier of the Jewish government tonight, he has actually held a post amounting to the same thing since 1938, when he became chairman of the Jewish Agency.

The house that will be Palestine's "10 Downing Street" or "1600 Pennsylvania ave. nw.," is a square, white, 2-story plaster building attached to a row of others just like it on Keren Kayemeth Boulevard in northern Tel-Aviv. A few blocks from the Mediterranean Sea, it is built on sand and the front steps lead smack onto the sidewalk. It is simply furnished, but like the others on either side it has an electric refrigerator and other Western improvements.

Ben-Gurion lives quietly there. Master of Hebrew, Arabic, German, and English (he speaks the latter with a strange kind of Russian-American accent), he spends most of his leisure in an armchair, reading the classics in Greek. On his own, he has made a deep study of philosophy and comparative theology.

When he has time to raid the refrigerator, it's usually for his favorite foods—vegetables and a pint bottle of milk.

One of Ben-Gurion's three children, Amos, is the Hagananh officer who recently took over the Jaffa military operation. He was a captain in the British Army in World War II.

Ben-Gurion's daughters are Raanana and Geula. Geula means liberation.

Russia Blocks Mediator Plan

pleted work tonight the Jewish Agency for Palestine asked an immediate session of the Security Council to prevent any Holy Land invasion by King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, and to take action on alleged attacks just started on Jewish settlements south of Jerusalem by units of Abdullah's Arab Legion.

The agency said the senior British staff officer in Jerusalem had told the agency the Arab legion was no longer under British command. Arab Legion units have been serving the British as mercenaries in Palestine, but three weeks ago the British assured the U. N. that all such units would be out of Palestine before the mandate ended.

King Abdullah, in turn, sent Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, the following protest:

"We protest against the Jewish armed organizations attacking Arab territories in the vicinities of Tulkarm and the horrible aggression inflicted upon Beisan town . . . and point out that this actual provocation if continued will render the situation more complicated."

Under the plan approved today by the subcommittee, the U. N. Palestine mediator would be chosen by Russia, the United States, China, France and Britain. His job would be to try to promote peace between Arabs and Jews and to try to arrange continuity of public services.

He would be paid $26,000 a year and he would have no authority except that of the U. N.'s moral weight.

Most frequently mentioned for the job was Count Folke Bernadotte, 53, president of the Swedish Red Cross. In April 1945 he carried Heinrich Himmler's German surrender offer to Allied officials in Stockholm, and then took back Flensburg, in Germany, the Allied reply that the Germans must also surrender to Russia.

In another Palestine action today, the U. N. announced that Harold Evans of Philadelphia, attorney and board member of the American Friends Service Committee had been named as municipal commissioner for Jerusalem, under terms of the General Assembly's resolution adopted May 6.

His duties will temporarily be fulfilled by Pablo d'Azcarate, a U. N. official already in Jerusalem. Appointments of both Evans and D'Azcarate were approved by the Jewish Agency and the Arab Higher Committee.

Changes were made in the original American proposal today in the subcommittee as follows:

1. Deleted from the proposal was a reference to the Security Council resolution of April 17 which called for a political and military status quo in the Holy Land, and forbade both Jews and Arabs to import arms or fighting men.

2. Instead of following the American plan to assign the U. N. mediator to seek agreement on "the future government of Palestine," the subcommittee assigned him simply to try to "promote peaceful adjustment of the situation in Palestine."

3. Instead of agreeing to the United States proposal to disband immediately the Palestine Commission—the U. N. special partition agency—the subcommittee voted to suspend the responsibilities of the commission as of June 1. It was not clear just whether suspension meant disbanding or merely interrupting the partition work of the commission.

Twenty separate ballots were required in the subcommittee today to amend and approve the United States proposal, and on 18 of these, Russia either abstained or voted in the negative.

The pro-partition forces in the U. N. had been planning to make a last-ditch drive for reaffirmation of partition and a U. N. decision to push ahead with it, in case the subcommittee failed today to agree on any other plan.

Apparently, however, they reasoned tha tthe amended United States resolution—giving the Jews a fair crack at carrying out partition themselves without any U. N. admonitions to stop doing so—was as good a result as could be gotten out of the present special Assembly session.

Jews Ready For New State

said to be still holding the eastern end.]

At Haifa, on which British forces were converging in preparation for early, final evacuation, Jewish authorities prepared to receive thousands of immigrants who had been interned in Cyprus.

Jews are now in full control of Haifa, on British invitation, and the big seaside airport there was turned over to them formally this morning.

The Arab emergency committee in Jaffa invited Haganah to occupy that Arab city, adjoining Tel Aviv, and their surrender at 3:20 p. m. left the Jews in control of all big Palestine cities.

Final preparations for the declaration of a Jewish nation, which probably will be called the "State of Israel," were made in the Sarona suburb of Tel Aviv which is to be the capital.

The full 13-man Jewish cabinet decided at a nine-hour meeting ending early Thursday morning to proclaim the Jewish state at midnight Friday.

Chief Rabbis who were consulted gave the cabinet exemption from orthodox Jewish religious law which would forbid the signing or proclamation of a declaration on Saturday, the Sabbath.

Shertok, David Remez, Felix Rosenbluth, R. Sizling and Moshe Shapiro were named as the committee to draft the declaration of independence.

Shertok said at a press conference that the United States delegation at Lake Success, N. Y., had asked the Jewish Agency to "arrest the process" of declaring a Jewish state in the hope that the political and military situation could be straightened out.

Shertok denied that the United States had backed its request with any threat of penalties against the Jewish state if it were set up.

The United States, he added, has not yet crystallized its attitude toward Palestine.

"There are still divergencies inside the United States Government," Shertok said.

Well-informed Jewish opinion is that military men in Washington regard the Palestine problem as primarily military, and that the diplomats in the State Department regard it as primarily political.

Shertok declined to predict what action the United States might take next.

"We have no assurances of any kind," he said.

Likewise, Shertok said, the Jewish Agency has received no commitments from other governments.

(President Truman declined yesterday to commit himself on the question whether America will recognize the new Jewish state.

(Mr. Truman said he would cross that bridge when he came to it.)

Shertok paid tribute to the British change in policy toward Palestine and described Britain's policy as more realistic than that of the United States.

Jewish Agency Here to Raise A Flag Today

Washington members of the Jewish Agency are planning to hold a flag-raising ceremony at 6:01 p. m. today—the hour the British mandate ends—at the agency's headquarters here at 2210 Massachusetts ave. nw. The agency hopes this will become the legation or embassy of the new state if and when it has been recognized by the United States.

Arabs to Close Office Here on May 15

By the United Press

The Arab Office, official agency here of the seven Arab countries, will close its doors May 15, it was revealed last night.

The office fought against the decision of the U. N. General Assembly to recommend partitioning Palestine, and has consistently supported Arab claims in that country.

The office represents the governments of Egypt, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Trans-Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Yemen.

Britain Still Hopes For Palestine Pact

London, May 13 (AP).—Britain announced today she still hopes for a compromise between the Arabs and Jews in Palestine and stands ready to "give every assistance in its power, short of imposing by force a solution not acceptable to both peoples."

The British Foreign Office issued a 6500-word statement just 24 hours before Britain was to surrender her 30-year-old rule in the Holy Land.

The statement said any attempt either by Arabs or Jews to conquer Palestine by force could have only tragic results. It admitted that Britain failed in her efforts to lead the country to independence, but claimed success for the Palestine government in carrying out some of the mandate's terms.

Elaborating, a Foreign Office spokesman said:

"Althugh we may be quitting Palestine, our interest and experience in the entire area remain greater than that of any other country. We shall, therefore, always be ready to do what we can to help restore peace and order to Palestine."

The joint statement acclaimed the Jews for their part in developing Palestine. Rising standards of health and education among the Arabs also contributed to the progress of Palestine, it said.

Both Jews and Arabs of Palestine coperated loyally in the prosecution of World War II, the British said, but since 1942 a rise in Jewish underground activity was caused by the British policy of controlling uncertified immigration.

Since the end of World War II, the document said, 338 British subjects have been killed in Palestine. The cost of maintaining military forces in the Holy Land totalled 400 million dollars since the war, it said.

Sabotage Seen

U. S., Britain Accused in Partition

By the United Press

A member of the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine yesterday accused the United States and Britain of trying to "sabotage" the plan for partition of Palestine.

Jorge Garcia-Granados of Guatemala said in an article in Collier's Magazine that the "sabotage" began even before the U. N. General Assembly approved partition.

Granados' committee recommended partition after an on-the-spot study last year. The United States voted for partition in the Assembly in November, 1947, but later came out against it.

The Guatemalan blamed the Holy Land violence directly on "the wish on the part of persons in high places, here and abroad, to sabotage the U. N. decision . . ."

He accused the United States of fostering a behind-the-scenes "intrigue" to keep pro-partition men off the U. N. Partition Commission nine days before the assembly voted for partition.

He said he told United States Delegate Herschel Johnson that he had heard the United States was objecting to putting Uruguay and Guatemala, both favoring partition, on the commission.

Johnson, he said, replied: "'I appreciate your speaking frankly to me, and I shall be perfectly frank with you, Mr. Granados. The State Department feels that to include both you and Mr. Fabregat (of Uruguay) on the commission would arouse Arab animosity. I tell you this is not my feeling, but I must carry out the instructions given me.'"

Granados said he replied: "I think the United States is making a tremendous mistake by following this policy of appeasement. If the Arabs are not shown that a real intent exists to carry out the U. N. resolution, they will be encouraged to oppose it."

MacArthur Offers U. N. Poll Job Site

Seoul, Korea, May 13 (U.P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur decided today to let the United Nations Commission on Korea set up headquarters in Tokyo, but a commission spokesman said it would go elsewhere to write its report on Korean elections.

Yusin Mughir of Syria, acting chairman of the commission, said: "The decision to go elsewhere was made last night and General MacArthur's new statement will not change it."

MacArthur backed down early today on his refusal to allow the commission to go to Tokyo. Two days ago, MacArthur's public information officer announced "no accommodations on the scale required are immediately available."

The eight commission members branded the refusal as "shocking" and "high-handed" and protested to U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

Tiny Jet Plane Tested to Ride With Bomber

By James J. Strebig

New York, May 13 (AP).—The Air Force announced today it is ground testing a tiny hitch-hiking, jet-propelled fighter designed to ride as escort for superrange bombers.

The miniature fighter is the McDonnell XF-85, a radical design adapted to stokage in the bomb bay of a B-36, which is more than 10 times as large.

Known as a "parasite" because it is based aboard another airplane, the XF-85, has a wing span of 21 feet and is but 15 feet long. It has sweptback wings, which fold at the outer panels. Double rudders are part of the design to put the plane into the smallest possible space.

It has no landing gear other than a retractable hook ahead of the cockpit by which it can be swung down from the bomb bay for launching in flight. It lands by engaging the hook.

The plane can be fueled and serviced in flight, and can be jettisoned in an emergency.

The plane is powered with a Westinghouse 24C axial flow jet engine capable of 3000 pounds of thrust. At the top estimated speed of the XF-85, around 650 miles an hour, that thrust would equal about 6000 horsepower from a piston engine.

The "parasite" fighter is one answer to the need of long-range bombers for escort. Near the end of the World War II, fighter planes with a combat radius of 1600 miles were developed. However, postwar advances have put bomber range beyond that expectable from fighters.

Russians Quit Safety Group In Police Chief Row at Berlin

Berlin, May 13 (AP).—The Russians walked out of the public safety committee of the Allied Kommandatura today, one of the last functioning major committees of the four-power rule in Berlin.

Lieut. Col. Kotishev, the Russian representative on the committee, gave no indication whether he intended to return for future meetings.

The walkout occurred as the committee was discussing the reasons behind the recent action of Wilhelm Schubert, Russian sector police chief, in offering his resignation.

Paul Markgraf, president of the Berlin Police, was called into the meeting for questioning. At this point, Kotishev left the room.

"It is obvious this was planned," Kotishev said as he rose. He made no further comment.

An American official explained that Markgraf reported to the public safety committee he had received a letter from the Russians stating Schubert recently asked that he be relieved from duty.

Attached to this was a copy of a letter from the Russians ordering Markgraf to accept the resignation.

Markgraf noted on his report, "I have done this," and requested the committee's approval.

"We questioned the reasons behind the acceptance of the resignation and his qualifications," the American informant said. "Then when we attempted to question Markgraf himself, the Russians walked out."

American officials said only the public safety committee may dismiss or accept the resignation of a police official.

"The Russians acted unilaterally in this case," they added.

Americans saw this case as another example of the "creeping paralysis technique" that the Russians have been applying to the Kommandatura in the last three months.

The Russians already have quit seven of the Kommandatura's 18 committees, claiming lack of personnel. They also are attempting to put the functions of the Kommandatura on a meeting-to-meeting basis instead of planning a month ahead as has been the practice.

Gasperi Due To List Cabinet Shifts Saturday

Rome, May 13 (AP).—The indications tonight were that Premier Alcide de Gasperi would have his fifth government ready for the approval of President Luigi Einaudi by Saturday.

The view generally prevailed that De Gasperi would make few changes unless coolness between his Christian Democrats and independent Socialists persists. The Socialists refused their support to Carlo Sforza, Christian Democrat first choice for president, in the election at a joint session of Parliament Tuesday.

Leading newspapers in Rome said De Gasperi took to task yestreday the independent Socialist leader, Vice Premier Guiseppe Saragat, for his lack of "loyal collaboration" as a government member.

Harriman Says U. S. Approves East-West European Trade

London, May 13 (AP).—W. Averell Harriman, roving deputy administrator for the Marshall Plan, said today the United States "recognizes the definite advantages" of continued trade between western and eastern Europe.

He said the United States would not interfere with interchange of goods between the two parts of Europe but stringent precautions would be taken to prevent any transshipment of American goods to Russia and its satellites which might be used as war material.

He denied the United States planned to use Europe as a "dumping ground" for its surpluses. He said some surpluses such as fruit and tobacco would be shipped but only to meet definite needs.

Harriman conferred with U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas on Britain's immediate needs. He also conferred with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor in Germany. Tonight he met Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and dined with Douglas and Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer. He leaves for Washington tomorrow.

He said he had "great confidence" that the people of western Europe "can reassert themselves and play a great part in the world's economy."

He will succeed Navy Captain Charles A. Buchanan of Coronado, Calif., who has been Forrestal's aide since the latter took office last fall.

Pro-American Parties Win 61 Korea Seats

Seoul, May 13 (AP).—Pro-American Dr. Syngman Rhee's followers captured at least 61 of the 200 seats in South Korea's constituent assembly.

Dr. Rhee's party, the Society for the Rapid Realization of Korean Independence, won 50 seats and the friendly Dai Dong Youth Party garnered 11 more. Dr. Rhee favors the American form of government for his country.

Tabulators today completed the count from 182 of the 200 precincts that voted in Monday's turbulent election to set up self-government.

Russians Still Hope For U. S. Parley

By Eddy Gilmore

Moscow, May 13 (AP).—Hope still exists among the Russian people that an American-Soviet meeting will result from the recent Moscow conversations between U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

This is despite the fact that the Soviet press today devoted a large part of its space to informing the people of the statements of President Truman and Secretary Marshall and to excerpts from the American and foreign radio and press on the subject of direct American-Soviet negotiations.

Hopes ran very high here with publication of the Tass announcemen Tuesday that the Soviet had accepted what it said was an American invitation to two-power discussions. This feeling may have been diminished by the Truman and Marshal statements but many Russians still held to the view that a get-together is possible.

A Tass dispatch reported Marshall as saying the American Government "does not intend to enter into bilateral conversations with the Soviet Union on questions concerning the interests of other governments."

"He underlined," said the dispatch, "that any conversations on the most important international questions must take place in organs on which lies the responsibility for such questions."

Tass said President Truman declared American policy, as made clear during recent months, "has the support of a majority of the American people. That policy will be continued vigorously and firmly. On the other hand the United States Government wants to make perfectly clear that the United States has no hostile or aggressive intentions against the Soviet Union."

Truman Still Doubts Peace

failed, it would "do the world great harm."

President Truman was asked yesterday whether he saw the confidential statement that U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith gave to Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, and which the latter had broadcast over the Moscow radio.

Mr. Truman said the statement was discussed with Secretary Marshall at a Cabinet meeting. Ambassador Smith, he explained, was authorized to paraphrase the statement in talking to Molotov, and that's just what he did.

"When Ambassador Smith referred to the political speeches in this country that might be misleading to the Soviet mind," a reporter asked, "whose speeches did he have in mind and what kind of speeches?"

The President, smiling, said he didn't know, and he observed that the reporter would hardly be able to ask Ambassador Smith.

On the Hill, House Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois said that "the least we can do" would be to accept Russia's suggestion of a peace conference.

"Certainly talk should not decrease hopes for peace," he said.

Representative Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.) chairman of the House Rules Committee, said Mr. Truman's "puzzling efforts to shut off the chance for talks certainly are not enhancing the opportunities for peace."

"Americans generally want peace, with honor and without appeasement," he said.

3 Clergy Groups Hear Truman

By the Associated Press

President Truman talked to three groups of clergymen yesterday. The subject in each instance was peace.

He told 400 Catholic priests that the United States foreign policy is built around the Sermon on the Mount.

A delegation from the American Council of Christian Churches reported after a separate conference that the President told them he was "glad to find a bunch of preachers who are not pacifists."

And three Presbyterian ministers came out of Mr. Truman's office quoting him as saying the United States has never ceased to have confidence that this country can get along with Russia.

The priests were here attending a reunion of the alumni association of the North American College of Rome.

The delegation of a dozen or more representatives of the American Council of Christian Churches gave the President a copy of the council's program for 'freedom and peace." It said, among other things:

"We reject the 'program for peace' offered April 30 by the Federal Council of Churches as being based on pacifist principles, playing into Russia's hands, stimulating a desire and condition leading to appeasement and hesitancy in facing Russia, and designed to lead America away from her free economy and toward a socialistic order."

British Royalty Meet 7 From D. C.

London, May 14 (AP).—Socially prominent Americans were received at a presentation party in Buckingham Palace today for the first time since before the war.

Escorted by Ambassador and Mrs. Lewis Douglas, 30 of them, including 20 women, joined a throng of some 2500 of many nations in the state apartments. King George, Queen Elizabeth and others of the the royal family moved among the crowd.

"New look" clothes of simple design were favored by the American women, whatever their age.

Americans invited to the party included seven from Washington: Mr. and Mrs. William Beck and daughter, Elizabeth Norwood Beck, of Washington, D. C. Beck is U. S. Consul General at Southampton.

Navy Capt. and Mrs. William O. Floyd and daughter, Elizabeth, of Washington, D. C. Captain Floyd's hometown is Healdsburg, Calif.; Mrs. Floyd's Trenton, N. J.

Unexpectedly, as is her way, the Queen shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Beck and their daughter, Elizabeth, as she moved among the guests. The daughter, 22, graduated last year from Wellesley after having attended Maret School in Washington. She is studying at the Royal College of Art in Edinburgh. Mrs. Beck is a native of Norfolk, Va., and later lived in Smithfield, Va.

"We were most impressed by the delightful informality," Mrs. Beck commented.

Mrs. James P. Clay, wife of Captain Clay, of 3062 Porter st. nw., Washington, D. C., put in, "I think a party like this is the highlight of any visitor's life—and of any Briton's, too.

"I shook hands with the Queen Mother," said Mrs. Paul G. Linaweaver of Hancock, Md., wife of Captain Linaweaver. "She said she hoped we were having a good time. She certainly looked like she was enjoying herself."

Miss Floyd thought Princess Margaret looked "very snappy" in smoke blue silk patterned with red polka dots, and a red straw hat.

Culbertson Argues For U. N. Revision

Speedy revision of the U. N. Charter, and "atomic coercion" of Russia if necessary, were urged by Ely Culbertson yesterday before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Culbertson

Culbertson, the bridge expert, is author of a Charter revision plan already backed by 16 Senators and 14 Representatives of both parties. his plan calls for recasting the Security Council, abolishing the veto in cases of aggression, and fixing equal quotas of heavy armaments for the United States, Great Britain and Russia.

"The most important issue of history," he told the committee, is "how to stop 14 godless fanatics in control of an enslaved Russian giant from building atomic bombs." He said Russia probably would have atomic bombs this year or next, with the help of German scientists, and "will produce enough atomic bombs by 1950 to threaten the destruction of scores of American cities, from skies or cellars."

Could Declare Aggression

Under the revised Charter, he said, the Security Council could declare Russia an aggressor if she continued making atomic weapons in defiance of the U. N.'s authority. "Russian then will be given an ultimatum," he declared, "either to stop atomic armament or to evacuate her industrial centers in expectation of immediate atomic coercion."

Representatives John Davis Lodge (R., Conn.), Jacob K. Javits (R., N. Y.), and William G. Fulton (R., Pa.) clashed with Culbertson, saying that the logic of his plan would lead straight to preventive war. But Culbertson insisted his plan would deter Russia from war and would make the U. N. effective for the first time.

Assails Vandenberg Plan

He attacked Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's so-called "working paper" of a resolution for strengthening the U. N., saying "it could better be called a walking paper, leading exactly nowhere."

Anson T. McCook, testifying for the American Legion, indorsed the essentials of the Culbertson plan. Robert J. Bishop, vice president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, called for the earliest possible amendment of the Charter, especially to get rid of the great power veto.

William L. Batt, former vice chiarman of the War Production Board, testified for the United Nations Council of Philadelphia in urging a federal union within the present Charter "of all those countries which will subscribe to and practice a fundamental law of civil liberties and representative government based upon free elections."

to the other trade agreement agencies, however.

3. The Tariff Commission would advise the President "how high and how low he can go in raising and lowering tariff without injuring or threatening to injure domestic economy or impairing the national security." Before making its findings, the commission would hold public hearings.

4. The President is not forced to accept the Tariff Commission recommendations, but if he disregards them he must send Congress a message explaining why. With his message he would send the disputed trade agreement and a copy of the Tariff Commission's report.

5. Congress would then have authority to "veto" the entire agreement. To kill the agreement, both houses would have to pass concurrent resolutions of disapproval within 60 days.

Under the 14-year-old Reciprocal Trade Act, inaugurated by former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the President has final authority to negotiate trade agreements with other nations. Tariffs can be lowered as much as 50 per cent of 1945 rates without congressional approval.

The Gearhart bill, carrying the GOP leadership blessing, not only narrows this authority and restores the Tariff Commission to an independent role, but paves the way for more sweeping modifications next year.

Veto Could Kill Program

It does this through the one-year extension device. Some of the authors of the plan are thinking in terms of Republicans electing a President in November who would be sympathetic to further legislative surgery next year.

The present act expires June 12. Should both House and Senate adopt the proposed or similar modifications, some argue that the President would have little recourse but to sign, as was the case when he signed the last Republican OPA revision. A veto might be tantamount to killing the entire act.

Sawyer Warns Trade Is Vital

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer meanwhile warned that the Nation must have overseas trade to get basic war materials and urged Congress to extend the act.

"Every American has a vital stake in two-way world trade," he said, in a message to the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"Experts say the United States now has less than a 35-year peacetime commercial supply of such things as copper, lead, petroleum and zinc. It is a curious fact that many of us long accustomed to the security of a continent richly endowed with natural resources, have failed to understand that we are in many items becoming a 'have-not' nation."

Spy Picture Opens Without Incident Here

A first showing here of the film, "The Iron Curtain," a portrayal of the Canadian spy trials and Russian espionage activities, went off without incident yesterday.

A police detail was stationed outside of the Capitol Theater here, as a result of disturbances which marked the opening of the film in New York, but the only persons who appeared were ticket buyers or spectators envisioning violence.

The picketing in New York began Tuesday night, by leftist factions, and was met by counterpicketing by Catholic War Veterans. Yesterday, there was a false report that a bomb had been placed in New York's Roxy Theater, one of the 500 motion picture houses where the film will be shown this week.

Counterpicketing was under consideration here—in the event someone started to picket the show—but Max W. Sorenson, National Commander of the Catholic War Veterans, later announced:

"The counterpicketing in New York has brought to the attention of the public the group which was doing the picketing. Other picketing would be anticlimactical."

Commented M. Joseph May, District Commander of the Catholic War Veterans, "We would be foolish to help them put police in an embarrassing position," referring to news photographs which had shown police in a melee with leftish pickets.

Pupils Send Their 'Love' To Hoffman

By Sterling F. Green
Associated Press Reporter

With lots of loving effort and very little misspelling, the first graders of Colfax School, South Bend, Ind., have given their blessings to Paul G. Hoffman and his European Recovery Program.

Hoffman yesterday made public 19 letters from the Colfax 6-year-olds, the only congratulatory letters he has released out of thousands sent to him since he became boss of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Wrote Vernon Litton: "My daddy is a preacher and he said if we had more men like you he would not have to preach so hard. I love you."

And from Stephanie Pawlak: "Mr. Truman took you away from where my daddy works. Maybe that is because you are such a kind man. Mr. President awt (Sic) to know we pray for you."

There were a few specific suggestions to help out the recovery program. All were carefully read by Hoffman, whose Studebaker Corp. plant at South Bend employs the fathers of some of his well-wishers. For instance:

"Could you send the children that need help a cow? Please let us know how we can help. Colfax School want to help." This was from "Your friend, Joyce Eisenhar."

Gloria Simmons asked:

"Are you giving the poor little girls any dolls? We would like to share our dolls with them. Don't get sick when you get on the boat."

And another:

"I bet the President thinks you are a good man. You like children, don't you? I will help Dad grow onions and spinich so you will have enough to go around. Your little helper, Carmaleta Jones."

Painstakingly printed in pencil on both sides of the paper, these other tributes cheered Hoffman's busy day:

"We learned a prayer that says help us to live in such a way that we may bring about better living for everyone. You are doing it. Youre little friend Bessie Batalis."

"You are a good fellow. We are not going to waste any food so you can feed the Europe people. Your friend, Janice Wolfe."

"We are sorry you went away but we are glad you went to help poor children. We love you, Donna Rybicki."

All the messages were bundled up by Ival F. Newhard, principal of Colfax School, and sent to Washington with the hope that Hoffman would "get the same pleasure in reading them that I did."

Defense Request Cut Back

provided in the 1949 budget." But he didn't say how many.

One defense official, however, said that "it is obvious that the full 66-group program previously projected cannot be provided with 8500 less men."

Here's the way the $2,434,441,000 supplemental estimates were broken down in yesterday's budget message:

Office of the Secretary of Defense, $986,000.
Air Force, $221,794,000.
Army, $1,542,307,000.
Navy, $669,354,000.

A Department of Defense spokesman said that 361 millions of the Army estimate would be spent for the Air Force.

Webb said the Air Force funds will permit an increase of the "active inventory" of USAF planes to 10,297 first and second line aircraft. It will also permit 3000 pilots to be turned out each year.

The Army estimates, Webb said, will permit the land forces to reach a strength of 790,000 officers and men next year and modernize some of the equipment of combat divisions. Under the naval proposals, the Navy and Marine Corps would reach a strength of 567,651 officers and men next year, it was said.

On April 21, when Forrestal presented his compromise defense expansion plan, he said the additional money would permit the services to reach the following strength next year: Army, 790,000; Navy and Marine Corps, 552,000; Air Force, 453,000.

Yesterday's budget message therefore reduced the Air Force by 8500 men and apparently boosted the Navy by 15,000. However, a top Navy officer said last night that Forrestal's figures had not included reservists on active duty and that yesterday's total did.

The supplemental defense program Forrestal outlined to Congress April 21 would have totaled $3,481,000,000 — or $14,481,000,000 in all for the armed forces next year.

Painstakingly printed in pencil on both sides of the paper, these other tributes cheered Hoffman's busy day:

"We learned a prayer that says help us to live in such a way that we may bring about better living for everyone. You are doing it. Youre little friend Bessie Batalis."

"You are a good fellow. We are not going to waste any food so you can feed the Europe people. Your friend, Janice Wolfe."

"We are sorry you went away but we are glad you went to help poor children. We love you, Donna Rybicki."

All the messages were bundled up by Ival F. Newhard, principal of Colfax School, and sent to Washington with the hope that Hoffman would "get the same pleasure in reading them that I did."

Defense Request Cut Back

provided in the 1949 budget." But he didn't say how many.

One defense official, however, said that "it is obvious that the full 66-group program previously projected cannot be provided with 8500 less men."

Here's the way the $2,434,441,000 supplemental estimates were broken down in yesterday's budget message:

Office of the Secretary of Defense, $986,000.
Air Force, $221,794,000.
Army, $1,542,307,000.
Navy, $669,354,000.

A Department of Defense spokesman said that 361 millions of the Army estimate would be spent for the Air Force.

Webb said the Air Force funds will permit an increase of the "active inventory" of USAF planes to 10,297 first and second line aircraft. It will also permit 3000 pilots to be turned out each year.

The Army estimates, Webb said, will permit the land forces to reach a strength of 790,000 officers and men next year and modernize some of the equipment of combat divisions. Under the naval proposals, the Navy and Marine Corps would reach a strength of 567,651 officers and men next year, it was said.

On April 21, when Forrestal presented his compromise defense expansion plan, he said the additional money would permit the services to reach the following strength next year: Army, 790,000; Navy and Marine Corps, 552,000; Air Force, 453,000.

Yesterday's budget message therefore reduced the Air Force by 8500 men and apparently boosted the Navy by 15,000. However, a top Navy officer said last night that Forrestal's figures had not included reservists on active duty and that yesterday's total did.

The supplemental defense program Forrestal outlined to Congress April 21 would have totaled $3,481,000,000—or $14,481,000,000 in all for the armed forces next year.

Recovery Progress To Guide Hoffman

By Ferdinand Kuhn jr.
Post Reporter

ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman announced yesterday that he would judge European nations' policies by one yardstick—whether or not they contributed to recovery.

He was testifying at the start of Senate Appropriations Committee hearings on the ECA's request for $4,245,000,000 for its first year's work.

What about nationalization in England? Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho) asked him.

Recovery Is Sole Aim

"We believe our business is recovery," Hoffman answered. "I don't think influencing government trends in Europe is our job, unless we are instructed otherwise."

For example, he said, if the British sought American machinery for their nationalized coal mines, and if it would help production, he would support the request. If they sought American help for steel mills, and then decided to nationalize the steel industry at the expense of production, he would oppose it.

What about the revival of cartels in Europe? asked Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), who feared American help might be used to promote combinations in restraint of trade.

Production Is Stressed

"If the Europeans should come to us with a cartel plan that would double production, I'd encourage it," said Hoffman, emphasizing his own "great antagonism" to cartels. "I don't think we should start a crusade to get our system adopted in Europe overnight. I hope we can keep our minds beamed on recovery."

He insisted, however, that the United States had a "perfect right" to look at the over-all economic programs of European nations, and to see that they were keeping their pledges made last summer. "What we are going to do," he said, "is to say our dollars are going into your country only if you do this, this and this."

Senator Guy Cordon (R., Oreg.) drew the assurance that a recipient country would have to stop sending war materials to Russia "or we stop furnishing aid." Hoffman said he regarded himself as bound by the Economic Cooperation Act, which directed him to stop such traffic in war materials to eastern Europe "insofar as practicable."

Other Points Made

In a prepared statement, and under friendly cross-examination by the committeee, Hoffman made these points among others:

1. Most of ECA's shipments in the first quarter-year will be food, but by the third quarter, from July 1 to September 31 of this year, "we are hoping the emphasis will be on recovery items." Hoffman said he was "worried" by the amount that had to be put into outright relief goods at the expense of machinery and other recovery supplies.

2. British recovery is "a very rugged problem," although the British are making determined efforts to boost their exports. The ECA intends to set up a strong economic mission in London.

3. The ECA has not yet paid for one ounce of newsprint imported into Britain from Canada. Its objective is to develop newsprint sources in Europe to meet European needs.

Thousands Seek Jobs

4. The ECA has already "carded and classified" more than 32,000 job applications. It hopes to keep its staff down to 500 in the United States and 1000 in Europe and China.

Hoffman disclosed that he was setting up a group of outstanding financiers and economists to advise him on the disposition of the local currency funds to be set aside by the European nations. These funds will be equivalent to the amount of free grants from the United States; they can be used for purposes to be agreed upon by the United States and the country involved.

The new advisory group, it was learned later, will be headed by George L. Harrison, president of the New York Life Insurance Co.

Physicist Tells How to Check Uranium Ore

Expert advice on how to qualify for that $10,000 bonus the Atomic Energy Commission has offered for discovery of new sources of uranium was given last night by Dr. Clement J. Rodden, National Bureau of Standards physicist.

The quickest way to estimate the uranium in an ore, Dr. Rodden said, is to compress the mineral into a small pill, then measure its radioactivity with a Geiger counter.

Chemical methods for analyzing uranium, he said, require that the metal first be separated from other elements which would otherwise confuse the results. So it's quicker and simpler to do it the Geiger counter way.

Of course, one does need a Geiger counter and something suspiciously like uranium.

Dr. Rodden spoke before members attending the spring divisional meeting of the Chemical Society of Washington, in sessions at the University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Dr. James M. Hundley and Howard W. Bond, of the National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md., told of discovery of a new technique which may help in study of effects of tryptophane deficiences. Tryptophane is an essential amino acid, and amino acids could be to drug store trade what vitamins are today if they didn't cost so much to produce and could be made more palatable.

travel and bar them from Federal employment; require labeling of mail material as from a Communist organization; and plug loopholes in the laws permitting deportation of noncitizen Communists.

Representative Mundt said today that he and numerous other legislators have received fake messages purporting to be from prominent citizens in recent days opposing the measure. Subsequent back checks have proved many forgeries, he revealed.

Meanwhile the House approved an appropriation bill to provide $55,859,690 to operate Congress and other related agencies during the new fiscal year. It contains a clause similar to that in other recent appropriations bills prohibiting use of the money to pay members of a labor union whose officers have not signed anti-Communist affidavits.

Brazil's AntiRed Plan Faces Fight

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, May 13 (UP). — President Eurico Gaspar Dutra's plan to eradicate Brazilian Communism is having rough going in the joint congressional committee examining it.

Dutra has recommended a bill empowering the executive to combat and punish sabotage, terrorism, subversive propaganda and other such activities not covered by existing legislation.

Opposition to Dutra's new proposal arises chiefly from fear that its provisions may be applied not only to Communists but to any government opponent.

Outlawed Communists, meanwhile, were working in the cellars, from which they kept up their propaganda barrages blaming "Yankee imperialism," "colonialism" and "corrupt democracy" for the poverty and other ills

Secret Data Bill Is Voted

Senate leaders, who view the Hoffman bill with something less than enthusiasm, indicated that it might be pigeonholed.

The Hoffman bill, as passed by the House, would require all governmental agencies to make available confidential information demanded by congressional committees and provide penalties for members of Congress or their employes who divulged any such secrets.

Several important changes were made in the measure before its passage. These included:

1. An amendment, adopted without opposition, to exempt news neporters from the bill. This was proposed by Representative Clarence Brown (R., Ohio), a newspaper publisher, who charged that without such an amendment the bill would abridge freedom of the press.

2. An amendment exempting from the bill information already classified by law as secret, such as that dealing with atomic energy.

3. A rider to prohibit Government officials from taking State papers from official files when they leave office. This was sponsored by Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.), who said it was aimed to correct abuses under both Republican and Democratic administrations.

Meanwhile, some new light was shed yesterday on the mystery of how the House Un-American Activities Committee had obtained a partial text of the supposedly secret Condon loyalty report.

Clark Charges Theft

Attorney General Tom Clark, speaking at a National Press Club luncheon, accused the committee of "stealing" the report. Relating that he had investigated the circumstances under which the committee had obtained the information, he declared: "It's the first time I've heard of anyone stealing something and then asking someone else to produce it."

This charge provoked Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.), a member of the committee, to offer this explanation of the event:

"It was all very official," he said. "We wrote a letter asking to see the letter and the Commerce Department agreed. When our investigator started to copy the letter, he was stopped. That's why we don't have the complete letter."

The Condon report, in the form of a letter signed by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, was originally kept in the files of the Commerce Department, which has jurisdiction over the Bureau of Standards. It was recently moved to the White House by order of the President.

Precedents Are Cited

Clark, citing precedents for Mr. Truman's refusal to give up the report, said that at least 11 other Presidents had turned down similar demands by Congress.

"We shall protect the confidential reports of the investigative agencies of the government," he added.

The Hoffman bill would require any government agency created by Congress to make available any information sought by a majority of a Congressional committee with the approval of the House Speaker or Senate President.

Any official refusing to comply would be subject to penalties of a year in jail and a $1000 fine. Once it received such information, the committee could decide by a majority vote whether to make it public.

On the final roll call vote, 210 Republicans and 9 Democrats voted for the measure. Only 8 Republicans joined 132 Democrats and the 2 American Labor members in opposition.

Christian Science Church Opposes Liquor License

Forty members of First Church of Christ Scientist yesterday protested Edward N. Myles' proposal to change his ABC license so he can sell liquor as well as wine and beer at Myles' Steak House, 1759 Columbia rd. nw.

They told the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board there already are too many places selling liquor near the church, at 1770 Euclid st. nw., and another would harm the neighborhood, ABC Chairman Alan W. Payne reported.

Five persons testified in favor of Myles' petition, and said they doubted the proposed change from Class D to Class C retail license would hurt the area, he said. ABC took the case under advisement.

Latest Exchange With Reds Inept, Taft Declares

Hartford, Conn., May 13 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) criticized as a "fiasco" tonight the latest exchange of notes between the United States and Russia.

He referred to it as he asserted that the United States was handling her affairs with Russia "in a completely wavering and inept manner."

He spoke at a Connecticut Chamber of Commerce dinner.

Taft contended that by making the exchange public earlier this week through the Moscow Radio, the Russians had "pushed the (American) Government into the position before the world of refusing to meet the Russians at all."

Such a meeting, said Taft tonight, "properly arranged might be a useful weapon for the accomplishment of peace."

Girl Claims She Lived 9 Years on Water Diet

Nanking, May 13 (AP).—The strange case of a 20-year-old Chinese girl who said she lived on water alone for nine years was reported today by the newspaper Hsin Min Pao.

The newspaper said the public health director at Chungking had confirmed the report. The girl, Yang Mai, was said to have suffered no apparent ill effects.

Valuable Recipes For Thrifty Housewives

Add Only Water & Sugar

LEM

The Egg Yolk Is in It

For Making Lemon Pie, Lemon Cake Filling, Lemon Lady Finger Pie, Lemon Chiffon Pie, Lemon Butter, Lemon Spread, Lemon Pudding

LEMON PIE

Follow the directions on package. Top with meringue or whipped cream.

(Always bake crust first)

LEMON PUDDING

Make up the same as for the pie-filling, pour into individual dishes and chill well. This is a refreshing and economical dessert as you need only water and sugar to make it.

LEMON LADY FINGER PIE

Make up LEM according to directions on package. Now line a glass pie plate with separated lady fingers. Stand half of lady fingers around edge. Fill and top with a meringue and place in oven to brown.

LEMON SAUCE

Make up the LEM as usual, adding, when done, hot water to thin to the desired consistency. Serve over cottage pudding, ginger bread, bread pudding, plum pudding, stale cake, baked apples, or as a sauce over boiled fish. Delicious served hot.

A PACKAGE MAKES ALMOST 2 POUNDS OF LEMON BUTTER & SPREAD

What a Saving on Butter!

Many housekeepers serve lemon butter. It makes a snappy spread for bread or crackers and is mighty good on hot toast. You can serve it, too, instead of jelly with poultry or cold meats. It possesses a distinct health value which should make it a part of the daily menu. Make from LEM according to directions on package.

LEMON CHIFFON PIE

A LUXURY DESSERT

For a chiffon pie-filling or dessert make up LEM as directed on package, using one cup less of water. When cool, add one-half pint of heavy cream which has been whipped with one-half cup sugar. Chill well.

(Always bake crust first)

POTATOES—SAUCE PIQUANTE

Old friend in new dress—potatoes topped with hollandaise-type sauce that's quick and easy to make

½ cup Blue Plate Mayonnaise
½ cup top milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. salt
Pepper to taste
Pinch of thyme (optional)
2 tbsp. chopped pimientos
Paprika

Beat egg yolks; blend in mayonnaise and lemon juice. Heat milk, pimientos, and seasonings in double boiler; stir slowly into egg mixture. Return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes or until thick, stirring constantly. Serve over potatoes in jackets; dust with paprika. Serves 4 to 6. (You need the flavor and smoothness of Blue Plate Mayonnaise to give this sauce just the right zest and creaminess. Blue Plate Mayonnaise—made by the Wesson Oil People.)

ROLLED HAM SLICES—PEANUT BUTTER FILLING

Savory ham just naturally goes with "fresh-roasted" flavor of Blue Plate Peanut Butter

½ lb. (4 large or 8 small slices) boiled ham
3 tbsps. Blue Plate Peanut Butter

Spread Blue Plate Peanut Butter very thinly on slices of tender boiled ham. Roll cone-fashion and secure with toothpicks. Broil quickly until edges of ham begin to curl. Serves 4. (Blue Plate Peanut Butter blends with the salty tang of the ham, makes a little meat go a long way, adds more nourishment to any meal.)

Blue Plate Peanut Butter

Rich in vitamins and proteins. Stays smooth to the bottom of the jar. Keeps "fresh-roasted" flavor.

Weed Poison Eaten For 21 Days in Test

The story of a wartime experiment as daring as any combat adventure was revealed at the Department of Agriculture Bureau of Plant Industry yesterday.

In 1944 the BPI was experimenting with 2, 4-D, a poison used for killing weeds. If successful, it promised to vastly increase crop yields, vitally needed for the war effort.

The main objective was the question of the effect of the chemical upon humans.

Without any advance announcement, Dr. E. J. Kraus, 63, professor of botany at the University of Chicago, and principal plant physiologist at the Beltsville station, went on a 2, 4-D diet.

For 21 days he took 500 milligrams of purified 2, 4-D after midday or evening meals. At the end of that period he reported he had suffered no serious effects.

In spite of Kraus' successful experiment, Bureau scientists are studying if some persons might be allergic to 2, 4-D. In some cases, they said, there were indications that it caused serious rashes, but emphasized that studies are not yet completed.

The work on 2, 4-D in 1944 was a war secret on orders of the Army, with which Kraus was cooperating. Later the Beltsville station tried out similar experiments with farm animals, principally cattle. They were also found to be immune to the chemical.

"Everybody was talking about what effect 2, 4-D used on crops might have on consumers of those crops, but nobody seemed to be doing anything about it," Dr. Kraus told The Washington Post yesterday. "I decided to find out. Please don't play it up. It was nothing."

Last year the use of 2, 4-D as a weed-killer was credited with saving 200,000 acres of corn that had become overrun with weeds during spring floods, the BPI reported. This year more than 15 million pounds will be used, greatly reducing the use of cultivators for eradicating weeds.

Regional School Bill Killed

segregation in the regional schools.

He added that if he failed to secure that protection he would then bring up one after another every one of the civil rights proposals made by President Truman, which so lashed the South into fury.

The regional compact for which approval was sought was drawn up by 15 Southern States after the United States Supreme Court ruled that Southern States must furnish equal educational facilities to Negroes seeking higher education.

Constitutions of most Southern States require segregation and the States maintained that individually they could not set up duplicate facilities for Negroes. On a regional basis, with the States sharing the expense, they could abide by the Supreme Court decree, Southern spokesmen said.

The Southern lawmakers felt such a compact would have to be approved by Congress to be constitutional, but a number of Senators, led by Morse, disagreed. They said the Constitution leaves education in the hands of the States and that there is no requirement for congressional approval.

Party Lines Shown

The vote yesterday divided largely along party lines. Six Democrats—two of them Southerners who did not want the civil rights fight to arise—joined 32 Republicans to shelve the bill. Five Republicans joined 32 Democrats in favor of the measure.

Although he had been a sponsor of the bill, Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.) voted in favor of the Morse proposal and stayed away from the Southern strategy conference yesterday.

Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.), who had shown great interest in the contention the compact need not have congressional approval, also voted against the bill.

Chairman Alexander Wiley (R., Wisc.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee joined in the fight againts the Morse motion.

Wiley argued that segregation was not an issue and was thrown is as a "red herring." He pleaded for passage of the bill because otherwise Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn., which educates 52 per cent of the Nation's Negro doctors, would have to close its doors for lack of funds.

Morse, in turn, said the Meharry issue was a "red herring." He had been assured, he told the Senate, that even if the compact is not approved educational foundations and institutions in this country will not let Meharry close.

Southern Senators picked Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) to lead their fight for the bill.

Russell said leaders in American education agreed that the Southern plan for regional colleges and universities was the "most progressive development in the field of higher education for generations."

Russell had told Southern Senators to stick together and face the segregation and civil rights issues as they came up.

He said he did not believe that on a showdown the Senate would seize upon this measure for a civil rights tests.

The Senate action was hailed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. It said the Senate had "upheld the Constitution of the United States and the United Nations Charter to which this country has subscribed by refusing to put its stamp of approval on racially segregated regional colleges."

Senate Vote On Compact

$577 Drop Noted In Fund Balance At Falls Church

Richmond, Va., May 13 (AP).—State Auditor J. Gordon Bennett reported to the Governor today that an examination of the accounts and records of the town of Falls Church for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1947, showed a decrease in the fund balance of $577.75.

The auditor found that the records and accounts had been kept in proper order.

The decrease in the fund balance resulted from current operations The general fund showed a gain of $11,384.71 to a total of $21,391. The water fund decreased $7960.05 to $33,397.01. The sewer fund decreased $2,923.58 to $25,725.39, and the water debt fund dropped from $13,019.83 to $112.62.

In complimenting the officials on the preparation of their records, the auditor acknowledged the cooperation they extended to his staff.

D. C. University Women Win Ouster Delay

The Washington chapter of the American Association of University Women yesterday won a temporary legal hold on its membership in the National organization.

Its ouster from the parent group has been threatened because of its refusal to admit a Negro to membership.

District Court Justice Bolitha J. Laws granted a preliminary injunction to restrain the National group from taking any ouster action before June 15. At that time, the matter is scheduled for final decision in summary judgment.

The Washington chapter's prevailing ban against granting memberships to Negroes touched off the controversy, the local contending it is empowered to refuse such memberships by virtue of amended by-laws.

National by-laws stipulate that memberships are open to qualified women with college degrees. The local's amendment provides that memberships must have approval of the board of directors here.

The climax came with the local's refusal to admit a Negro woman and the parent group advised that it could not exclude her.

Washington members jammed the corridors and courtroom for yesterday's hearing. At one time the bailiff was forced to call for order. The national group was represented by Attorney Charles A. Horsky. John A. Croghan represented the local chapter.

Among the spectators was the woman who had been refused membership — Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, wife of a former Municipal Court judge. She is a member of the National Association.

The local early this month voted, 448 to 297, for autonomy in answer to the National's ultimatum to change its by-laws or relinquish its charter and rights to the clubhouse at 16th and I sts. nw.

Mrs. Meyer Urges Aid to Education passage of the bill now held up by the House Labor and Education Committee.

"Joe Martin, himself," she said, "told the press that there is more public interest in Federal aid to education than in any other measure now before the Congress and that the bill would surely pass if it is reported out. Mr. Martin has every reason to know about the enormous pressure behind the Federal aid to education bill."

Senate Passed Bill

Mrs. Meyer said that since the Senate passed the bill by an overwhelming majority vote, national organizations and distinguished citizens have been pleading with Speaker Martin to get the bill reported out from the committee. Last week, she pointed out, one delegation, consisting of 20 labor, farm, professional and women's organizations, and representing many million citizens called on Martin to urge the bill's passage.

"He tells everybody the same thing," she declared. "He thinks there are enough votes to pass the bill in the House. He is for it, he says. But we are already spending too much money. We can't afford it."

With House leadership conceding that no national health protection legislation can pass at this session and with doubt that an adequate housing bill, with provision for public housing, can get through, Mrs. Meyer called the Federal aid to education bill "the only measure by which the Republican leadership in the House can demonstrate its interest in the public welfare."

Senate, House Contrasted

Mrs. Meyer contrasted the Senate and House attitudes on the bill and praised the Senate as being "of outstanding ability, courage and statesmanship." Both the Republican and Democratic leadership in the Senate, she said, have made "a distinguished record on national and international questions of the greatest moment." But in the House, she said, action on the education bill is held up, although a majority of House members favor it.

She directed her remarks to Speaker Martin. The power of the Speaker, she said, "is such that he can nullify the wishes of the people and the Congressmen who represent them." The improper exercise of such power, she added, is a "stultification of the democratic process."

Speaking on "Equal Opportunity in Education," Mrs. Meyer told the conference there can never be equal opportunity at the highest levels of education until there is more equality in the preparation given boys and girls in their elementary and grammar schools.

Good Teachers Lacking

"The children who come from States with less per capita wealth or those who come from rural areas and city slums now have the poorest schools," she pointed out. "This militates against their chances of getting to college." But, she added, even the most prosperous States have neglected their schools and teacher-training to such an extent that many students find themselves with inadequate preparation for college.

"Equality of opportunity at the college level is a myth," she declared, "as long as it depends on the geographical area in which the applicant happens to be born. It is a myth for many others whose schools have lost so many of their good teachers that they no longer give their students a sound education."

Citing the urgent need for passage of Federal aid to education Mrs. Meyer told the conference that faith in the democratic principles of this country cannot be sustained "if we ignore our own breeding grounds of Communism on the plea that we are too busy cleaning them up in Europe." She cited a statement by Secretary of State Marshall that Communism is not so much the danger to American security as the conditions that give rise to Communism.

Segregation Discussed

Answering the question, "Why support a bill that recognizes and strengthens segregated public schools?" Mrs. Meyer gave two reasons:

1. Because we need Federal aid to education at once if we are going to "salvage what's left of our school system"—and segregation cannot be eliminated overnight.

2. Because one of the most practical methods of working our way out of segregation is to make Negro schools just as good as white schools. The present bill, she said, is a first and essential step in this direction.

Mrs. Meyer outlined provisions in the report of the President's Commission on Higher Education which, among other things, recommended repeal of segregation legislation or, where this could not be done at present, the establishment of "truly equal" educational facilities for Negroes from the lowest to highest levels.

"Only as the opportunity for higher education," she declared, "is equalized for every potential student who has the interest and ability to profit from higher education, can the ideals of democracy in education be realized."

A scholarship program recommended by the President's commission, she said, is necessary, but essential to this and all other attempts to equalize opportunity is immediate passage by the House of the Federal education bill for Federal aid to schools on the lower educational levels.

"Only if our children start with an even chance," she said, "will they have an equal chance in later life."

The three-day conference will end today with sessions devoted to equality on an international level. Speakers today will be Edward H. Lawson, of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, and Robert K. Gardiner, area specialist with the United Nations Trusteeship division.

Meanwhile, in a statement yesterday the National Education Association defended the pending Federal aid to education bill against charges it might open the door to Federal control of public schooling.

"There can be no Federal control unless Congress writes it into the legislation," Willard E. Givens, executive secretary of the association, said. "This legislation contains no clause which permits Federal control. It does contain a strict prohibition against it."

Givens' statement compared the bill with Federal highway, social security and vocational education legislation now on the statute books.

Churchill Sees Cheers For 'Causes,' Not Him

Oslo, Norway, May 13 (U.P.).—Winston Churchill gave his own reason today for his world-wide prestige.

Speaking from the balcony of Oslo's town hall, he told 12,000 cheering Norwegians that they applauded him "not as a tribute to my personality, such as it may be, but because I have become, by the grace of God, associated with causes which are of greatest importance to, mankind, freedom human dignity and honor."

Vandenberg's Ideas Blasted by Wallace

Detroit, May 13 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace, stepping up his presidential campaign, opened a three-week speaking tour with a bitter blast against Michigan Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg here tonight.

Wallace, the Progressive Party candidate, criticized the legislative record of Vandenberg in a speech prepared for delivery at a rally sponsored by the Progressive Party of Michigan.

Vandenberg, president pro tem of the Senate, has been mentioned frequently as a possible Republican presidential nominee.

Formulators of American foreign policy and big business also were assailed by Wallace. He cited the Progressive Party as the only means of ushering in "the century of the common man."

Wallace accused Vandneberg of adhering to the "Hamiltonian idea of government for the benefit of the rich and well-born."

The Michigan Senator, he said, "epitomizes the whole philosophy which dominates our national and international policies today." That philosophy, Wallace described as one of unlimited power of international big business.

He criticized the Senator from Michigan for "lack of concern for Poland, failure to oppose rebuilding of the Nazi war industries in Germany and failure to "speak up in defense of the democracy which the Jewish people have begun to build in Palestine."

Wallace said Michigan Democrats had persuaded him not to criticize Vandenberg in 1946 just before the Senator was reelected by a "landslide" vote. He said he "had to delete the name of Arthur Vandenberg from my address."

"We are going to have a century of the common man," Wallace declared. "The peoples of the world are on the march and the devil and all his angels cannot prevail against them."

The Gallup Poll

Stassen and Vandenberg Gain In Republican Popularity Poll

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., May 13.—Harold A. Stassen and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg have both gained in popularity throughout the rank and file of Republican voters as choices for the presidential nomination.

The latest survey by the Institute among Republicans finds Stassen in the lead for the second consecutive time, with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey pushing him and comfortably ahead of the rest of the field. Senator Vandenberg runs in third place in this pre-nomination GOP popularity derby, displacing Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who runs next, followed by Senator Robert A. Taft.

The majority of the interviews in today's survey were conducted before the Ohio primary and therefore do not reflect sentiment since that election. The effect of that check on Stassen's series of primary sweeps, and the corresponding tonic to the campaign of Senator Taft, will be determined in new surveys which are now in progress.

The coast-to-coast standings of the various candidates were found to be as follows among voters who classified themselves as Republicans: A comparison with a similar survey reported April 25 is also shown.

	April 25	Today
Stassen	31%	37%
Dewey	29	24
Vandenberg	10	13
MacArthur	16	12
Taft	9	8
Warren	2	2
Joseph Martin	1	1
No choice	2	3

To be placed in proper perspective today's poll results should be analyzed with the following points in mind.

1. A Nation-wide test of popularity such as this cannot be construed in an individual State.

The record of recent primaries shows very clearly that the popularity of the various GOP candidates varies from State to State. Thus, Stassen who won the Wisconsin primary had previously run a poor second to Governor Dewey in the New Hampshire primary. In Nebraska and in Pennsylvania, Stassen had the lead, but in Ohio he achieved, in the eyes of most observers, only a draw with Taft.

What the national polls of the Institute attempt to do is to conduct an informal Nation-wide "primary" in which a cross-section of all the voters in the Republican Party have a chance to speak their minds not merely on one or two candidates, but on all the candidates.

2. As every political observer knows, primaries are no indication whatever of how the delegates to the nominating convention will cast their ballots.

History shows that candidates who won the primaries before convention were often passed over by the delegates. Similarly, the fact that any candidate is popular in a public opinion poll prior to convention-time is no indication whatever that he will necessarily be nominated.

The rise of Stassen's popularity over the past few months has been charted in the regular polls conducted by the Institute, and is shown in the following table.

	Feb.	Mar.	Apr.	Today
Dewey	38%	34%	29%	24%
Stassen	15	15	31	37
MacArthur	14	19	16	12
Vandenberg	6	13	10	13
Taft	15	12	9	8
Other	2	1	*	*

Senator O'Conor Declared Winner in Maryland

After 18 months' investigation, the Senate Rules Committee, yesterday declared Senator Herbert R. O'Conor, twice Democratic Governor of Maryland, to be the Free State's duly elected junior member of the United States Senate.

The committee, with eight Republicans and five Democrats voting, unanimously ratified the election, contested by the Republican candidate, D. John Markey of Walkersville, since November, 1946, when O'Conor was counted winner by only 2232 votes, out of a total of 472,232 ballots cast.

The contested election still has to come up before the full Senate, but the unanimous action of the Republican-dominated Rules Committee assures clearance for O'Conor.

No sooner were the Maryland senatorial elections officially announced than Markey filed a protest with the Senate Rules Committee, charging irregularities.

A subcommittee, headed by Senator William E. Jenner (R., Ind.), hired special investigators and began digging into the election.

Although O'Conor's election was contested, his right to sit in the Senate never was challenged.

District GOP Convention Names Delegates, Drafts Plank for Federal Suffrage Vote

The District of Columbia Republican convention last night adopted a platform which included a call for a constitutional amendment to give the District representation in Congress and in the electoral college.

An 11-plank platform was adopted unanimously by the 80-odd convention delegates meeting at the Willard Hotel. The delegates heard Speaker of the House Joe Martin predict victory for District home rule.

Two other planks relating to the District also were included in the platform:

1. "We oppose the practice of using appointments to positions in the local government of the District of Columbia as a reward for political activities rendered in the States by nonresidents of the District of Columbia.

2. "We favor larger and more equitable appropriations by the United States Government to the operating expenses of the District of Columbia."

Other planks urged a strong Army, Navy and Air Force, maintenance of private enterprise economy, elimination of Communists from Government service, a "consistent" foreign policy, recognition of the principle of the least government the better, reaffirmation of loyalty to Republican principles, and "equal rights and equal responsibilities" for both management and labor with the public interest "paramount."

The convention elected E. F. Colladay, attorney; Mrs. William S. Culbertson, former president of the Women's Republican Club, and George Arthur Parker, dean of the Robert H. Terrell Law School here, as delegates to the National Republican Convention next month in Philadelphia.

Elected as alternates were Clarence B. Hewes, 2358 Massachusetts ave., a retired diplomat; Mrs. Elizabeth E. Botts, 220 D st. ne., vice president of the Young Republican Club, and Jesse H. Mitchell, 111 W st. nw., president of the Industrial Bank of Washington.

Clyde D. Garrett, attorney, was nominated as national Republican committeeman to represent the District, and Mrs. Thad H. Brown, widow of the former Ambassador and one-time Lieutenant Governor of Ohio, as national committeewoman.

With frequent victory predictions and smooth-working harmony, the convention heard only brief references to a party insurrection, led by Paul J. Foley, which resulted in a court suit to invalidate last week's District Republican election of precinct delegates and to prevent election of national convention delegates.

James C. Wilkes, attorney, elected convention chairman, commented at the beginning of the meeting that "they (the insurgents) could hardly be called insurgents, because they were never in a Republican party from which they could insurge."

Wallace Backers Hit On 3 Fronts

Atlanta, May 13 (AP).—Supporters of Henry A. Wallace reported setbacks today on three fronts in the deep South.

Barfoot

James Barfoot, Wallace's proposed candidate for Governor in Georgia, said he had been fired from his assistant professorship at the University of Georgia at Athens, and that he planned to fight the ouster on the principle of academic freedom.

Dean O. C. Aderhold said Barfoot's political activities had become so extensive and involved that his effectiveness as a teacher was impaired.

The University of Georgia today cancelled a contract with an educational film service whose staff members attended a Wallace-for-President meeting. Nicholas Read, director of the service, said "Aparently they feel we have been indiscreet."

Read said he and two other members of the film service staff, Gordon Weisenborn and Mrs. Nina Finn, attended the meeting "to hear the pros and cons of the third party movement in Georgia."

At Miami, Fla., three University of Miami instructors, Dr. Leonard Cohen, jr., Dr. Charles C. Davis and Professor Daniel D. Ashkenas, told a student rally that they were fired because they supported Wallace.

In Georgia, the first Negro candidate for major office since reconstruction days, was denied a ballot in Wednesday's Bib County Democratic primary.

Larkin Marshall, publisher of a Negro weekly at Macon and candidate for the United States Senate on Wallace's Peoples Progressive Party ticket, was denied a ballot when he refused to sign a pledge of allegiance to the Democratic Party.

Debate Plans For Stassen, Dewey Argued

Portland, Oreg., May 13 (U.P.).—Representatives of Harold E. Stassen and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey failed today for the second time to agree on terms of a historic debate on campaign issues.

Stassen, meanwhile, predicted he will defeat Dewey in the Oregon election May 21. They are the sole contestants in the Republican presidential primary.

The four-day debate over the proposed debate went on. John Higgins, the Dewey representative, and Robert Elliott, the Stassen representative, met for the second time with Donald R. Van Poskirk, chairman of the Multnomah County Central Committee, in an attempt to arrange a joint appearance of the two candidates.

"We agreed on a good many points, but will have to meet again," Van Boskirk said.

Stassen said he wanted the debate to be held where the people can "see it, hear it and participate in it, and where the press can be present."

Dewey advocated a radio debate, and his spokesman asserted Stassen was seeking a "circus or hippodrome" where the crowd would "heckle and applaud."

"I am perfectly willing that the debate be broadcast nationally," Stassen said. "There may be heckling and applause, but that's part of the American way.

Dewey Ends 2nd Phase Of Oregon Campaign

Hood River, Ore., May 13 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey ended the second phase of his Oregon primary campaign tonight, completing a tour through eastern Oregon and the Columbia River Valley. He has been campaigning two weeks.

He was to arrive here late tonight, and speak Friday from the courthouse steps. Ninety minutes later, Harold E. Stassen speaks from the same steps as he starts his final Oregon drive that will take him to Klamath Falls and through the Willamette Valley this weekend.

Stassen Picks Up Four Delegates in Florida

Tallahassee, Fla., May 13 (AP).—Harold E. Stassen has picked up 4 of Florida's 16 delegates to the Republican National Convention. Thomas E. Dewey got one.

office in the District Court building, but he said he could make no comment on the course of the gambling investigation beyond stating that he was still receiving a steady flow of information.

Tentative plans for an appearance by Fay on a District Bar Association radio program on Sunday, were cancelled yesterday, because of Fay's position in the gambling investigation.

3d St. Man Charged In Numbers Operation

Vice squad detectives yesterday arrested William R. Bailey, 43, of 1013 3d st. ne., and charged him with possession of numbers slips and operating a lottery at that address.

Lieut. Roy Blick, vice squad chief, said undercover men made numbers plays with Bailey, and th[illegible] marked money and numbers sl[illegible] were taken in the raid.

Celibate Bull's Sale Canceled

Kansas City, May 13 (AP).—A Federal judge decided today a champion bull's "aristocratic" bearing and his blue show ribbons were practically worthless unless he could become a father.

Consequently Judge Richard M. Duncan ruled a $10,600 auction bid on Eileenmere, 627th, did not have to be paid.

"Alas, while his meretricious charms have made him a champion in the show ring, they were unavailing in the mating pen. The cruel hand of fate destined the great Eileenmere 627th to be celibate," the judge commented.

Owned by the Miller Brothers of Arcola, Ill., the regal bull had won grand championships at 11 shows and championship of his class at another, before he was 2 years old. He was bought at an auction by J. C. Penney, Missouri-born chain store merchant.

Steel Union Heads To Decide on Oath

Boston, May 13 (AP).—The CIO's biggest union, Philip Murray's United Steelworkers, today instructed its 41-man executive board to decide whether it should hold out longer against the Taft-Hartley law at the cost of new contracts.

Murray, head of both the steelworkers and the CIO, described as an "enormous determination" the executive board's task to decide whether the union will file non-Communist affidavits under the law. He told the convention:

"All the basic steel companies have advised me it is not their intention to renegotiate new wage agreements with our unions at the expiration of the present contracts, if the union has not complied with the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act."

Murray named United States Steel, Republic, Inland, Wheeling, and Allegheny as the companies.

In Cleveland, a Republic Steel spokesman said: "The Taft-Hartley law has nothing to do with the wage increase refusal, which is apparently the meaning in Murray's renegotiating agreements statement."

A late afternoon session was enlivened when Murray termed "a palpable lie" a statement made by Delegate Nick Migas of East Chicago, Ind. Later Migas was rescued by police from a group of fist-swinging men outside Mechanics Building.

Police Fail to Disperse Meat Pickets

PACKERS WIN A ROUND—Near the entrance to the Swift & Co. plant in South St. Paul, Minn., pickets battle police who sought to break through their lines. Cops, seeking to clear a blocked street, gave up their attempt. Note woman watching the fray from cafe window

South St. Paul, Minn., May 13 (AP).—Picket lines of the striking CIO Packinghouse Workers held firm here today against efforts by police and sheriff's officers to open them.

The pickets used their fists to drive back the 17 officers who tried to go through lines blocking the Swift plant entrance. The officers carried guns but did not use them. Several officers were struck and two were knocked down, but none was badly hurt.

Before the attempt was made, Sheriff Norman Dieter used a loudspeaker system to read to the pickets a court order prohibiting mass picketing and directing pickets not to block streets. The Nation-wide strike started March 16. The union asked a 29-cents-per-hour wage increase.

Chief of Police Louis Fuller said he would not try to open the lines again today because he had too few men.

One picket was arrested and Chief Fuller said others recognized by the officers would be picked up as soon as warrants could be issued. Officers said any or all of five charges might be filed against them: assault, inciting a riot, resisting arrest, obstructing traffic and unlawful assembly.

Later 200 men and women, identifying themselves as both union and non-union employes, called on Gov. Luther Youngdahl at the capitol in St. Paul. They said they wanted to return to work and asked what he intended to do about the violence.

The Governor said he would not permit violence to continue and that he would throw "the full force of my office behind efforts to help out this situation."

The strike started on a Nation-wide basis March 16. The union asked for a 29-cent-an-hour increase.

Later the governor said that he would have "no alternative" but to "call out the National Guard to restore law and order" if "local officials" are incapable of enforcing the law after "a sincere effort."

Governor May Mediate Chrysler Corp. Strike

Detroit, May 13 (AP).—State intervention in the two-day-old strike of 75,000 Chrysler Corp. employes loomed today as battle lines were drawn for a long siege.

Gov. Kim Sigler said he planned to "inject" himself into the dispute as soon as officers of the company and the CIO United Auto Workers have "a chance to cool off."

The Governor disclosed that he, personally, was considering mediation of the strike. Ne said he also wanted to settle once and for all whether the State has a right to require a strike vote before a walkout can be called legally.

No State-conducted vote had been held in the 12 Michigan Chrysler plants before yesterday's strike, which also closed four factories in Indiana and California.

The State's Bonine-Tripp Act, enacted last year, requires a ballot by the State Labor Mediation Board. A majority of all employes must favor a walkout to make it legal.

UAW officials contend the law does not apply to interstate corporations like Chrysler, despite an attorney general's ruling to the contrary.

Meanwhile the union dug in for a long holdout and sought to tighten its picket lines.

Soup kitchens were set up near most of the plant gates. Plans were laid for helping any needy strikes.

Tractor Strike Ends After NLRB Vote

Peoria, Ill., May 14 (AP).—Operations were resumed today at the sprawling Caterpillar Tractor Co. plant here, about seven hours after the CIO United Farm Equipment Workers union called off a 35-day strike.

The union officials ended the strike shortly before last midnight and ordered the picket lines withdrawn immediately. The action was taken after results of yesterday's NLRB election, from which the union was barred, failed to decide a bargaining agent.

Hundreds of workers began arriving for duty at 7 a. m. as 200 policemen patrolled the outer gates of the plant. The officers said the back-to-work movement was quiet and orderly.

The plant, which normally employs about 20,000 workers, had been idle since the walkout on April 6.

Toll Operators Alerted for Strike

The Nation's 25,000 long-distance telephone operators and workers were alerted by union officers yesterday to stand by for a strike, possibly on 24 hours' notice.

This latest labor worry developed yesterday afternoon when Government-aided negotiations between the CIO operators and the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. collapsed.

Temporary Extension Rejected

William N. Margolis, assistant director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said he tried—in the interest of "continued service"—to have the company extend the existing contract temporarily. It expired Saturday. A union proposal to retain it on a day-to-day basis was rejected.

The union wants a wage increase of 30 cents an hour, and says its members now average about $1.21 an hour. In a counteroffer, the phone company said it would maintain present wages and working conditions for two years, with an opportunity to reopen wage discussions once in that period. In addition, pay adjustments would be made now in about 100 towns.

The workers involved average about 38 hours a week, earning about $45.

Moran to See Murray

A strike of the long-lines operators, maintenance men and allied employes in Washington and the 42 States where the union has members could paralyze the Nation's communications, affecting national radio hookups and news wires as well.

Last year, such a strike ran for about a month. At that time, it also included local operators and other phone workers, because all were then under the National Federation of Telephone Workers. Out of the NFTW reorganization grew Moran's AUTW and the independent Communications Workers of America, headed by Joseph A. Beirne.

Moran said he was going to Boston to talk over the situation with CIO President Philpi Murray. He said his union would expect the support of other telephone workers, including the rival Beirne union.

District Indirectly Affected

Company officials said they'd be glad to continue negotiations in New York, where both the union and company have headquarters, even with Federal mediation officials sitting in. Moran said this wouldn't do, adding there was no alternative but a walkout.

Although no strike vote has been taken, a strike could be called at any time by the union's nine-man executive board. Six of its members are on the negotiating committee. Observers agreed the strike, if called, could come next week.

Moran's union has no long-distance operators in Washington, but there is an AUTW local covering an estimated 250 long-lines maintenance workers here. Long-distance calls here are handled by local operators, members of CWA. But the District would be affected, a union official pointed out, since there would presumably be only a skeleton supervisory staff in other cities to handle long-distance calls originating or terminating here.

Trial Slated To End Today

The District Court trial of five men charged with a $100,000 union-looting conspiracy is scheduled to end today.

After Justice Alexander Holtzoff refused to direct a verdict of acquittal for any of the defendants, the Government began summing up the case which has involved several weeks of testimony.

Defendants are four members of the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union and a builder. They are Faust Moreschi, son of the president of the International; George Morgan, former financial secretary of Local 74; Joseph Speed, former business agent of Local 74; Evans H. Hamilton, one-time recording secretary of Local 74, and Isaac Weiner of Leonardtown, Md., a construction man.

They are charged with conspiring to loot the treasury of various locals in tnis area of almost $100,000 in 1941 and 1942.

Truman to Present Medal to Boy Lifesaver

An 11-year-old schoolboy here will today receive from President Truman an honor medal for his "alertness" in snatching a chum from the path of an automobile.

Ronald

Local winner of the American Automobile Association lifesaving award is Ronald Weaver, son of Mrs. Gladys V. Weaver, of 809 Otis pl. nw., a 5-B student at the Raymond School. He is among 16 school children throughout the Nation scheduled to be honored here today.

Ronald was cited by the AAA for his quickness on April 6 while on school safety patrol duty at New Hampshire ave. and Princeton pl. nw. Then, the citation read, just as a group of children had reached the center of New Hampshire ave. a coupe approached.

A lad identified only as Sammy Newshaw broke from the group, said the citation, and darted back for the curb. But "with quickness and alertness," he was seized by Ronald and pulled out of the way. The coupe was braked to a curving halt and then driven away.

The American Automobile Association said the presentations would precede a series of events in the National School Safety Patrol Parade and Rally to be staged here annually. A special entertainment at Sylvan Theater, on the Washington Monument grounds, is scheduled for tonight.

Saturday's parade, scheduled to march down Constitution ave., beginning at 10 a. m., is to include an estimated 15,000 school safety patrol corpsmen from all over the Nation, said its sponsors, the AAA.

N. Y. Auto Club Bans Trip to Washington

New York, May 13 (AP).—Fifty-one New York schoolboys will be treated to a ball game instead of a two-day trip to Washington tomorrow—because four of them would have been "segregated" in the National Capital.

The boys, chosen as outstanding traffic "safety patrolmen" at public and parochial schools, were to have represented New York at the observance of School Safety Patrol Day.

William J. Gottleib, president of the Automobile Club of New York, said he was cancelling the trip because "practices of segregation" would have isolated four Negro boys from the group.

He said that when he contacted Washington hotels, he learned that the four boys would have been segregated into certain hotels that accept Negro guests. They could not have eaten their meals with the others, he said.

Instead, the group, ranging from 12 to 16 years, will be honored at New York's City Hall tomorrow, and will then be treated to a baseball game here.

White House Gets Bill for 6-Year RFC Extension

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation got a new lease on life yesterday.

The Senate approved and sent to the White House a bill to extend the agency's lending powers until June 30, 1954, and allow the following two years for liquidation.

Without the extension, the agency's lending powers would have expired June 30 of this year.

The House approved the measure Wednesday.

D. C. Escapes National Food Price Jump, With Rises Only in Vegetables, Shortening

Although the Associatedd Press reported food prices advanced during the week generally over the country, Washington food outlets yesterday reported most items holding their own.

The only general retail increases reported here were in such items as lettuce, carrots, cauliflower and broccoli and in shortening.

The lettuce, carrots, etc., were reported up about 33½ per cent wholesale, largely because of the threatened railroad strike when shippers boosted prices to compensate for the risk in getting their shipments tied up. Shortening was reported 2 to 4 cents a pound higher.

Prospects of retail decreases in some items, loomed meanwhile.

In New York wholesale butter prices dropped one to 4½ cents a pound on the New Rork Mercantile Exchange, with top grades selling wholesale at 84½ and 83 cents. Grade B butter fell 3½ cents to 80 cents and Grade C 4½ cents to 78.

Also in New Fork the National Sugar Refining Co. cut refined sugar prices 1/5 to ¼ cents a pound, with refined sugar in paper bags reduced 25 cents to $7.50 a hundredweight. Packaged sugar was cut 20 cents to $7.55.

Neither of these reductions had immediate effect on the Washington market but, retailers said, they my have some effect within a few weeks.

Shortening was selling in one store here yesterday, after the price drop, at $1.27 per 3-pound container, reflecting a 2-cent drop. Prices on other grades and brands varied but nearly all reflected the drop.

Tojo, 24 Others Happily Await Expected Acquittal

New York, May 13 (NYHT). — Former Japanese Premier Hideko Tojo and his 24 fellow defendants are confident that the International Military Tribunal sitting in Tokyo will exonerate them.

S. Allen Roberts, defense counsel for former Vice Admiral Takazumi Oka, said Tojo and the others were almost happy as they awaited the verdict expected next month.

"I feel sure that the court will find that the prosecution has not proved its case as far as the blanket indictment of conspiracy is concerned," Roberts said here today.

Roberts implied that he does not share the confidence displayed by some of the defendents.

London, May 13 (AP).—Moscow radio commentator Belskaya paid tribute in English today to the United States and Britain for their war against fascism.

Belskaya said: "V-E Day is always an occasion when we recall with particular warmth our allies in the struggle against Fascist Germany. We remember that, along with the Soviet Union which made a decisive contribution to victory, the United States, Great Britain and other, smaller nations took part in the battle against fascism."

Meat Price 'Spread' Shows Big Increase

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The spread between the price of livestock and the wholesale price of meat is the greatest in years, except for a few days in 1946 when meat prices skyrocketed after price controls were removed.

Since the beginning of the packinghouse strike March 15 the spread between the price of live hogs and the wholesale price of pork jumped to $6.99 a hundred pounds. The average spread in 1947 was $2.95.

Other meat prices show similar spreads. Hundreds of complaints have reached the Agriculture Department, particularly from housewives in rural areas who have seen the price of meat go skywards while livestock prices were going down.

Broadcast Planned

So serious has the matter become that the department is planning to take the story to the public Saturday on it Nation-wide radio farm broadcasts.

One of the department's top-flight economists, Charles Burmeister, is scheduled for a series of talks to four State livestock producing associations beginning next Friday on the subject.

Figures Show Rise

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics gives the following figures to show the startling rise in meat prices as compared with live animals.

On May 10, 1947, lightweight hogs (220 to 240 pounds) sold for $23.48 per 100 pounds. The wholesale price of light hams at that time was $54.10 per 100 pounds.

In the year, the price of light hogs declined to $20.53, while the price of light hams has increased to $57.35.

Heavy hogs sold a year ago at $21.71. Heavy hams sold at $49.45 per 100 pounds. This year heavy hogs are bringing only $15.85 while heavy hams are quoted at $52.20.

Lard has gone up in the same period from $21.15 per 100 pounds to $24.

Cattle Prices Compared

For the first time in years the wholesale price of a beef carcass is more than the cost of the live animal. Usually the carcass sells for considerably less than the cost of the animal. The packers' profit comes from the sale of a score of by-products, including hides, hearts, brains, liver, kidneys casings, headmeat, etc.

On May 1 the price of live cattle was $29.58 a hundred pounds. At the same time the price of 60 pounds of dressed beef was $30.33. (A beef carcass dresses down to 60 per cent of live weight.) This left a margin of 75 cents in addition to the by-products, which also have increased sharply. The average price of 60 pounds of beef carcass in 1947 was $1.81 less than the cost of 100 pounds of live steer. Thus the spread today is $2.56 per 60 pounds of beef higher than last year's average.

The range this year between the cost of 100 pounds, liveweight, and 60 pounds of carcass beef was: January, minus $3.50; February, minus $2.51; March 13 (two days before the strike) minus $1.69; April 3, minus 60 cents; April 17, plus 4 cents; May 1, plus 75 cents.

Lamb Profits Similar

The same increase in packers profit on lambs, although less in degree, is shown. As with beef, lamb carcasses traditionally sell for less than the live animal, with the profit coming from the sale of by-products. In January the spread between live lambs and lamb carcasses was minus $2.49; in February it was minus $1.63; on March 13, just before the strike, it was minus $1.19; on April 3 it was plus $1.75; April 17 plus 63 cents, and May 1 plus 15 cents.

The average spread for 1947 was minus $1.79.

The lower spread in the last month for lambs, was given at the department as due to prices for live lambs going up faster than other livestock.

Live Hogs and Pork

On May 1 live hogs weighing between 220 and 240 pounds brought $21.68 per 100 pounds. On the same date the wholesale value of 62.11 pounds of pork—the amount of meat dressed out of 100 pounds liveweight—was $28.67. This left a spread of $6.99.

A year ago, on May 3, 1947, hogs were $23.76; while wholesale pork was $26.84—or a spread of $3.08—less than half the present spread.

Under OPA the spread on hogs varied from 28 cents in January 1946 to 57 cents in June. However, packers were paid a nominal wartime subsidy under OPA regulations.

Price Spreads This Year

Since January 1 the price spread between pork and live hogs was: January, $2.85; February, $3.44; March 13, $4.09; April 3, $5.16; April 17, $6.30; May 1, $6.99.

Live hog prices are now at such a low level that Agriculture Department experts fear farmers will cut down seriously on production next year, causing a drastic shortage next year. Since January 17 hog prices have declined from $28.04 to $21.68. The decline has not been reflected in meat prices.

Cattle prices are also below January. In January the average cattle quotation was $34.54. It sank to a low of $28.71 on March 13, and has since recovered slightly to $29.58.

Youth, 19, Awaiting Verdict In Arlington Seduction Case

A 12-man Arlington Circuit Court jury was scheduled to bring in a verdict today in the case of Guy H. Fuller, jr., 19, charged with the seduction of a 17-year-old county girl.

The girl, Miss Shirley Jackson of 5829 N. 15th st., Arlington, charges Fuller had promised to marry her on completion of his courses at the Bell Vocational High School in Washington next year, then reneged on his promise.

Fuller, who lives at 66 New York ave. nw., yesterday denied in court he had promised to marry the girl. He also said he was not responsible for her present pregnancy.

Both admitted having had intimate relation on December 18, 1946, but Fuller denied having had intercourse with the girl last New Years Day as charged by Miss Jackson.

Shirley's mother, Mrs. H. R. Jackson of the N. 15th st address, testified in court yesterday that Fuller, during a telephone conversation in February, 1947, had told her he would mary Miss Jackson. Fuller denied it.

On the stand, he said that Mrs. Jackson, on learning of her daughter's pregnancy, had threatened to kill Fuller, her daughter, and the baby if the child, when born, resembled Fuller.

Conviction on a seduction charge carries with it a 2 to 10 year jail sentence.

Spouting Oil Well Stops Canada Field

Edmonton, Canada, May 13 (AP). Fire and explosion hazards from a runaway oil well near Leduc have forced extreme precautions and halted output of the entire field.

The well, Atlantic Oil Co.'s No. 3, has gushed uncontrolled since May 8.

Its flow of 10,000 barrels daily is greater than that of the remainder of the field combined, and far in excess of capacity of equipment to handle.

Earth for two miles around is saturated, while an estimated 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily bubbles through thousands of punctures in the ground.

Aircraft are forbidden to fly over the area lest a spark from an engine touch off a disaster. Workers must leave smoking equipment behind; sightseers are banned.

Valves of all 60 producing wells in the field were shut off this morning. Experts said the shutdown would last at least three weeks, with a potential loss of $5,000,000.

Frank M. McMahon of the Atlantic Oil Co. said in Calgary last night that reports of fire and explosion danger at the field were "greatly exaggerated."

19 Students Injured in Truck Mishap

Nineteen picknicking college undergraduates were injured yesterday when spilled to the street in Takoma Park, Md., when their truck sideboard gave way.

Two were hospitalized, five others were patched up in the emergency room of Washington Sanitarium and 12 were given first aid at their alma mater's Health Service Clinic.

Admitted to the Washington Sanitarium were Miss Zelma Lou Hartt, 20, of Berwyn, Md., suffering a back injury, and Miss Peggy A. Kowley, 19, of Roanoke, Va., with severe bruises of the right hip and leg.

The truckload of some 40 freshmen and sophomores of Washington Missionary College had barely left the campus grounds in Takoma Park when the accident occurred. As the 1½-ton stake body truck swung out of the college grounds into Carroll ave. the vehicle swayed, throwing the weight of the students against the left side, a removable framework.

W. H. Shephard, college president, said the students were going to Meadowbrook Park, on Beach dr. near Silver Spring, to join classmates at an afternoon picnic. Fortunately, he added, the truck was moving slowly at the time.

Senator Buck To Seek Delaware Renomination

Senator C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.), who, as chairman of the Senate District Committee is one of the District's "mayors," yesterday announced his candidacy for renomination.

The former Delaware Governor is expected to win the State party renomination at the convention in July with little opposition. The State Democrats will meet a week after the GOP, and then will name an opponent for Buck.

Senator Buck has been on the District Committee for six years, and chairman in the Eightieth Congress.

President Holds Off In Designating Eccles

By The Associated Press

President Truman knows the reason he has not designated Marriner S. Eccles as vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, but he is not saying what it is.

The President was asked at his news conference yesterday if he had changed his mind about making Eccles vice chairman. He declined to say. All he would tell reporters was that he knew the reason in his own mind why he has not acted.

Senate Body Kills Natural Gas Boost

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Gas users saved an estimated 50 million dollars a year or more yesterday, when the Senate Commerce Committee voted, 9 to 4, to utrn down the Rizley bill.

The bill would have taken the power to fix natural gas rates away from the Federal Power Commission. An FPC survey said that meant big profits for gas companies, but higher bills for the gas used in factories, water heaters and kitchen stoves. With controls lifted, the FPC said, 11 companies might run their rates up a total of 56 million dollars a year.

Backed by Senator Moore

Senator Moore (R., Okla.) told the committee the gas industry needed the bill, so that it could expand to end the shortage of natural gas. Joining him in voting for the bill were Senators White (R., Me.), Hawkes (R., N. J.) and Capehart (R., Ind.). Senator Reed (R., Kans.), who voted with these four in favor of the bill last July, went over to the other side yesterday, saying President Truman was sure to veto the bill, even if the Senate passed it. He added:

"I have no desire to give the President a first-class political issue in a campaign year."

EMIL SCHRAM
"Provided we keep our heads"

N. Y. Exchange Head Expects No Big Slump

Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said yesterday he does not believe the country is headed for a big depression in the near future.

"Provided we keep our heads," he said, "I do not fear runaway inflation nor do I look for the great depression whose failure to appear has so chagrined the Marxian economists and statesmen."

Schram testified before the Joint Congressional Economic Committee.

He said he is confident the Nation has emerged from the period of shortages and already has entered the "postwar period of stabilization." He sees no reason, he said, why a large volume of goods cannot continue to be produced and sold.

"Over the longer term," he said, "a return of the upward trend of greater productivity per man-hour will enable us to resume the improvement in living standards that is the most noteworthy feature of the romance of American economic history."

Schram criticized as "clearly discrimination" the present margin requirements in the stock market. He said "This is a matter that transcends Wall Street and La Salle Street and reaches into every town, mining district and rural area."

A reduction in margin requirements and capital gains taxes, he said, would help both the stock market and the bond market.

Deed of 1874 Bars Sale of O St. Church

A reversionary clause in old deed prevents the sale of St. Luke's Methodist Church, 3040 Q st. nw., Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws ruled in District Court yesterday.

He held that the deed, executed in 1874 to give the property to the church, also stipulated that when and if it was no longer used for church purposes, it should revert to the heirs of Joseph Weaver.

Six of Weaver's grandchildren brought suit to block the sale, charging the church had violated provisions of the deed.

The church was established as Mount Tabor Methodist Protestant Church, but several years ago changed its name when a consolidation was effected with other congregations. The trustes decided the best interests of the church would be decided the best interests of the church would be served if a larger site were obtained, and one was found near Wisconsin ave., and Calvert st. nw., it was said.

But a court contest ensued on request to the court for permission to sell the site.

6th WAC Anniversary To Be Observed Today

The sixth anniversary of the Women's Army Corps will be observed at Ft. Meade, Md., today with special military ceremonies.

The program includes a parade, a speech by Brig. Gen. Edwin H. Randler, chief of operations and training for the Second Army, and awarding of WAC service medals to 32 members of the Ft. Meade unit.

Elusive D. C. Bootlegger Jailed at Last

After an even 100 tries, the Municipal Court authorities finally sent David Douglas Davenport, 31, to jail yesterday.

Judge George D. Neilson ordered Davenport, an admitted hip-pocket bootlegger who frequents Union Station, committed to Occoquan Workhouse for 30 days and ordered him to pay a $100 fine for indecent exposure in West Potomac Park on May 13, 1947.

"The group of cases against Davenport is unique in the annals of law in Washington. And I am sorry that they had to come up at all," said Judge Neilson.

Davenport, who had been into court 100 times within a year and convicted on several counts including assault, drunkenness and disorderly conduct, previously had never been sent to jail. He had carried several cases up to the United States Court of Appeals, and had paid several fines.

Davenport had only this comment:

"No hard feelings. I had a fair trial."

Sales Tax Or Else

Somewhere, somehow, the District has to find new revenue to balance its budget. Since expenditures have already been cut to such an extent as to deprive the community of many essential public services as well as long-delayed and much-needed construction projects, the prospective budgetary deficit will have to be covered either by bond issues (an infeasible suggestion at the moment) or by increased taxation.

Further increases in real estate and local income taxes would, as Commissioner Young stated, be "both unsound and unwise." For real property is already heavily taxed in the District and both rates and assessments have recently been raised. As Congress has refused to put the District's income tax on an equitable basis, increases in this tax would simply accentuate its discriminatory character. Moreover, this form of taxation could not be relied upon to yield more than a small proportion of the revenue required for budget balancing purposes. Hence by a process of elimination, the conclusion is reached that new sources of tax revenue must be tapped.

We agree with Maj. Gen. David McCoach, spokesman for the Washington Board of Trade, that the sales tax is the only available form of new taxation that would provide the revenue needed to balance the budget, and that it would probably be less burdensome to residents of the District than any other levy of similar magnitude. Most of the opposition to a sales tax comes from representatives of labor and consumer groups who maintain that it is especially burdensome to low-income families. To some extent that is, of course, true. But it should be remembered that the particular sales tax proposal under discussion is limited to 2 per cent, with exemptions for food and medicines. The burden of such a tax would certainly not be great enough to warrant fears that the living standards of low-income families would be materially affected.

Moreover, it is our belief that in the long run the living standards of District residents—including those in the low-income brackets—would be much more adversely affected by increases in real estate taxes than by a limited sales tax. For such increases would not only be felt by homeowners, but would undoubtedly, sooner or later, result in rent increases for homes and commercial buildings that would affect low-income tenants and also tend to raise prices of goods and services.

There is no painless method of levying taxes. Nor is there any just or practicable method of loading the entire burden of taxation on the shoulders of a few for the benefit of the many. In one way or another the community as a whole has to pay for municipal services. And in this particular instance, the sales tax appears to be the best method available for obtaining the funds that must be found to bridge the gap between District expenditures and receipts.

Reciprocal Trade

The chief objective of the economic cooperation program is to emancipate foreign countries from their present dependence upon American dollar aid by assisting them to achieve self-sufficiency through expanded production and increased exports. Obviously, our efforts will fall short of success if prohibitive tariffs and other barriers to exchange of goods prevent essential trade expansion. It is for such reasons that the Economic Cooperation Act provides for the conclusion of agreements with participating countries providing for our cooperation both to stimulate an increasing interchange of goods and services and to reduce trade barriers.

The United States took the initiative in the movement to develop a code of fair dealing in international trade aiming at the ultimate removal of trade obstructions. Our efforts in that direction resulted in the Havana charter calling for the establishment of an International Trade Organization. We have also concluded numerous trade treaties requiring reductions in tariffs. While it is true that in the present state of the world, it is impossible to dispense with many foreign trade controls made necessary by war-made dislocations and financial distress, the United States has been the leader in a campaign to eliminate these hampering controls as rapidly as possible. If that leadership is to continue it is of first importance to take no action that would cause other nations to lose faith in our stability of purpose. Unquestionably, their confidence in the sincerity of our professions and our influence as a trade counselor would be badly shaken if Congress should fail to extend the authority given the Administration under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act which expires in June.

A House Ways and Means Subcommittee, which held executive hearings last week on the extension proposal received a statement from Averell Harriman, ECA's "roving ambassador," declaring that any change in the act that appeared to forecast a change in our policy toward reduction of trade barriers "would be taken by the free world as an abdication of the leadership the United States has been providing." Secretary Marshall and former Undersecretary of State Will Clayton expressed similar views. Secretary of Defense Forrestal added that continued authority to reduce tariffs on strategic materials was "essential to conserve our dwindling domestic reserves." Despite these warnings the House Republican Steering Committee, in advance of action by the Ways and Means Committee, has approved a proposal to limit extension of the act to one year and to give Congress the authority to veto tariff changes not recommended by the Tariff Commission. If Congress refuses to extend the act for the requested three-year period it will be equivalent to undermining the very laws it has recently approved to further world trade recovery.

Palestine

At 6 o'clock today the British will quit their 26-year-old mandate over Palestine and a minute later the Zionists will hoist the flag of a Jewish provisional government over the part of it set aside by recommendation of the U. N. General Assembly. Recognition will then be requested of the U. N. world. Doubtless the recognitionists will include the Soviet Union, and we hope the United States will not lag in the procession, though at the same time there ought to be recognition of neighboring Transjordan.

King Abdullah of the latter country has given every indication that he will put his British-officered Arab legion across the frontier. Whether, however, there will be any sizable fighting is doubtful. Brushes there are bound to be, but Abdullah seems to be more anxious to enter into possession of Arab Palestine than to do battle with Jewish Palestine. The way will be open to Abdullah because Arab Palestine will be a political vacuum when the British leave. There is, to be sure, an Arab Higher Committee, but it has lost caste everywhere except at Lake Success, where Jamil El Husseini speaks in behalf of the Mufti. The two are cousins, with the Mufti chairman of the committee and Jamil El Husseini vice chairman. The Palestinian Arabs regard the Nazi-indoctrinated Mufti with distaste, as does Abdullah, who has flatly declared that the Mufti and his gang are unrepresentative.

Abdullah's relations with the Arab League appear to be in flux as the mandatory power prepares to retire. The Arab League has been emitting loud blasts of its belligerent intentions since the Assembly recommended partition. Western diplomacy has done its level best to thrust Abdullah into the arms of the Arab League, but a perceptible restiveness is reported from Amman. Abdullah says he wants nothing to do with Jamil Martam Bey, former Premier of Syria, and a hot-headed nationalist, who is the guiding spirit in the Arab League, "or other Arab League collaborators." Will the split show itself today along with what the Middle East correspondent of the Associated Press calls "the exploded propaganda balloon" of the Jewish-Arab war?

To be sure, trouble is bound to keep the Holy Land in a ferment. That is one thing that has never been absent from the Middle East since the British liberated the area from the Ottoman Empire, though the fact is generally forgotten. Arabs harassed the British and the Jews in the thirties, and sought to upset the British position in Iraq during the war. In those days the men who are now the self-styled leaders of Arab Palestine, but have been received substantively at Lake Success, were the particular troublemakers. The Jews will have a difficult time in trying to set up an administration amid the initial disorder.

With recognition of the facts and a new approach to the Middle East on a regional basis, the United States could recoup its lost face. Arabs who used to be a restraining influence in Arab Palestine have been bumped off by the Mufti's gunmen. They used to cooperate in the union movement in Palestine. Now there is a chance, if American policy will encourage it, of turning Middle East opinion toward a wider union based upon the common interest. And there is a common interest that, we are convinced, will eventually be perceived and can then be cultivated among the Arabs, the Egyptians, the Christians of Lebanon, the Jews of Palestine, and perhaps the peoples elsewhere in the regions embraced in what is known as the Middle East, when old-fashioned imperialism has been wound up.

Anderson's Service

As Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson proved himself equally adept at enunciating and administering broad-gauged agricultural policies and at fending off unfounded attacks on his department. In the best sense a diplomat, he knew how to deal with men, particularly his old colleagues in Congress, and his services in the Cabinet will be missed as he enters the contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination in New Mexico. Mr. Anderson occasionally was accused, and rightly, of vacillation. Nevertheless, when stacked up against Mr. Anderson's record of constructive accomplishment, these instances were few and minor. The former Secretary was, of course, first and foremost a champion of agricultural interests, but his view of agriculture was related to the entire economy, and not limited.

This was shown in the role that Mr. Anderson played in encouraging farm production to meet world hunger, even though he was not unaware of the danger of potential surpluses. He also lent useful assistance to the domestic food conservation drives. At the same time he served the Nation as well as agriculture in keeping Congress forever reminded of the need for adequate long-range farm protection. It will be no easy task to replace Clinton Anderson with a man of like ability. We hope to see him back in Washington.

Aftermath

The President yesterday did not contribute anything new to the effort of Secretary Marshall on Wednesday to pour oil on the troubled waters caused by the Molotov-Marshall exchange and its anti-climax. Mr. Marshall is not usually so adept and disarming. His demeanor seemed to us to indicate that he regarded the entire affair, not as an embarrassment, but as a sign of an easing in the world tension, though Mr. Truman's remarks would not warrant such a construction. Maybe, if Secretary Marshall thinks that, he is right. After all, the ERP, which Moscow sought by every short-of-war device to prevent, is now functioning, and the United States has shown that there is no intention of repeating the mistake after the last war of quitting Europe. Let us now try to improve the environment in which ERP is operating—for Mr. Hoffman's sake no less than Europe's. It was in order to concentrate on this kind of diplomacy that Congress decided to take administration of ERP out of the State Department. The Soviet Union should be pressed to demobilize such anti-ERP devices as the Cominform and indirect aggression. Europe, as it embarks on ERP, would rise up and call us blessed if we, by some wild chance, succeeded. It is our firm belief that the chagrin in the foreign offices over their ignorance of what had been going on (leaving them to fear a deal behind their backs) is matched by the chagrin among the peoples that the exchange was not followed up.

The pressure we have in mind cannot be applied inside the United Nations. Secretary Marshall, in his classic statement of May 5, observed that the basic assumption of the United Nations was Big Power cooperation. This is what Belgium's Paul Spaak said when the Charter was being written at San Francisco. Clearly they thought in face-to-face terms, not in terms of a Stalin-Truman meet or a Foreign Ministers conference, but in the informal atmosphere of diplomatic contact. And that is presumably what the State Department note-writer meant when he assured Molotov that the American door would always be kept open for the composition of differences. If it wasn't that, what was it? The complaint about day-to-day diplomacy with Russia hitherto has been over either the "noes" we encountered or the difficulty of getting any answer at all. Now there is a yes, and a door opened, and there is the same grumble. At the press conference, however, Secretary Marshall did not slam the door that he had opened. And when Ambassador Bedell Smith is through with his vacation in Normandy, there is a chance of more regular contact with Molotov.

The fuss over the leak in Moscow has been extravagant. It is almost as if there had been no dealings with the unorthodox Russians to guide our diplomats about Muscovite conduct. Everybody knows that the Kremlin despises the forms and proprieties of diplomatic intercourse when that suits its purpose. Whenever Stalin has something important to say, he is apt to summon a newspaperman instead of a diplomat. In San Francisco the Russians, discovering backstairs methods in operation about the entry of Argentina, argued their case in public at great press conferences. In the meetings of the Foreign Ministers Molotov has abided by none of the conventions; Mr. Byrnes tried to keep the meetings secret till he found himself confronted with Russian (and British) pipelines.

Why cannot we get used to this unorthodox technique? The Smith statement of May 4, which in diplomatic parlance is called an aide memoire, should have been given to the public as well as to the foreign capitals, anyway. There was no hush-hush about it. It was a sort of rehash of the statement that the Secretary made the very next day to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. We doubt, too, whether the disclosure in Moscow was as much of a breach of etiquette as has been made out. Give the devil his due. Mr. Bevin made a fuss of the breach in the House of Commons, but the offence was nothing like so heinous as his own revelation of a private conversation with Mr. Byrnes on Palestine. The aide memoire was in black and white, and it is usual in these circumstances, we understand, to have a precise understanding on the question of publicity. There was no such understanding. Anyway, now that the world has recovered some composure, diplomacy can now get on with its busines, which is to keep up the pressure of our policy to a destination, viz., an accommodation with Russia. As Matthew Arnold said about liberty, policy is a fine horse to ride, but you must ride it somewhere.

THE THREE BROWN DOES

Light hoof and brief
the three brown does
and where they went a shadow goes grayer than brown and not so swift yet swift enough that no one knows which was shadow and which brown does, though dust flies after in slight wind-drift.
The three brown does did not see me,
but they are mine immortally,
the sunlight on a brown-gold flank,
the tinkle of a hoof on stone,
the flash of white flags up the bank, and the wood and I a one.
The wood forgot one moment after,
but I recall them through my laughter and pause and listen, listen, listen . . .
The does are near,
and I'm in Charnwood once again,
my fingers red from berry-stain.
I hold my breath, the does have come,
light hoof and brief
the three brown does

Jerusalem Truce

News of the Arab-Jewish temporary truce in Jerusalem was like a breath of fresh air blown across the war-flushed countenance of the world. The fact that both sides were willing to even accept a "cooling off" period to allow for discussion of a permanent truce is in itself a healthy sign.

Until the truce was accepted, the cries came from all sides, beseeching the Arabs and Jews to declare Jerusalem an open city—or to at least protect the old walled-city. In everyone's anxiety to secure the protection of the holy shrines of the three great religions of the world, the most important thing of all was overlooked, or perhaps even forgotten. We refer, of course, to the holy principle for which these shrines stand—the brotherhood of mankind!

It is a recognized fact that the Arab and Jew, left to themselves, live in peace and brotherhood. They have done so before partition, and given the chance, could resume the normal relationship. It is also a known fact that it is not the Palestinian Arab who took to arms the minute partition was voted by the United Nations. The Arab League, composed of Arab nations outside of Palestine, took it upon itself to threaten a holy war.

It was interesting to note that the Rabbinate of Haifa permitted Jewish bakeries to bake bread during Passover to help feed Arab residents returning to that city after being evacuated by the Arab military authorities. A joint Arab-Jewish committee is operating to care for the needs of the Arab population.

Isn't there an old saying that an Arab accepts you as a friend if he shares his bread and salt with you? And, if we're not mistaken, there is a similar saying for a Jew accepting a friend into his home. The gesture of the Jews of Haifa in making bread for their Arab friends—not enemies—while they partook of unleavened bread in commemoration of their past trials in the desert should express volumes to our befuddled diplomats in high places.

Training For Democracy

The letter "Training for Democracy published in The Washington Post on May 4 represents a type of thinking urgently needed at present. Unimaginative critics will toss off as Utopian the proposed plan to bring over and educate in the United States young European democrats barred from their own universities by totalitarian governments. How would we get them out of those countries and when and how would they return, the critics ask. Should we then accept defeat for democratic ideas in the iron-curtain countries, leaving the Russians the uncontested victors in this most important and lasting field?

The proposed plan offers one more approach toward peace. When Rhodes first decided to spend millions to give young Americans additional training at Oxford, his contemporaries probably called him a visionary who might better spend his money educating needy young Britishers. However, the success of Rhodes' far seeing plan is one reason why war between the United States and England is inconceivable today.

Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, himself a Rhodes scholar, is responsible for the present American arrangement of using payments for lend-lease supplies in foreign countries to finance young Americans who want to study in those countries. The other side of the picture is even more important—the need to bring to America schools young European democrats now hopelessly deprived of educational opportunities by their totalitarian governments. To complete his outstanding educational projects, Senator Fulbright might well consider the ways and means, difficult as they at first appear, of filling this gap.

Sloan's Permission

In the May 7 Washington Post I read that General Motors, the most profitable corporation in American history, has just reported the most profitable quarter year in its own history.

On another page of The Washington Post of May 7 I read that Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of the board of G. M., warns us against overconfidence and tells us to beware of the idea that there is no ceiling to our capacity. If he warned the stockholders against General Motor's capacity to produce profits, this item was omitted from your account.

In answer to Sloan's suggestion that our standard of living is about to hit a ceiling and cannot continue to improve, I propose for adoption as our national slogan:

"We have nothing to fear but Sloan itself."

Abdullah's Designs

It has become known during the past week, that King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan intends to annex Palestine outright to his kingdom after the British leave (supposedly) this month.

Now, it does seem odd that the one country, of all those abutting on Palestine, announcing designs on Palestine, should be Trans-Jordania, since His Majesty, Abdullah, is almost unique (in that region) in that he is in hock to the British government, right up to his chin. Abdullah's treaty with Britain calls for, among other things, British subsidies and officer loans to the Trans-Jordanian army.

Any army that invades Palestine from Trans-Jordan will be, in all but news dispatches, a detachment of the British army.

Henry Of Navarre

I feel that in your May 9 editorial, "Voice of Europe," you missed an opportunity when you referred only to the spirits of Henry of Navarre and Henry IV of France." I have not read Mr. Churchill's speech, but I am sure he did not wittingly intend to omit reference to the spirits of Henry of Ivry or Henri-poule-au-pot, or, perhaps above all, to the wise and tolerant spirit of Henry of Nantes.

I am sure that you will agree that, while there may have been other Henrys who ruled Navarre, only one of these achieved the greatness to be known to history as "Henry of Navarre"

Shallow Anti-Draft Arguments

I could not allow Mr. Alonzo F. Myers' letter of May 6 against the proposed draft to pass without comment, particularly because of the responsible and influential position which he holds as president of the Department of Higher Education of the National Education Association.

The most generous interpretation of his letter leaves much that is puzzling and disturbing. For instance, we learn that "President Truman's proposal for Selective Service has been proved unnecessary as a result of the clarified international scene. The Italian elections resulted in a defeat for the Communists . . . Moreover, Secretary of the Army Royall told Senate and House committees that 'war is not imminent' . . . And General Clay . . . on March 25 said that the present conflict 'is a political one and not a military one.'"

It would be gratifying, to say the least, to rest secure in the knowledge that the Italian issue has been "clarified" if one could but forget Korea, China, South America, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and the United States. It would be comforting to know that war is not imminent and that the present crisis is political and not military were it not for the fact that political crises usually immediately precede military ones, and that experience indicates that at least two years are required for the development of an effective military establishment.

Mr. Myers continues his discussion against a "peacetime draft" by referring to testimony by General Spaatz and Admiral Denfeld to the effect that the Air Force and the Navy can rely entirely on volunteers and that only the Army is asking for the draft. He clinches this argument with the following evidence of successful but misleading propaganda: "The Army could get all the volunteers it needs if it would accept the Doolittle report which recommended modifying the officer caste system and improving military courts so that the enlisted man really had a chance . . ."

Mr. Myers will be interested to know that an objective survey will reveal proportionately far less caste-consciousness among the military, about which he obviously knows so little, than he will find in his own field of education, with which it is assumed he is thoroughly acquainted.

And then we come to the prize remark of all: "The Army is rejecting about half of its applicants for enlistment because it has raised its passing grade 70 to 80 in the Army general classification test. Not every man in the Army needs a lot of education." Although the AGCT is designed to categorize an individual according to five classifications rather than to measure his intelligence, there is a relatively high correlation between an individual's AGCT score and his intelligence quotient.

It is common knowledge in military personnel circles that an AGCT score below 80 usually belongs to a man with "dull normal" or even "borderline" mentality. These applicants for military careers naturally find it difficult to compete successfully in civilian environments and are consequently attracted to the Army by the security and comparatively high pay features.

We could be extreme in our analysis and infer that Mr. Myers is suggesting the immediate recruitment of all the mentally subnormal male population willing to enter the service, or we could be patient and ponder the fact that an effective military unit requires dependable and well-coordinated team play and that men with AGCT scores of less than 80 are notoriously lacking in dependability and coordination.

In either case, this recommendation smacks of shallow, uniformed thinking, if not a blatant disregard for the welfare of those unable to adequately maintain themselves due to a flaw in their mental endowment. We need not go into the security risk involved in having an army made up of mental incompetents to rely upon.

Washington Calling

Molotov's Trump

IN HIS memoirs now appearing in serial form, Winston Churchill pays high tribute to the capacities of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. In one of the most impressive passages in his extraordinary story, Churchill analyzes the brilliance of the steel-cold mind of the man who guides Russia's foreign policy.

This is a tribute from one master of world politics to another. Molotov has now once again demonstrated that mastery.

In the way he handled the American note of May 4 and the Russian reply—broadcasting them on the Moscow radio without any warning whatsoever — he put the United States in an embarrassing role. The obvious intention of the Soviet maneuver was to make it seem that we hinted at the need for negotiations, that they came forward readily desiring such negotiations, and that now, if nothing comes of it, the fault will be ours.

Russian propaganda can be stepped up immediately toward that goal. And in the wake of the hopes, the fears, the doubts stirred in troubled Europe by the incident, this propaganda would have a fertile field.

From all over Europe comes the rumor that the Russians intend to push the United States, Britain and France out of Berlin by June 30. Molotov may well have decided to exploit the American note in the game he is playing to force the western powers to abandon their isolated position.

The time has come, it seems to me, to reexamine the policy of the western powers on Berlin. It was altogether too easy to assume, after the uproar of some weeks ago had subsided, that the Russians had given up on Berlin. The United States has believed that the western powers could maintain their position in the German capital regardless of what the Russians might do.

But there is another point of view that should be considered. It comes from the French, who have been deeply concerned over British-United States policy in Germany.

While they have reluctantly gone along with the plans to set up a separate German administration in the zones occupied by the western powers, they have several times pointed out the dangers in creating Bizonia or Trizonia. Only recently they made strong representations to the State Department.

The French believe that, in setting up a separate bizonal or trizonal administration, the western powers will lay themselves open to a Russian charge that they no longer have any real business in Berlin. The four-power occupation of the capital exists theoretically in order to develop a government for all of Germany under the terms of the Potsdam agreement. With their great sense of logic, the French point out that the Russians can say:

"Since you have formed a separate government for your part of Germany, you can have no more reason to stay in Berlin. Therefore we must ask you to go, since Berlin is in the Soviet zone and since the Soviet zone is now a separate entity."

THE FRENCH also talk of the "calculated risk" and wonder if the United States has taken into account the hazards in our German policy. They draw an analogy with French policy before World War I, when the French understood very well that each step they took in Morocco risked eventual war with Germany. To take such a calculated risk, a nation must have the resources to act if it turns out badly.

Following a provocative policy, the United States and Britain do not have the resources in manpower to buttress a failure.

The grave concern of the French can be put down, of course, to the fact that they live next door to the dynamite mill. If the Russians determine to push the western powers out of Berlin and if war follows, as it probably would, France would be occupied in 10 days or two weeks.

The fact that this is an election year in the United States, with the odds heavy on a new administration, makes it impossible to put a new Ambassador in Moscow at this point. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith has served for two years; and reports from Moscow indicate that he is in a state of intense irritability, his nerves worn down by the constant pressure of Soviet antagonism.

The best evidence indicates that Russia does not want war and will go a long way to avoid a shooting war. She will continue to press for her objectives short of war. It is just here that negotiations, conducted perhaps by a new man with sufficient background but without the nervous tensions built up through two years of cold war. might bring about what The Washington Post has aptly called an "accommodation" with the Soviet Union.

Titanic Outrage

In Rock Creek Parkway, across from the Watergate Inn, stands a heroic figure commemorating the sinking of the Titanic. Not one of the many admirers of this sculptured conception of a timeless blessing, after waters had closed over so many precious lives; not one of the innumerable photographers who carry away their chosen aspect, has ever shinnied up the draperies of stone to uncommemorate the occasion when a sea gull last January, on the brow of the figure, was literally on the spot.

What authorities should be rushed to the rescue since the citizenry has failed in a very human problem? Is this to be dealt with as an outrage, a crime, a desecration, a trespass, or simply an accident case?

Supreme Court Clash

A Communication

ONE WHO admires the editorial page of The Washington Post, for its evenhanded tolerance—its wise moderation and its clarity of thought, does not find it easy to stomach your May 1 comments upon the outburst in the Supreme Court during the debate of the Taft-Hartley political action clause in the prosecution brought against the CIO.

A long record was before the court, and in particular before Mr. Justice Frankfurter, and before The Washington Post when its editorial came to be written. Nevertheless, the justice chose to indulge in some ugly insinuations against Judge Ben Moore of Charleston, W. Va., and Mr. Jesse Climenko, the special counsel who appeared for the Government.

Mr. Justice Frankfurter described a rigged case, one in which a district judge gave a ruling of expediency with no pretense of truly passing upon the merits—with a view toward obtaining a speedy decision from the Supreme Court. And when Mr. Lee Pressman, counsel for the CIO, pointed out that that was not the case before the court, the justice snapped, "it's so close I can't tell the difference!"

WHAT RIGHT had Mr. Justice Frankfurter to suggest that Judge Moore's opinion was not, in fact, an honest ruling upon the question before him? What right had he to voice such a suggestion in open court, when Judge Moore was not before him, and could in no way be heard to vindicate his integrity?

Mr. Justice Frankfurter advanced insinuations no less bald and ugly concerning Mr. Climenko. Those who heard them were in some doubt whether the justice meant to charge the Government's counsel with throwing the case, or with conniving with the CIO to obtain a speedy ruling from the highest court. Whichever he meant, Mr. Justice Frankfurter spoke after Mr. Climenko's time had expired, so that the attorney had no opportunity to reply.

Thus neither the judge nor the lawyer had a chance to answer Mr. Justice Frankfurter. Even if the justice were right, the procedure would seem lacking in the sportsmanship and fair play that we like to think characteristic of our judicial processes. Had Judge Moore and Mr. Climenko been themselves on trial in a lower court, and been dealt with in such a manner, it is likely the Supreme Court would have discerned a lack of due process of law.

THERE IS, moreover, more than a trace of hypocrisy in Mr. Justice Frankfurter's unseemly behavior. Almost at the end of Mr. Climenko's remarks, the justice had seen fit to observe that he understood the difficulties of the Justice Department in confronting the case, and that he thought Mr. Climenko had done very well in his presentation.

Members of the bar who observed the incident seem to be agreed upon the view that Mr. Climenko was shamefully treated.

Mr. Chief Justice Vinson might have allowed Mr. Climenko additional time, but he chose not to do so, evidently wishing to end the ugly situation that Mr. Justice Frankfurter had brought on.

Thus it was ended, in the court, only to be revived in the press, when The Washington Post chose to associate itself with Mr. Justice Frankfurter's views and, it appears, with his behavior. The Washington Post, indeed, has bettered its instruction.

WHAT MR. Justice Frankfurter said of Judge Moore by gross implication, The Washington Post makes explicit, for it says: "Justice Frankfurter was obviously perturbed because this case, involving momentous constitutional issues, was rushed to the Supreme bench without adequate consideration in the lower courts."

And also: "The dangers of overhaste are especially apparent when, as in this case, the district judge does not adequately meet his obligations."

Now in this case the district judge heard argument for a full day. He received briefs from the Government (56 pages) and from the defendant (65 pages), as well as sundry memoranda, appendices and summaries. The writer does not know that Judge Moore considered the arguments, or that he read the briefs. But how does Mr. Justice Frankfurter know that he did not? And how does The Washington Post know that he did not?

WE DO know that Judge Moore wrote an opinion determining the issue in favor of the defendants and against the validity of the clause under attack. What right have any of us to assume anything but that Judge Moore did consider the arguments that were before him?

And what more than this does it take to constitute "adequate consideration in the lower courts"? In what manner does this constitute a failure of the district judge to adequately meet his obligations? What more does The Washington Post suggest?

Mr. Justice Frankfurter declared, and The Washington Post repeats, that the CIO counsel had "the utmost cooperation from the Government." And what is wrong with that? Clients often expect their attorneys to be at odds with all other attorneys, to be rude, surly and uncooperative. The best tradition of the bar is otherwise, counseling the officers of the court rather to courtesy, helpfulness and a joint effort to achieve justice. Do the editor and the justice quarrel with this tradition?

THE WASHINGTON POST says, too, as though it were a ground of reproach, that the case was "made to order by the CIO for the special purpose of testing the law?" Now what is wrong with that? Does The Washington Post really suppose that William Marbury gave a hoot whether he got his commission? Or that the plaintiffs in the Gold Clause cases went to the Supreme Court for the few dollars represented by their bond? Of course not.

The Washington Post knows that cases made to order with the design of testing a statute are in the best tradition of our Government. Why, then, insinuate that there was something wrong about this one?

Elsewhere in its editorial, The Washington Post addresses some censures to Mr. Climenko because he chose to concede before Judge Moore that the Taft-Hartley political action clause was—standing alone—an infringement of the First Amendment. What else was the lawyer to do? He was prosecuting the CIO and Mr. Murray for the act of publishing an editorial in connection with a Federal election. Is not that plainly a limitation upon freedom of the press?

Of course it is, and of course The Washington Post knows it quite as well as Mr. Climenko.

THE POINT both Mr. Justice Frankfurter and The Washington Post chose to ignore was that Mr. Climenko pointed out that every limitation of publication is an infringement of the First Amendment. But in the police power of the State, the law finds authority for many limitations, as when it suppresses obscene, or seditious, publications, for example. In the CIO case, Mr. Climenko looked for authority to the constitutional grant of power to Congress to regulate elections.

Finally, The Washington Post chimes in on Mr. Justice Frankfurter's suggestion that there was no real contest before the bench. After all, the CIO and Mr. Murray were liable to the penalties of the Taft-Hartley Act—if it was valid. And if the editor of The Washington Post does not think whether a man is going to spend a year in jail the subject matter of a "real contest," this writer respectfully suggests that the editor try it some time. OBSERVER.

Siamese Gold Hijackers Sought Among Troops

Bangkok, Siam, May 13 (AP).—The search for hijackers who seized a three-million-dollar international gold shipment spread to Siam's army today.

The Siamese Ministry of Defense ordered an undetermined number of soldiers of the Seventh Infantry Battalion confined to quarters while police checked whether they were involved in the dramatic holdup yesterday.

Police announced that the total loot was valued at three million dollars, half again as much as the two million dollars originally reported.

The gang of 20 to 30 men wearing Siamese army and air force uniforms seized the shipment yesterday while it was en route to the customs house.

Matter Of Fact

64-Billion-Dollar Question

WHY CAN'T Truman and Stalin clear up this mess by sitting down together and talking things over? Innumerable men and women all over the United States and the world have been asking the question for many months. And now the question has gained greatly added urgency from the strange episode of the exchange between Ambassador W. Bedell Smith and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

One of the rather mixed motives for Ambassador Smith's restatement of American policy to the Kremlin was, in fact, the fear that Moscow would publicly propose another high-level conference. Of such conferences, as Secretary Marshall said, we have already had much "bitter experience." There have been planted stories, and there have been feelers, like the Soviet overture to Ambassador Robert Murphy in Berlin, suggesting the possibility of such a Soviet move. Why was it feared? Why did the State Department not welcome Molotov's expression of willingness to begin Soviet-American discussions?

AMERICAN policy makers, when they are asked these questions, have a way of replying with a question of their own: "But what kind of a settlement do you want?" For this, there is an obvious reason. As the leader of the major power of the non-Soviet world, President Truman could undoubtedly "sit down with Stalin" and reach agreement. It has been obvious since the end of the war that the Kremlin would like nothing better than for Russia and the United States to divide up the world in the manner of two small boys splitting a slightly rotten apple. Immediately after the war, this desire was very clearly disclosed, in the Kremlin's frantic propaganda effort to drive a wedge between this country and Britain.

Unfortunately, in the first place, the Soviets clearly believe that this kind of division of the world should be on the basis of the United States taking the Western Hemisphere and perhaps the Pacific Islands, and leaving the Eurasian Continent and its African dependencies to Russia. The Soviets would almost certainly not accept any division of the world on the basis of the status quo, since this would leave the non-Soviet sector potentially stronger than the Soviet sector. Equally, we could not accept the division outlined above.

Suppose, however, that certain concessions were made, on the pattern suggested by Henry Wallace. Suppose, in fact, that the Soviets were tossed Korea, the Dardanelles, Berlin and Vienna, in return for a promise to stop their pressure in Greece, Iran and elsewhere. Then the world would certainly be divided, at least temporarily. But the trouble is that the division would not stick.

THE SOVIET half of the world would be organized as an immense, monolithic empire. The non-Soviet half would remain a mere congeries of independent nations, cooperating only halfheartedly and occasionally. The Soviet empire, immensely strengthened by the new concessions, would eventually begin again pressing outward along its borders. The temptation to do so would be irresistible. And the non-Soviet half of the world, weakened by the loss of vital strategic points, disunited and disorganized, would find resistance to Soviet pressure immeasurably more difficult than it is today.

Here is the heart of the trouble. A purely artificial division of any territory, including the earth, is always possible between dictators.

If strength is so equally balanced that each dictator always hesitates to attack the other, the settlement may prove enduring. But this sort of artificial territorial pie-slicing is not possible—is in truth wickedly dangerous—when one party to the deal is the ruthless dictator of a huge monolithic empire, and the other party is the president of a democratic country giving away territory that is not his. If President Truman is to divide the world with Stalin, Truman must become another Stalin first.

CONSEQUENTLY, the object of American policy is a natural rather than an artificial division of the world. As the American policy makers see it, the present situation has been created by the weakness of the non-Soviet sphere, which constitutes a standing invitation to Kremlin imperialism. But if the west can be restored to health and strength, further imperial adventures will become too risky. The Kremlin will begin to accept the status quo as natural and enduring, just as the leaders of Islam abandoned world conquest for acceptance of the status quo after their defeats at Lepanto and under the walls of Vienna. Not negotiation, but reconstruction, is the road to peace.

Thus the method, timing and other features of Ambassador Smith's communication to Foreign Minister Molotov may be endlessly debated. But the whole exchange was vastly less important than the practical measures looking toward restoration of health and strength in the remaining area of freedom.

One of those practical measures, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's wisely drafted and remarkably significant Senate resolution on the U. N., was almost overlooked in the ruckus about the Soviet-American notes. The really meaningful clauses are intended to build a firm foundation under the project of an Atlantic community growing out of western union. Vandenberg's proposal of these clauses is likely to be remembered much longer than the current ruckus.

Oleo Foe Files Cotton Import 'Reprisal' Bill

The Southern Democrats who helped pass a House bill to repeal Federal taxes on oleomargarine found out yesterday that the butter-State Congressmen weren't fooling when they threatened reprisals on cotton.

Minnesota's Republican Representative Harold Knutson, who led the losing fight against oleo last month, introduced a bill to remove all import quotas on foreign-grown cotton.

The purpose of the bill, he announced blandly, "is to lower the exorbitant costs of cotton and cotton products."

Knutson had made it clear before that he would try to get even with the Dixie Democrats whose votes helped put the oleo tax repeal across against the opposition of the dairy-State Congressmen.

His bill would eliminate quotas on all types of imported cotton and impose instead a straight import duty of 10 per cent.

"Embargoes are un-American and constitute the worst possible form of trade barriers," he said. "And I call attention to the fact that the State Department has repeatedly warned Congress that such types of restrictions are fruitful sources of war and ill feeling among nations."

The oleo tax repeal still has to be passed by the Senate, and Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wisc.) served notice yesterday that it is in for plenty of trouble there.

He promised a "long and hotly contested" fight on the Senate floor and said the outcome is "still very much in doubt," despite what he called "phony claims by the oleo lobby."

Truman Names Wayne C. Grover Archivist of U. S.

Wayne C. Grover, former Utah newspaperman, was nominated by President Truman yesterday to be archivist of the United States.

He succeeds Dr. Solon J. Buck who resigned to become chief of the division of manuscripts and occupy the chair of American history in the Library of Congress.

Grover, former telegraph editor of the Desert News in Salt Lake City and now assistant archivist, has been with the Archives since 1935.

Diaz Cuts Into Arias' Panama Election Lead

Panama City, Panama, May 13 (AP).—An early lead assumed by opposition presidential candidate Arnulfo Arias dwindled considerably today as interior returns from Sunday's election were heavily in favor of government candidate Domingo Diaz Arosemena.

Latest tabulations from precincts throughout the country gave Arias 17,322 votes to Diaz's 16,300. A third candidate, Jose I. Fabrega, trailed with 9036.

Steel Company Sues in Gray Market Fight

Pittsburgh, May 13 (AP).—President Ben Moreell of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. today declared that two damage suits charging illegal offers to sell his firm's steel were intended to "lead the attack on gray marketing."

The independent firm entered complaints in Detroit and Chicago courts against Harry C. Edwards of Edwards Industrial Engineering, Detroit, and Howard Kimble, Chicago, described as an Edwards associate. Kimble said in Chicago he had no connection with the alleged transaction, while in Detroit, Edwards said he had no immediate comment. The firm said tonnage involved would have a gray-market value of more than a million dollars.

The suits, believed to be the first of their kind, charged the defendants with violating the Robinson-Patman Act, which forbids price discrimination, by offering to sell 7500 tons of J. & L. ingots monthly to the Ford Motor Company when the mill published price was $36 per ton. The price now is the same.

A J. & L. statement said Ford officials tipped the steel company off and that, as a result, an oil company executive sat in on subsequent negotiations. He was Herbert Johnson, assistant to the vice president in charge of sales.

In Detriot, Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan issued a temporary restraining order against Edwards, and set May 28 for a hearing on a permanent injunction.

The steel company asked $100,000 damages from Kimble, but no set amount from Edwards.

President Hopes To Offer Farm Message Today

President Truman said yesterday he hopes to send a farm program message to Congress today.

He told his weekly news conference, however, that he is not ready to announce the appointment of a new Secretary of Agriculture. He'll do that, he added, as soon as he gets the man.

Clinton Anderson resigned Monday to run for the Senate in New Mexico, with the President's blessing.

Mr. Truman gave no indication of what he will propose in today's message, regarded as a bid for the farmers' vote.

The Republican-controlled Senate Agriculture Committee got the jump on Mr. Truman Wednesday by laying down a long-range farm plan, calling for a revised price support program.

One on the Aisle—

Late Mr. Collins Gets the Works

By Richard L. Coe

ONLY LAST SUNDAY I was bemoaning the sad fate of authors whose works are turned into screen plays by Hollywood, which evidently covets books solely because of their publicity value.

Now comes along the Warner with Wilkie Collins' "The Woman in White." This is the first English crime novel, forefather of all those detective yarns that so beguile us today. It's being presented as "The World's No. 1 Mystery Novel."

In his grave these 59 years, the late William Wilkie Collins must this very morning be doing a horizontal conga. Not only is "The Woman in White" a pretty feeble movie; it bears only passing resemblance to the story Collins told. For his adaptation, Stephen Morehouse Avery has followed the general plot—a scheme to milk an heiress out of her fortune; but he also has shifted characters around, ignored some, twisted a romance so that Alexis Smith will get her man and altogether evolved a bosh that will make people wonder why Collins' book ever was considered the least bit good.

Now granted that as Collins wrote it, "The Woman in White" is an enormously complex dish, told by several characters in alternating pattern. Turning the yarn into celluloid would indeed be a tricky business and it's probably madness to attempt it. Still the attempt has been made and it neither succeeds in being a reasonable facsimile of the original nor a good movie. But complex novels have been adapted to the screen with great success ("Great Expectations" and, for that matter, "Gone With the Wind"). Therefore it's at least possible that had this been a faithful reflection of the original in script form, "The Woman in White" might have made a good picture.

Sydney Greenstreet Scares

As it is you get a covey of odd folk in one of those early Victorian country palaces so dear to the heart of simplicity-loving moviemakers. Sydney Greenstreet's Count Fosco becomes an ordinary villain with no connections with the Italian secret society that made him a cut apart. Agnes Moorehead, as his wife, patently hates the man (finally she does him in), but this has no hint of the warm affection the original had for her strange husband. Alexis Smith's Marian is a copy of Jane Eyre and manages to do the heroine (Eleanor Parker) out of her true love. There is no hint that John Emery's Sir Percival Glyde was born under the bar sinister and no exciting views of how this was finally unraveled.

The playing is aided by Greenstreet's fat, smooth villain, despite the fact that his motivations aren't even touched on. Greenstreet, who always looks as though he's just swallowed Peter Lorre, is fine and gets in at least one good moment of terror. The rest behave as actors are supposed to in such situations.

The fact remains, however, that not only is "The Woman in White" pretty wan stuff; it's also a flagrantly inaccurate, not to say dishonest, reflection of what is still a grand old yarn. Once more the movie boys have taken the easiest way and come out by misleading the folks into something that's no more "The Woman in White" than it's the First Shepherd's Play.

Obviously, too, this cantankerous party is going to have to save his eyes and stop reading. Any resemblance between a book and its movie namesake is purely coincidental.

VOLUNTEER COMMUNITY Shows are having auditions tonight for shows in veterans' and charitable hospitals and in military installations . . . Entertainers of all kinds are needed, says Program Organizer Gretchen Rickel . . . The auditions will be held at Thomson Center, 12th and L sts. nw., tonight from 8 to 9:30.

"ANTIGONE," the Anhouil drama Katharine Cornell played with such distinction, is being done by the Georgetown University Dramatic Society Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:15 in Trinity Recreation Hall, 36th and O sts. nw. . . . Father Leo Monaghan, S. J., and Joan O'Byrne of Catholic University, are directing the play with Pat Dunn of Immaculata College, who plays the title role, and Bill Blatty, the Creon . . . While she was in Baltimore recently, Miss Cornell came over to talk with the students about their production.

"HARVEY" seats went on sale yesterday at the National. Frank Fay will be playing his award-winning Elwood P. Dowd for at least four weeks beginning Monday night.

THE SOUTHEAST Dramatics Association will be holding tryouts for its summer show tonight and Saturday night from 8 to 10 at Friendship House, 619 D st. se. . . . The play will be an Elizabethan farce, "The Merry Devil," and will be performed in the Friendship House garden in July. . . . The D. C. Recreation Department is sponsoring a folk festival tonight and Saturday in the Roosevelt High gymnasium, 13th and Upshur sts. nw. The curtain rises at 8:15 . . . American University plays "Charley's Aunt" tonight and Saturday at 8:30 in the Leonard Student Center just off Ward Circle; phone MEtropolitan 0258 for further information.

Minority Report Exonerates Hughes

Howard R. Hughes, West Coast planemaker, and his companies were held blameless of any fraud, corruption or wilful wrongdoing in connection with war contracts in a minority report of the Senate War Investigating Committee filed last night.

The minority report, submitted by Senator Carl A. Hatch (D., N. Mex.), was signed by the other three committee Democrats, Senators Claude Pepper, J. Howard McGrath and Herbert R. O'Conor.

The four were sharply critical of the committee's handling of the spectacular Hughes hearings. Their report charged that the committee, which has now ceased to exist, "repeatedly exceeded its power" as defined by Senate resolutions.

"The handling of the investigation and the conduct of at least part of the hearings, whether deservedly or not, caused public censure and even public suspicion of the motives behind the investigation," the report declared.

The four Democrats warned that Congress must improve the conduct of some of its investigating committees.

"Investigations by congressional committees, as in some instances they have been conducted," the report maintained, "amount almost to a denial of some of the fundamental rights to which our democracy has always been dedicated."

The report warned that "the power of Congress is the delegated power of the whole people and should not be used lightly or for any questionable purpose."

Such uses will "invite destruction of public faith in all investigations," the minority said.

"It is equally dangerous," the Democrats warned, "for a committee, though its intentions be honorable, to employ such careless methods as to engender public suspicion or doubt as to its motives.

"The public is incredibly sensitive to such situations and often finds it difficult to distinguish between honest blundering and plain demogoguery."

The Democrats said the majority report used "inference and innuendo" to imply Hughes had been guilty of "grave wrongdoings not expressly charged."

These implications are not supported by the evidence, the Democrats held.

"There is absolutely nothing in the evidence," they said, "which discloses any fraud, corruption or wrongdoing on the part of Howard Hughes or his associates. All the evidence is directly to the contrary," the report stated.

Further, the evidence shows, the minority said, "and there is nothing to dispute it," that far from making excessive profits Hughes spent seven million dollars of his own money in plane building for the Government.

Welfare Director Sworn In . . .

The Washington Post

TAKES OATH—John M. Tramburg is sworn in as Director of Public Welfare by Geoffrey M. Thornett, secretary to the Commissioners. Witnessing the ceremony yesterday in the District Building are Mrs. Tramburg and their daughter, Georgene (left)

Family Life Stressed in Child Guidance

The importance of good family life for mental welfare was stressed yesterday in a talk before the University of Maryland's annual parent's institute.

Family life was discussed by Dr. Mabel Ross, director of the new Prince Georges County Mental Hygiene Clinic, principal speaker at the all-day session. More than 50 parents and educators attended the institute which centered on child guidance.

Dr. Ross said the family is "just as essential in mental welfare of people as food is to physical welfare," in emphasizing the role of a harmonious family life as a key to proper child guidance.

She listed as "inherent principles" of family living, the desire to belong to and be wanted by a group; to be important or useful to an individual or to a group and to be respected as an individual.

Also taking part in the institute were Charles Coffer, professor of psychology at Maryland University, and Herbert L. Rooney, chief psychiatric worker at the Prince Georges Mental Clinic.

2 Clergymen Forfeit Bond On Marriage-Report Charges

Two clergymen yesterday forfeited a total of $55 collateral rather than face trial in Municipal Court on charges that they violated regulations in performing marriage ceremonies here.

Rabbi Moshe H. Levinson of 702 Jefferson st. nw., was charged with six counts of making late reports in returning his marriage certificates to the Marriage License Bureau. The law calls for a report within 10 days after the ceremony. In some cases, Rabbi Levinson waited 20 days, according to Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King. The clergyman who forfeited $30 collateral is connected with Beth El Synagogue.

Dr. Alfred W. Hurst of 3400 Lowell st. nw., elected to forfeit $25 on a charge of performing an unauthorized marriage. He married a couple when another minister on the license application was scheduled to perform the ceremony. Dr. Hurst is connected with Cleveland Park Congregational Church.

These were two out of more than 350 cases under investigation by the Corporation Counsel's office.

Tramburg Is Sworn as Welfare Chief

Best public welfare policy "is to keep families at home together and children out of institutions as much as possible."

This was the philosophy expressed yesterday by John W. Tramburg after he took oath as District Director of Public Welfare.

The 35-year-old former superintendent of the Industrial Home School told reporters he wanted to give as much help as the budget will allow "to those who need it." But he emphasized it is necessary to "encourage those who are recipients of assistance to become self-sustaining."

He was appointed to the $9975-a-year post by the Commissioners Tuesday to succeed the late Ray Huff, who died last December. The Board of Public Welfare had nominated him last Friday by an 8-to-1 vote.

Tramburg was sworn in by Geoffrey Thornett, secretary to the Board of Commissioners, at the District Building office of Commissioner John Russell Young. He was accompanied by his wife and their 5-year-old daughter, Georgene Lou.

The Commissioners, members of the Board of Public Welfare, and approximately 50 District officials and friends were present.

Tramburg said he would make no announcement of administrative plans until he has a chance to make a detailed study of welfare problems and hold staff conferences.

Department divisions which have received the greatest criticism will be studied first, he said.

He stated, however, he will recommend to the Board of Public Welfare that Gerard M. Shea, his assistant at Industrial Home School, be named to succeed him as superintendent there.

Following installation ceremonies, the Commissioners appointed Tramburg to succeed the late Mr. Huff as member of the District Personnel Board.

Tuberculosis Diagnosing Speeded Up

Minneapolis, May 13 (AP).—A new and quicker animal test for diagnosing human tuberculosis was reported today to the Society of American Bacteriologists.

Dr. Albert Milzer of Chicago said a new technique employing special brown or black mice offered possibilities of verifying presence of the disease in man in about 10 days—as compared with four to six weeks under a widely used method of employing guinea pigs.

The society learned of these other new developments today:

Scientists of the medical department's research and graduate school at Washington, D. C., reported a new vaccine against "Russian spring-summer encephalitis" — a disease described as occurring "in certain portions of Asia." It is borne by ticks.

A new germ-fighter found in an organism occurring in the soil—has proved effective against typhoid, dysentery, food-poisoning and other bacteria in test-tube tests.

Dr. P. S. Tetrault of Purdue University said the as-yet-unnamed substance was effective against the same type of germs laid low by streptomycin, and that the preliminary evidence in animal tests suggested the substance might produce less "after-effects" than streptomycin sometimes does.

The electron microscope has detected a definite difference between two organisms that look exactly alike under an ordinary microscope, and which have confused some investigators.

The organisms are:

1. The germ that causes syphilis.
2. The germ that causes "pinta"—or "mal de los pintos"—a skin disease that occurs in Mexico and Cuba.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"
Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Plane With 36 Aboard Lands In Emergency

Chillicothe, Mo., May 13 (U.P.).—A Trans-World Airlines Constellation, carrying 32 passengers from Los Angeles to Chicago, made an emergency landing at Municipal Airport here at 3:35 p. m. today.

The pilot of the huge four-engined craft, E. T. Hereford, of Los Angeles, declined to comment.

City Fire Chief Walter Forbis said an instrument in the pilot's compartment had registered smoke in the air and "apparently there had been a fire."

The Constellation, flight 94, left Los Angeles at 8 a. m. today and was scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 4:45 p. m.

Chillicothe officials said there were no injuries and that the craft landed without incident. It carried a crew of four.

TWA officials said the plane was not damaged.

Republican Club Headed by Coyle

William E. Coyle, a Washington radio and newspaper man, last night was elected president of the Young Republican Club of Montgomery County, Md.

Other officers elected at a meeting in the Masonic Temple, Silver Spring, were:

Olga E. Beck, vice president; John F. Kelly, treasurer, and Francis G. Hassell, secretary.

Coyle, who lives at 9523 Thornhill rd., Silver Spring, is director of radio and television activities for the Washington Star on station WMAL and WMAL-TV.

Girl May Lose An Eye From Air Rifle Shot

A 14-year-old high-school girl may lose an eye from a rebounding BB fired by a neighbor outside the house where she was visiting.

The girl, Katherine King of 2231 Shannon pl. se., whose left eye was operated on yesterday at Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, was helping to wipe dishes in the second-floor kitchen of a neighbor, Mrs. Ruth Hyre, 2239 Shannon pl. se., Wednesday evening, when the accident occurred.

Harry Carlson, 18, a mechanic, of 1125 Chicago st. se., who is a friend of the King family, was shooting at cigarette butts with two companions in an alley behind the Hyre home, according to police, who said one BB struck an alley wall, rebounded through a window screen and struck the girl in the eye.

Thief Wrecks 'Phone, Flees With $500

A hold-up man who momentarily delayed pursuit by ripping out his victim's telephone escaped last evening with $500 in cash and checks from Jewler's Market, 3904 14th st., nw.

The victim, Louis Jewler, 55, told police he was in his grocery and liquor store with two clerks when the bandit entered at 7:55 p. m. with drawn revolver.

A 49-year-old mother of two children yesterday foiled an attempted robbery in the Pittles Bakery, 7709 Georgia ave., by knocking money from the hand of the would-be thief and screaming when he pushed her to the floor, police reported.

She is Mrs. Judy T. Cavaliere of 7701 Georgia ave., manager of the bakery.

Senate Group To Hold Hearings On Three Bills

A Senate District subcommittee will hold open hearings today at 10 a. m. on three local bills.

One measure, already passed by the House, would provide for treatment of sexual psychopaths and increase penalties for sex offenses involving children.

A second House-approved bill would regulate and limit the installation of radio and television transmission towers.

The third piece of legislation would tighten the laws relating to the possession, carrying, and acquisition of pistols and other weapons.

Home Loans Continue Rise Here in Period

By S. Oliver Goodman

First mortgage loans made by the 27 building and loan associations in Washington metropolitan area increased $3,062,128 in the first four months this year as compared with the same 1947 period.

Figures compiled by F. Willson Camp, secretary of the District of Columbia Building and Loan League, showed that home loans totaling $41,171,469 were completed up to May, against $38,109,341 in the like period last year.

Number of loans was 4869 during the four months, against 4388 last year.

Comparisons by months follow:

	1948 Number of loans.	1948 Amount of loans.	1947 Number of loans.	1947 Amount of loans.
Jan.	1205	$9,820,412	1033	$8,949,200
Feb.	1116	9,925,497	1177	11,769,291
March	1254	9,585,560	1039	8,174,317
April	1294	11,840,000	1139	9,216,533

Camp also reported that the 163,856 savings members of the associations added $22,500,000 to their accounts during the year ended April 30 and brought their combined savings to a new high of $276,209,523. More than 6300 new accounts were opened during the 12-month period.

Surplus and reserves passed the 28-million-dollar mark in Mid-April, while total assets of the 27 member associations reached $342,735,000, an increase of 14 per cent over a year ago.

RATES HIKED: Brokers' commission rates on stocks selling between 10 and 49⅞ have been increased five cents a share on the Washington Stock Exchange, it was learned yesterday. The new rates are 20 cents a share between 10 and 14⅞, 30 cents a share between 15 and 24⅞, 40 cents a share between 25 and 49⅞. Stocks Again Surge, Attain 21-Month Top

New York, May 13 (AP). — The stock market today negotiated its fastest push in three weeks to reach a new average 21-month high.

Selected rails, industrials and utilities overrode relatively heavy profit cashing on the lengthy drive and closed up fractions to 2 points. Minor losses, however, were plentiful.

Buyers still were inspired by business optimism stemming from the outlook for big Government spending for a long time to come.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite advanced .4 of a point to 69.1, a peak since Aug. 30, 1946. Both the industrial and rail indexes were at their best marks of the past year or so.

Transfers of 2,030,000 shares compared with 1,530,000 Wednesday and were the largest since April 23. Of the total, 680,000 shares were traded in the final hour. It was the thirty-eighth session since March 18 in which the million figure has been exceeded.

Ahead 1 to 2 points were Santa Fe at 111¼ and Canadian Pacific at 17½, buoyed by lands with oil prospects; Union Pacific 182, Central Railroad of N. J. 30¼, General Electric 39¼, Allied Chemical 192, Du Pont 177, U. S. Gypsum 101½, Texas Pacific Land Trust 47¾, Owens-Illinois 62, American Can 91, Studebaker 26⅝, Columbia Gas 13⅜, Kennecott 55⅝, American Smelting 59¾, U. S. Rubber 46⅜ and Caterpillar Tractor 64.

A feature of trading on the Curb was a 5⅛-point jump in Cities Service which closed at 58. It was the most active issue on the Curb today.

9 Million in Royalties Freed by Court Order

Cleveland, May 13 (AP).—Federal judges announced today receipt of Circuit Court instructions to release nine million dollars in patent royalties tied up for 13 years by suits against the Cold Metal Process Co. of Youngstown.

The money had been paid into the account by various steel companies pending the outcome of the suit against the firm and its former president, Albert P. Steckel.

The Government had claimed that two rolling patents had been obtained fraudently in 1930 but the courts disallowed this. On May 4 the United States Supreme Court refused to review the case.

Grain Market

FLOUR—Receipts, 12,801 100-lb. sacks.

WHEAT—Receipts, 33,419 bushels; shipments, none; stock, 784,348 bushels.

CORN—Receipts, 12,143 bushels; shipments, 4000 bushels; stock, 213,178 bushels.

OATS—No receipt, no shipments; stock, 11,232 bushels.

New York Cotton

New York, May 13 (AP).—Cotton futures closed 70 cents a bale lower to 20 cents higher today. Losses extended to more than $1 a bale in early dealings as increased May liquidation, along with profit taking and selling by locals met indifferent trade demand. Short covering rallied the market sharply into new high ground for the day in late trading. Renewed liquidation pared part of the advance by the close.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, May 13 (AP).—Feed grains dropped on the Board of Trade today, but wheat ended with small gains and losses. Demand for May contracts was much less urgent than on other days this week and both May corn and May oats had fair-sized losses.

In part, the decline in feed grains was considered a normal reaction after the strength of the past few days. But an outpouring of cash corn by the country helped to shake sentiment. Cash dealers reported they purchased 300,000 bushels of corn on a to-arrive basis.

Wheat closed ½ lower to ¼ higher, May 2.47¼@2.47½; corn was 1¼ to 3 cents lower, May 2.29½@2.30; oats were ¾ to 1⅜ lower, May 1.15½, and soybeans were 7 to 8 cents higher, May 4.04.

Range follows:

Eaton Linked To Suit Which Upset K-F Deal

Detroit, May 13 (AP).—Financier Cyrus Eaton was identified today as the client of two lawyers who inquired into a lawsuit which upset a 10 million dollar Kaiser-Fraser stock deal.

The Clevelander was named by Attorneys Allan Hull and Marvin C. Harrison in Federal Court testimony through which the pair escaped possible contempt action.

Previously, claiming the protection of "attorney-client privilege," Hull and Harrison had balked at the SEC's demand that they name their client.

Eaton is chairman of Otis & Co., principal underwriter of the sale last February of 900,000 shares of Kaiser-Frazer Corp. stock.

Upon the filing of a stockholders' suit against Kaiser-Frazer on February 9, Otis & Co. withdrew from the K-F transaction.

Eaton, majority stockholder in the Otis firm, denied at an April 27 hearing he had anything to do with the filing of the suit by James Masterson, a Philadelphia attorney.

At the same hearing a Kaiser-Frazer attorney testified the suit was "phony."

The SEC, meanwhile, ended a three-day hearing in Chicago and prepared for a four-day stand in Cleveland.

U. S. Bond Rate To Remain 1⅛% Through July

Secretary of Treasury Snyder yesterday held the interest rate on one-year Government securities unchanged through the month of July.

Snyder announced that the one-and-one-eighth-per-cent rate of recent months for one-year Treasury certificates of indebtedness will be continued for a new offering to be dated June 1.

This had special significance since bank officials have predicted that the interest rate on short-term loans to business would be increased if the Treasury boosted the rate on its one-year certificates.

However, he told a news conference that the Treasury is not "frozen" to the one and one-eighth per cent rate.

Bond Prices Spurt

New York, May 13 (AP).—United States Government bonds advanced sharply in rapid-fire trading today after news from Washington that the Treasury would not change its interest rate on certificates in the near future.

Over-the-counter dealers reported gains ranging to around ½ point in some Treasury issues. Shorter term issues as well as long-term bonds joined the advance.

The September 2½s of 1967-'72, which are eligible for commercial bank purchase, jumped 12/32 of a point to 102 12/32 bid, or a yield of around 2.36 per cent.

James H. Burns Quits As Federation Head In Peace Gesture

In a "peace" move, James H. Burns has resigned as president of the AFL's American Federation of Government Employes, and a meeting of the union's executive council set for today has been cancelled. His resignation stops a threatened bitter row within the council between the pro and anti-Burns forces which some members feared would break up the union.

Mrs. Berniece B. Heffner, secretary-treasurer, will be acting president. A new president will be elected for a two-year term at the union's August convention. Burns, who has been president for nine years, could be a candidate again for the office.

AFGE leaders yesterday conceded that Burns' peace gesture may not bring peace in the union. It's no secret that several of the executive council members who put pressure on Burns to resign because of administrative differences will be opposed for reelection.

The decision to accept Burns' resignation was made yesterday after a phone vote of the council members. Afterwards, Burns issued this statement:

"Differences arise in the affairs of men and organizations, and I suppose they always will. They have now in the Federation. If my ambition has always moved me only to achieve ultimately the best interests of the membership, personal considerations of every kind should be put aside for the common good. Already enough publicity has occurred to have a disadvantageous effect felt within the Federation. Regardless of the merits of any organizational differences, I cannot permit it to continue.

"Therefore, to prevent such further unfavorable publicity, and for the best interests of those for whom I have worked so long and whose affection and confidence I hold so dear, I have tendered my resignation as president which has now been accepted effective tomorrow."

The union was reported to have had a deficit of $25,000 when Burns took over the union. Today it has cash and bonds worth more than $30,000. However, it's also reported that AFGE membership has been falling off and that it is operating in the red on an average of $2000 a month.

LOYALTY: Attorney General Tom C. Clark yesterday told the Press Club that evidence indicating disloyalty had been found against only 1 per cent of the Federal workers. He reported:

That the FBI had checked 1,800,000 of the two million Government people; that evidence requiring full-dress investigations had been found on only 2048; that only 571 of the investigations had been completed, and of that number 133 resigned during the inquiries, 12 are no longer employed, and results of the remaining 426 investigations had been turned over to Federal agencies for possible action.

It was estimated, Clark said, that 45,000 full-dress investigations would have to be made when the President's loyalty program was launched. The final result won't be a tenth of that estimate.

The Attorney General emphasized that Federal workers shouldn't be subjected to another trial. It was an obvious crack at Congress which seems intent on reviewing the case of Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards. Clark then cited instances where a dozen Presidents had refused to turn over confidential files to the Congress.

CIVIL RIGHTS: In his controversial civil rights message to Congress, the President said he would soon issue an order to prevent discrimination in Federal employment. That was several months ago. At his press conference yesterday, the President was asked if the order he referred to was being drafted. He said it was not.

AWARDS: Chairman Langer of the Senate Civil Service Committee will be given an award tonight for his outstanding work in behalf of Federal workers. Awards also will go to William E. Bromsen of the Railway Mail Service, and Harry L. Harding of the postal service, as typical Federal workers. The honors are being conferred by the Civil Service Reporter. The affair will take place in the Federal Room at the Statler. Federal workers are invited.

NOTES: The House-approved rider to permit the Agriculture Department to pay salaries over $10,000 to 10 of its employes has been knocked out by the Senate Appropriations Committee. While in favor of the idea, the Senate group believes it should be accomplished by general legislation that would cover all agencies . . . Jerre Mangione, who recently resigned as an assistant to the Immigration and Naturalization Commissioner, has authored a new book, "The Ship and the Flame." His book, "Mount Allegro," was a best seller in 1943 . . . Clark Simpson, assistant director of GAO's corporation audits, has accepted a $13,000 job as deputy comptroller of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

VETERANS: The Railroad Retirement Board was lectured for its policies and procedures on the hiring and lay-off of veterans in a report released yesterday by the House Civil Service Committee. The committee charged that veterans weren't protected at RRB. It urged Civil Service to make a check on the agency to make sure the veterans preference law is being carried out.

Bond Issue For District Favored by Rep. Bates

Public Hearings End; 6 Witnesses Back Sales Tax, 16 Oppose It

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) said last night he likes the idea of a bond issue for public construction "a little better" than any other plan for keeping the District out of the red in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Bates proposed the bond issue for next year as the first step in a possible program of public borrowing on a limited scale to meet perhaps 6 or 7 million dollars of the estimated 20 million a year charted for municipal improvements in the next few years. He said any borrowing should be authorized a year at a time.

Hearing Close

The bond issue has been advanced as a possible alternative for a 2 per cent retail sales tax for the District, on which a two-day public hearing at the Capitol was completed late yesterday. The Commissioners, strong Washington business groups and some other local organizations favor the sales tax. Labor, consumer, veterans and other groups are fighting it. The lineup of yesterday's witnesses was 6 for the sales tax and 16 against.

Next step will be an executive discussion next week by subcommittees headed by Bates and Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.). They will seek some preliminary agreement on what revenue program may be recommended to Congress to fill an estimated 4 to 6 million dollar deficit in next year's city budget.

The deficit now in sight would be more than doubled by application of a Federal pay raise to District employes. To take care of that, Bates said the possible alternatives were some increase in the property tax rate, an increase in the income tax rates, or adoption of a sales tax. He said he is keeping an open mind on all the plans, although he has consistently opposed the sales tax. Bates said he is opposed to putting the whole deficit load on property.

Among the more than 20 witnesses, testimony of three sharply highlighted the division among Washington groups on the sales tax issue:

1. Rufus S. Lusk, testifying as president of the Washington Taxpayers Association, called the sales tax the "only fair and practicable solution" to the need for more city revenue. He said the alternative was a rise of 35 to 40 cents in the real estate tax rate, now $2 per $100, and declared such an increase "spells eventual fiscal chaos in our municipal government."

"Would you mind just a little increase in the real estate tax?" asked Bates.

"Oh, yes, sir," said Lusk.

Representative Howard Smith (D., Va.) reminded the group that the boost in District property taxes this year over last had been about 30 per cent.

2. Against the sales tax, Mrs. Frances Lichtenberg of the Washington League of Women Shoppers told the Congressmen that by the sales tax "you will be taxing most of your constituents here more than you would by broadening the income tax."

Congress last year, by a powerful vote in the House, kept the city income tax applicable mainly to legal residents of the District, and exempted from the levy the official salaries of Federal employes living here who have a legal domicile elsewhere.

Opponents of the sales tax have emphasized mainly that it hits hardest income groups least able to pay. Several called for another effort to get congressional approval for broadening the income tax to catch all who live here, regardless of where their legal domicile is.

3. A third witness, Paul Kerman, president of the District Grocery Stores, opposed the sales tax and said that mention of it to Marylnad grocers in his chain "is enough to give them high blood pressure—some of them say it has given them ulcers."

Kerman said the Maryland grocers felt it was the "meanest form of taxation—it's a daily irritant." Sponsors of the District sales tax want to model it after Maryland's tax.

Benjamin Striner, vice president of the Federation of Business Men's Association, said his group had turned from opposition to the sales tax a year ago to reluctant support of it as a third choice. First two choices were a broadened income tax, or a flat payroll tax. Kenneth Armstrong, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, said his group feels there should not be new taxes pending home rule, but if a sales tax is to be passed it should be accompanied by repeal of the personal income tax.

Spokesmen for other citizens and womens groups joined the lineup for the sales tax.

C. F. Preller, president of the Central Labor Union, AFL, spokesmen for other labor groups, and representatives of veterans, consumers and other groups came out strongly against the sales tax.

Hearing Set Today for Owner Of Dog That Attacked Boy, 5

The Washington Post

"I STILL LIKE DOGS," said Philip Donahue, 5, as he showed his color book to his stepsister, Peggy, 15, yesterday in Casualty Hospital

Mrs. Ophelia Martin of 1134 Florida ave. ne., owner of a mongrel dog that severely chewed a 5-year-old neighbor boy Wednesday, has been summoned to a hearing set for 11 a. m. today at the Corporation Counsel's office in Municipal Court, police said yesterday.

The victim, Philip A. Donahue, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Donahue of 1114 Florida ave. ne., was feeling well and was ready to go home any time, he said yesterday at Casualty Hospital. While hospital authorities said he wasn't that well yet, they had changed the listing of his condition from "critical" Wednesday night to "good" yesterday.

Members of Philip's family, neighbors and his two companions at the time of the dog's attack have been asked to appear at the hearing. His companions were Cora and Eileen Taylor of 1134 Florida ave. ne.

Philip, who may carry indefinitely the scars on his leg made by the dog's teeth, according to his doctor, was coloring a picture book at the hospital yesterday afternoon while he was receiving a visit from his stepbrother and stepsister, Robert Daniel, 18, and Peggy Daniel, 15.

"I still like dogs," he admitted shyly as he showed a reporter that some of the pictures he had colored in his book yesterday were of dogs.

The mongrel, which Mrs. Martin wants back because he is a "good watchdog," was tested for rabies at the District Pound, where he was taken by police, but the results had not been received yesterday.

House Group Defers Hearings On Police-Fire Pay Increase

A House District Subcommittee yesterday deferred hearings on a proposed $800-a-year pay increase for District police and firemen pending congressional action on a cost-of-living wage boost for Federal employes.

The temporarily pigeonholed bill would have benefited White House and U. S. Park Police as well as the Metropolitan Police force.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.), also postponed consideration of proposals to increase the pensions of policemen's and firemen's orphans and widows until the District Commissioners, police and firemen's associations could get together and work out a single bill.

The subcommitte indicated it was sympathetic to the pension increase, but that it didn't like the idea of the Commissioners getting one bill introduced, and the policemen's and firemen's organizations another.

Widows now receive $60 a month; orhpans $10 a month, until the age of 16.

The Commissioners' bill would increase the pensions to $100 and $25 a month, respectively, and would add $25 a month to the pension of a widow whose husband died as a hero in the line of duty.

More than a dozen spokesmen for police and firemen's organizations, however, testified in support of a second bill, which would provide $125 a month for all widows, not merely those of heroes, and would continue the orphans' pension, $25 a month, until the age of 18.

Both bills would increase the contribution of policemen and firemen to the retirement fund by 1½ per cent. The present contribution is 5 per cent of salary.

Husband Finds U. S. Worker Dead in Closet

Mrs. Florence M. Hamilton, 45 Agriculture Department veteran statistician, was found dead last night in a closet of her home, her neck in an insulated wire noose that had broken above the knot.

Her crumpled body was discovered by her husband, Ralph Hamilton, upon his return home at 5310 13th st. nw. at 6:25 p. m. The husband, a statistician with the Census Bureau, said his wife had been ill about two months. They have no children.

The husband said his wife, a graduate of Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, had worked with the Agriculture Department for 24 years. Two months ago, he said, she began to complain of feeling ill, and six weeks ago was forced to leave her desk.

When he left for work yesterday mornnig, Hamilton said, she appeared to be feeling better and was in good spirits.

Certificate of death was withheld pending investigation by the Coroner's Office.

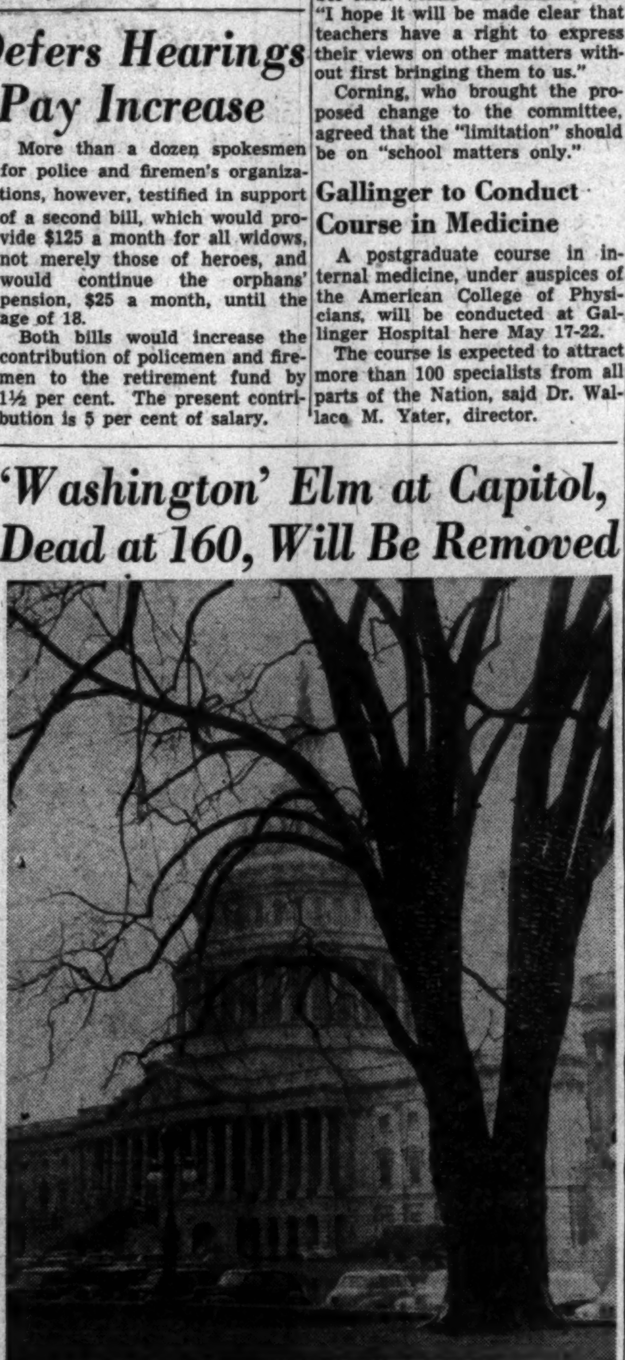
'Washington' Elm at Capitol, Dead at 160, Will Be Removed



The Washington Post

LIFELESS—The famed Washington Elm is dead

The ancient, spreading tree in the park east of the Senate wing of the Capitol, known as the Washington Elm and old enough to have been planted by the first President, is dead and must soon be removed.

Believed to be about 160 years old, the majestic tree, which is infested by European elm bark beetles, was examined recently by tree experts and condemned, Capitol Architect David Lynn reported yesterday.

One report of a study of the tree, which died of old age, said it is "very reasonable" to assume that George Washington could have planted it, and if it was about 10 years old when it was planted about 1798, the estimated age would be 160 now.

Lynn said he would decide in a few days when the giant must come down and what use will be made of the wood. While it may have to be burned because the beetles infesting it are sometimes carriers of the insidious Dutch elm disease, there is some possibility that the wood may be used for making gavels used in the House and Senate chambers and by committee chairmen.

The ancient tree, which bears a small plate proclaiming it to be an "Ulmus Americanus," but with no mention of George Washington, was noted by Frederick Law Olmsted, who laid out the Capitol Grounds, in a record made in 1882.

Board Acts To Put Ban On Lobbying By Teachers

New Rule Ordered To Define Action, With Dismissal as Violation Penalty

The Board of Education yesterday took steps to prevent District school teachers from taking their views on school matters directly to Congress.

The board's rules committee instructed Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning to draw up a new rule that would make lobbying by a teacher on measures the board had not considered a cause of dismissal.

The proposal would change the present mild wording of a regulation that states the board "looks with disfavor upon any effort to effect legislation, unless it has been submitted to the board for its consideration and approval."

Critical of Pay Efforts

Board members have been critical in recent months of teachers who have carried their views on a salary raise to members of Congress without first presenting them to the board.

George E. B. Hayes, chairman of the committee, asked Corning to "spell out" in his draft the meaning of "lobbying."

"If it is to be a cause of dismissal, teachers should know what constitutes a violation," Hayes said.

He indicated that teachers called by Congressmen to testify on bills that the board had not considered should be permitted to give their views.

"It is more than a coincidence, though, that so many teachers are called," Committee Member Adelbert W. Lee said.

Insubordination Seen

Teachers who go directly to Congress with their views and do not bring them to school officers and the board first are "guilty of insubordination," Lee said.

The new rule will be submitted to the committee Tuesday or Wednesday for action, Corning said. Before it becomes effective it will have to be approved by the board as a whole.

"Teachers have rights as citizens and human beings," Board Member Mrs. Velma G. Williams said. "I hope it will be made clear that teachers have a right to express their views on other matters without first bringing them to us."

Corning, who brought the proposed change to the committee, agreed that the "limitation" should be on "school matters only."

Gallinger to Conduct Course in Medicine

A postgraduate course in internal medicine, under auspices of the American College of Physicians, will be conducted at Gallinger Hospital here May 17-22.

The course is expected to attract more than 100 specialists from all parts of the Nation, said Dr. Wallace M. Yater, director.

Arlingtonian Who Shot Wife and Baby Blames Mother-in-Law Trouble

JAILED—Herman David Evins (right), 33-year-old former Army sergeant, is led to the Arlington County jail by Detective Jack Cullins. Evins, held on an open charge pending outcome of their wounds, told police he shot his young wife and year-old son because of "in-law" trouble

Army Map Worker Yields After Search; Wounded Woman 'Good,' Son 'Critical'

In bewildered half-hysteria, a 33-year-old Army Map Service employe yesterday told Arlington authorities he shot his young wife and their child because of "in-law" trouble."

Held on an open charge in the Arlington County jail pending outcome of their wounds is Herman David Evins of 4100 37th st., Arlington. The wounded:

Mrs. Elizabeth Evins, 23, who is in Arlington Hospital in good condition with a bullet wound in her scalp and right breast.

Robert Herman Evins, their year-old son, in critical condition at Georgetown Hospital with a .25-caliber bullet wound in his forehead.

Surrenders at Gas Station

Sought throughout Wednesday night in a general lookout, Evins, wearing only trousers, appeared at a filling station 1½ miles west of Chain Bridge and asked that police be called.

The tip-off to Arlington police on Evins' location came from Albert Bray, manager of the Kirby Dairy Farm in Langley. He saw the hunted man hanging about the Langley Service Station, across the street from Gray's home about 8:30 a. m. yesterday.

Evins, finding the station closed and unable to get a phone, asked Gray to call police for him, give them his location, and say he was ready to give himself up. Gray made the call from his own home while Evins waited across the street.

Mrs. Evins and the baby were shot as she stood in the bathroom holding the child. Evins fled, eluding a brother-in-law who attempted to stop him by seizing his shirt. He left the house, shirtless and shoeless; drove through the night's heavy rain until he wrecked his automobile near Chain Bridge.

His story, punctuated with frequent nervous laughs, was told to Commonwealth's Attorney Denman T. Rucker and other officials after prolonged questioning yesterday.

Blames Mother-in-Law

The husky former Army sergeant, shortly after his arrest told police "my mother-in-law is the cause of all this."

But his account to Rucker elaborated that motive to tell of living in the handsome, two-story, four-bedroom home with his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Winston, and brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Hansell. Another sister-in-law, Mrs. Marjory Gaddey, and her two children have been expected for a visit, police said.

Evins told of his efforts to induce his wife to move out with him. The crisis came, they quoted him, shortly after 9 p. m. Wednesday when, after another argument with his wife and mother-in-law, Evins got in his car and drove to Washington.

Borrows Pistol From Friend

There, according to police, he borrowed a .25 caliber pistol from a fellow-worker in the Army Map Service, and returned to his home. Police last night declined to identify the friend, but said he would be questioned today (Friday).

After Evins returned, his wife picked up some of her clothing and that of her child's and started to move out of their room into her mother's room.

He said the argument actually started Tuesday when he told other members of the household he "didn't like" the idea of the crowd at the house. Speaking of the impending visit by Mrs. Gaddey and her children, he said "I'll hit those little brats three times daily just on general principles."

Evins stayed home from work Tuesday; told police "we argued all day." He went to work Wednesday and returned to again ask his wife to move out with him. She refused, he said, and he went to his room, picked up the pistol and left the house alone.

Mrs. Weaver Acquitted of Slaying Spouse

Catherine Virginia Weaver, 40-year-old housewife, was acquitted yesterday of the fatal shooting of her husband in their Cottage City (Md.) home last July 2.

A verdict of not guilty was returned by a mixed jury in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court, after it deliberated 2½ hours following a full day of testimony at Upper Marlboro, Md. It was the second time she had been tried for the slaying, a previous trial having resulted in a hung jury last November 4.

The case was tried before Circuit Court Judges Charles Marbury and John B. Gray.

The defendant, who still lives in the home where the shooting occurred, was accused of shooting her husband, Joseph M. Weaver, 43, five times following an argument over another woman. She claimed she shot in self-defense after her husband advanced on her with a butcher knife and told her, "I am going to put you out of your misery."

"I never would have shot him if I hadn't been afraid for my life," declared Mrs. Weaver, mother of two daughters.

Although admitting she now knew her husband had been shot five times, the defendant said she only recalled firing one shot. "I was about out of my mind because my husband came at me just like a maniac, and I don't remember much about what happened after that," she explained.

A key witness called by Defense Attorney Robert W. McCullough was the Weavers' 21-year-old daughter, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, who between sobs, said she had often heard her father threaten her mother's life, on several occasions when Mrs. Weaver objected to her husband's bragging openly about an affair with another woman.

Mrs. McLaughlin, visibly shaken by her role in the trial, fainted outside the courtroom door only a few minutes after she had completed her testimony.

Much of the prosecution's case centered on the death weapon, a cumbersome, frontier-type six-shooter which has to be cocked each time before it is fired. In demonstrating the weapon before the jury, State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie commented, "I don't see how anyone could fire this thing five separate times and still not remember it."

In his charge to the jury, Bowie said it could bring in any one of five verdicts—first-degree murder, first-degree murder without capital punishment, second-degree murder, manslaughter or not guilty.

Youth Is Charged With Exposing Person

Montgomery County police yesterday arrested 18-year-old Wesley R. Wilken, 3346 Tennyson st. nw., on charges of indecent exposure.

They said the arrest "clears up six or seven unsolved sex offenses reported in the Bethesda, Md., area during the past year." The police also said he has admitted the offenses, involving children 6 to 14 years old.

He was released on $500 bond for appearance in Bethesda Police Court Monday.

Woman, 72, Uses Touch to Identify Man

A 54-year-old man was charged with rape by a nearly blind woman, 72, yesterday after her sense of touch "identified him."

The victim, after running her fingers over a suspect's head and face, told police "that's the man."

Police said the man, Joseph (Duke) Ross, 54, of 804 Larch ave., Takoma Park, confessed the crime after the dramatic encounter with his victim. He was held without bail at Rockville Jail last night.

The story of how the suspect's identity became known was told by Inspector James S. McAuliffe, Montgomery County detective chief.

At about 11:30 Wednesday night, the woman, who has lived alone since her husband died three years ago, stepped to the back porch of her home on Jefferson ave. in Takoma Park, to catch rainwater in a bucket. She uses the water on flowers.

A man asking about an address appeared. He smelled of alcohol. After a brief conversation he grabbed her by the throat. She lost consciousness. She recovered consciousness, she told police, while being attacked in her bedroom.

"I prayed to God I would die . . .," McAuliffe quoted her as saying.

During the attack she ran her sensitive fingers over his face and clothing, etching the details in her memory. When the man left, she struggled to a telephone and called a physician who notified police.

McAuliffe said she furnished "an excellent" description of the man. She told them he was bald, with hair on the sides of his head and wore a cap without a visor. She described his height, weight, and the contours of his face. She also mentioned a "peculiar odor" and said he had "a large ridge" on the back of his neck.

Residents Questioned

McAuliffe said that detectives, armed with the description, questioned residents of the community, merchants and police informers.

A break came from William Hobbs, a desk clerk at the Takoma Park police station. Hobbs said he thought the description fitted a Takoma Park garbage collector named Ross.

Detectives went to Ross' home and took him into custody. He denied any knowledge of the crime when questioned at the Silver Spring station.

He then was taken to the home of rape victim.

She ran her fingers over the man's head, neck and clothing and told police: "This is the man." After more questioning, the man confessed, McAuliffe said.

The arrest was made by Detective Corpls. Frank Griggs and Glen Wood.

Area News in Brief

Busy Laundryman Released by Court

Henry Chin Bow, 50, who was charged with numerous violations of fire regulations in his laundry at 303 E st. ne., was released by Municipal Court yesterday after he promised to comply with the law.

When Bow appeared before Judge Thomas D. Quinn a month ago, the judge was skeptical when Bow said he didn't have time to make changes in his laundry because he worked 23 hours a day trying to support eight children who live in New York.

Captain Howard V. Covell of the First Precinct said patrolmen never had seen Bow's laundry dark for more than an hour out of the 24.

Building Inspector Charles O'Connell told the court Bow had, for the most part, fireproofed his laundry, and he felt that, given time, improvements would be made.

Policeman Promoted

Arlington Police Chief H. L. Woodyard yesterday announced the promotion from private to police sergeant of Frank C. Palmer, jr., 29, county traffic safety officer.

Palmer

Palmer, who joined the force July 1, 1940, served in the Marine Corps in the Pacific between 1943 and 1946, then returning to develop Arlington's safety education program.

Using posters, films, demonstration, lectures and radio appeals, Palmer has carried his traffic safety program to 32 private and 34 public schools as well as to local civic groups. He lives at 1600 N. 16th st., Arlington.

Car Trunk Looted

Representative C. W. Bishop (R., Ill.) of 1833 41st pl. se., yesterday reported a tire, an inner tube and car wheel missing from the unlocked trunk of his car.

Representatives Bishop told police the tire and wheel were taken when his car was parked in the north court of the Department of Commerce on Wednesday. Police valued the loss at $35.

Added Charges

A 31-year-old District laborer yesterday was being booked at Silver Spring police station on charges of speeding and reckless driving when District police broadcast a lookout for the stolen car he had been driving.

Sidney Key, of 4924 Nash st. ne., was arrested by Montgomery County Policeman Herman Johnson about 6:30 p. m. He was booked on charges of exceeding a 30-mile speed limit, driving without license and reckless driving, Johnson said.

Maryland police said the man would probably be turned over to District police for their action on the stolen car charge.

Sister Named to Board

Sister M. Olivia Gowan, dean of the School of Nursing Education at Catholic University, has been elected to a four-year term on the board of directors of the National Council of Catholic Nurses. Sister Olivia, who will represent the Catholic Nurses Council of the Washington archdiocese on the national board, is a former and first Catholic president of the Collegiate Schools of Nursing Education.

Druggist Offers Tax Aid

An Alexandria druggist is offering customers a free record of their purchases of income tax-deductible drugs. Renard R. Monti owner of the store at 1723 King st., started the service two weeks ago and says he may extend it to other articles in the store on which taxpayers may take a legal deduction.

Monti figured that around March 15 most people can't remember how much they paid for drugs and medicine in the past year. He keeps a card index of his customers, puts each sale slip in the file and plans to give back complete records at tax-paying time.

A total of $1037.97 contained in nine separate pay envelopes was reported to police as missing yesterday from a safe in the office of William T. Gary, heating contractor, at 3111 14th st. nw.

Guy E. Smith, Box Export Official, Dies

Guy E. Smith, 60, secretary of the American Box Shook Export Association, died yesterday in Doctors Hospital.

Mr. Smith, who lived at the Stoneleigh Court Apartments, had been in the lumber business for more than 30 years and was well known throughout the country. He also spent five years in Shanghai, China, in exporting.

He was a veteran of World War I, serving as an ensign in the Navy overseas.

Mr. Smith is survived by his mother, Mrs. Maltilda J. Smith, 93, of Sierra Madre, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. George S. Morrow, and a granddaughter, Melinda Margaret Morrow, both of Carmel, Calif.

Funeral services will be held at noon today from the Hines funeral home, with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Dr. Vaughan Left Estate Of $375,000

The former chief surgeon of Georgetown University Hospital, who died April 26, aged 88, left $325,000 in securities, and property at 1718 I st. nw., assessed at $49,000.

He divided the bulk of his estate equally between his daughter, Mrs. Vera V. Curte, of the I st. address, and his son, Brig. Gen. Willaim V. Vaughan, of Long Island, N. Y.

As executors, he named his two children, and Roscoe J. C. Dorsey, whom he described as "an honest lawyer."

Other bequests were $15,000 to a sister, Mrs. Mathilda C. Hoffman; $5000 to another sister, Mrs. Hortense Burks; one sword each to his son and two grandchildren; cuff links to numerous people.

Dr. Vaughan said the chief inspirations in his life were: (1) His parents; (2) his wife, Mary V. Vaughan, who died in 1917; (3) Surgeon General Walter Wyman of the United States Public Health Service; (4) "the aid and support of the good Jesuit fathers of Georgetown University—and I am not a Roman Catholic."

Sports Goods Theft

Four teen-age boys yesterday were charged by District police with three cases of housebreaking that netted them $656 worth of sports equipment from Bolling Air Field's field house.

The boys, apparently members of a neighborhood athletic team, were taken into custody after an Air Force CID agent noticed a boy wearing one of 27 football jerseys stolen from the field. The boys were released to their parents pending Juvenile Court action.

Col. Matlack, Fort Myer Chief, Is Dead

Col. Jesse B. Matlack, commanding officer of Fort Myer and of the Third Infantry Regiment stationed there, died at 12:30 p. m. yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital.

The colonel, 54, wartime chief of staff of the Thirty-sixth (Texas) Infantry Division, had been ill only two days, his office at Fort Myer said.

Flags at both the North and South Posts at the fort were ordered at half-mast immediately following announcement of his death. A retreat parade and ceremonies marking the sixth anniversary of the Women's Army Corps, scheduled for today, were called off.

COL. JESSE B. MATLACK

West Point Graduate

A native of Bryn Mawr, Pa., and West Point graduate, the colonel had been an officer 35 years and saw service in both World Wars. He held a dozen military decorations.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Kerans Matlack, formerly of Lawton, Okla.; and a daughter, Miss Barbara Brooke Matlack, 20, a senior at Cornell University.

He had been commanding officer of Fort Myer since October 7, 1947, and of the 3d Infantry Regiment since last April 6.

During World War II., he served 26 months overseas with the 36th Division, taking part in the Rome-Arno, Anzio, Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace and Central Europe campaigns. He also held the Bronze Service Arrowhead for participation in the invasion of Southern France.

Other Decorations

Among his other decorations were the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, the French Croix de Guerre, the Purple Heart and the Army Commendation Ribbon with an Oak Leaf Cluster.

Following the war, he served as assistant chief of staff to the United States Headquarters, Berlin District, until June, 1946, when he returned to this country and was assigned to the office of the Inspector General.

Graduted from West Point in 1917, he became a captain in 1927, a major in 1936, a lieutenant-colonel in 1940 and a colonel in 1943. He also was a graduate of the Field Artillery School at Ft. Sill, Okla.

C. F. Jolley, Supervisor in GAO, Is Dead

Charles F. Jolley, 48, a supervisor in the General Accounting Office's check reconciliation section, yesterday died at 3 a. m., at his home, 3809 Benton st. nw., after a long illness.

Mr. Jolley was born and educated in Berkeley Springs, W. Va. He moved to Washington about 30 years ago and had been an employe of the General Accounting Office for about 15 years.

He was a descentant of Richard Henry Lee, signer of the Declaration of Independence and a cousin of Robert E. Lee.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Edna J. Jolley, of Washington, Mr. Jolley is survived by a son, Richard S. Jolley, of Bethesda, Md.; his father, Owen F. Jolley; and two sisters, Miss Mary G. Davidson and Mrs. J. Leslie Robinson, all of Washington.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m., at the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Rickey, Mascot Of Byrd Polar Expedition, Dies

Rickey, a Labrador husky who became top Navy brass in his 14 years died at the Frederick G. Dustin home, 1735 New Hampshire ave. nw., yesterday.

The dog, born at the South Pole on Admiral Richard E. Byrd's second Antarctic expedition, became Byrd's mascot, and was accorded high honors on his visits to the Navy Department.

He was taken ill at noon, and died an hour later. A veterinarian attributed death to a kidney ailment. Dustin, former aide to Admiral Byrd, is now American representative for the French polar expeditions.

Attorney Tracing May Slayings Has 'Profitable Trip'

Omaha, May 13 (AP).—Deputy County Attorney Theodore Richling, who has been attempting to trace clues in the August slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. May, 2d, of Alexandria, Va., today described a visit through eastern Iowa and western Illinois "as a profitable trip."

Richling said he had talked to friends and associates of a man serving a prison term in Colorado. Richling earlier had termed the Colorado prisoner "definitely a suspect" after questioning him a week ago.

"We were able to corroborate some of what we had heard before," Richling said. "Everything we find convinces us that this man has definite knowledge, may have been an accomplice."

The Alexandria, Va., couple was found slain on the outskirts of Omaha last August 28.

In Memoriam

JONES, ROSALIE B. In loving memory of of our dear mother and grandmother, ROSALIE B. JONES.

Another Mother's Day has gone,
a day that's set apart.
Deepening the wound years cannot heal,
the wound within our heart.
Six years ago on the 14th of May, through grief we remember well.
You left us lonely here on earth and went above to dwell.
Dear God, we know she's in your keeping, which helps to soothe the pain,
That will ever be within our breast until we're all together again.

YOUR DEVOTED DAUGHTER, MARIE, AND GRANDDAUGHTER, DOROTHY.

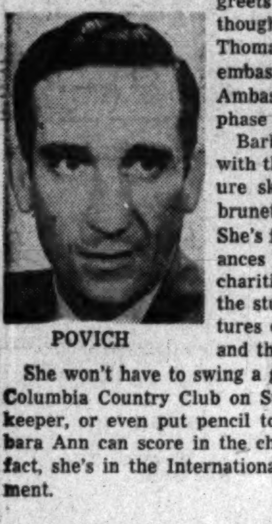
Giants Take Lead on Poat's 2-Hitter

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

REALLY, SPORTS PEOPLE are getting important. They'll have Barbara Ann Scott, who cuts a pretty figure on or off skates, up to the White House this weekend of the National Celebrities Golf Tournament. That'll be after the Canadian Ambassador greets her at the airport. Before that, though, the Canadian Minister and Mrs. Thomas A. Stone will toss her a tea at the embassy, and then she's the dinner guest of Ambassador H. Hume Wrong in the formal phase of her visit.



POVICH

Barbara Ann, who returned to Canada with the whole works after the Olympic figure skating competition is, of course, the brunette-haired darling of the Dominion. She's fresh from a whirl of benefit performances that fetched $250,000 for Canadian charities and Hollywood is beckoning and the studios are in a tizzy to put her in pictures quick. She is very pretty, you know, and they know.

She won't have to swing a golf stick or buckle on a skate at the Columbia Country Club on Sunday where she's billed as a scorekeeper, or even put pencil to scorecard. In the vernacular, Barbara Ann can score in the charm league just by showing up. In fact, she's in the International Celebrities Division of the tournament.

THE FOLKS UP CANADA way were so pleased with Barbara Ann's skating triumphs last winter they gave her a flashy new car. It was no dice at that time, though, because Mr. Avery Brundage who is Mr. A. A. U. said she'd have to give it back if she wanted to keep her amateur standing. So she obediently gave it back. And now she's turning pro and giving her amateur standing back to Mr. Brundage and taking another new automobile that the folks insist she have.

There's a nice thing about this tournament, incidentally, and it's not so incidental. All of the dough goes to the under-privileged kids who are crying for sports and recreation equipment and will get it because Attorney General Tom Clark is making that the aim of his program to batter down juvenile delinquency. As the Attorney General says, "any kid would rather steal second base than steal a car," and few of his young jailees ever come off the baseball and football fields.

The Washington Post fathered the first Celebrities Tournament last season and dedicated itself to this one after it was able to turn more than $10,000 in gaate receipts over to Washington Boys Clubs. Nobody gets paid for anything, except the caddies. Nobody turns in an expense account. The Celebrities pick up the tab for their own train fare and hotels

THE LAST HEARD from Del Webb, the golfing owner of the New York Yankees, he was in Fargo, N. D., flying here in his own plane at hefty expense to play on Sunday. The golf pros like Byron Nelson and Lew Worsham and Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen are turning their backs on profitable exhibition dates to play for nothing for the kids' sakes.

Edgar Bergen doesn't want a dime for his part in the show, though he says that stinker, Charlie McCarthy, is demanding meal money. The only guarantee that Bing Crosby has asked is that the Columbia course be in shape to withstand his torrid golf.

Senator Robert Taft thinks the tournament and its purpose is important enough to turn aside from his presidential nomination campaigning for a while and besides that he's aching to get back on a golf course. Leonard Lyons is taking leave of his Broadway beat to make it here, with the added expense of a new set of clubs. Bob Considine is tooling in by plane from below the border after 30 seconds over Mexico City.

MARGARET TRUMAN will represent the White House on the first tee, Eunice Kennedy will represent the former Ambassador to England. Little Margaret O'Brien will represent the 140 million Margaret O'Brien fans. Dizzy Dean of radio fame will represent the phonetic linquists and Eddie Arcaro will represent the Derby and the Preakness.

It ought to be real binge for the camera fans. Celebrities in the midst of a golf swing can never be more candid. Everybody knows they're supposed to sign autographs except in the midst of a trap shot. If you think this reads like a plug for the tournament, step to the head of the class. You were never more correct.

You really ought to go—to the tournament and the Bergen-McCarthy show at Uline's on Sunday night. That means more dough for poor kids who can use it. In fact, there's only one excuse for not going. If you were never a kid yourself, don't bother.

10 Ex-Champs In PGA Field

St. Louis, May 13 (AP).—Ten Professional Golfers' Association champions, including Defending Titlist Jim Ferrier of Australia, are in the field of 128 who start qualifying rounds next Wednesday in the week-long National PGA Championship at Norwood Hills Country Club.

Nearly all of the greats of professional golf will be present for the two days of medal play elimination, to be followed by five days of 36 holes of match play.

The 18-hole qualifying rounds will shake down the field to 64 players, including Ferrier, for the match play bracket beginning Friday.

Garden Resumes Boxing Tonight

New York, May 13 (AP).—Two high-ranking contenders for the lightweight title, Jesse Flores of Stockton, Calif., and Johnny Williams of Montgomery, Ala., draw the top billing for Madison Square Garden's reopening for boxing tomorrow.

Three ten-round bouts are on the first Garden card since the departure of the circus and the settlement of the Managers' Guild strike against the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Jack Sizzles In Workout

If you're inclined to feel sympathetic toward Beau Jack and his banked-up knee, don't. He doesn't want it, and on his performance in the Liberty A. C. gym yesterday he doesn't need it.

On the basis of his three-round workout against Floyd Morris, 1948 Golden Gloves welterweight champ, Tony Janiro will be in for a rough evening when he clashes with Jack Monday at Griffith Stadium.

If there's a lesson to be learned in defeat, Morris completed the course against Jack yesterday. The Beau rained a hundred lefts and rights on Morris. When "time" was called at the end of three rounds the Pittsburgher could hardly make it to his corner.

Jack, showing no signs of a game leg, was razor sharp and the capacity crowd freely applauded the one-time lightweight champ. Janiro wasn't a dull article himself, but his work was overshadowed by that of his opponent.

Janiro went three fast sessions with Mayhew Smith, a St. Louis welterweight. Down to a trim 150, one pound more than he has agreed to weigh Monday, the handsome Youngstown stylist gave an impression exhibition of his speed.

Hursey vs. Raadik In Garden May 21

Smuggy Hursey, Washington middleweight, has been matched with Anton Raadik, Chicago, in a cofeatured 10-rounder to be held in Madison Square Garden May 21.

In his last bout, Hursey dropped a split decision to Harold Green while Raadik scored a TKO over Georgia Abrams in his last outing.

Cards Drop To 2d After 5-0 Setback

St. Louis, May 13 (AP).—Ray Poat pitched the New York Giants into first place in the National League today by shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-0, on two hits.

A single by Enos Slaughter in the second inning and a double by Red Schoendienst in the third were the only blows yielded by Poat, who walked only three batters and fanned three.

Scoreless for 5

For five innings, Poat and the Cards' Red Munger were engaged in a scorless mound duel. The Giants finally broke through in the sixth inning, scoring twice on a walk, single, two errors by Schoendienst and Buddy Kerr's fly ball.

Munger got into another jam in the eighth inning when the Giants scored their third run on three walks and a double.

Johnny Mize walked to start the frame and moved to third on Willard Marshall's double. After Buddy Kerr grounded out, Mickey Livingston was purposely walked to load the bases. Jack Lohrke flied out to short right but Munger then walked Poat to force in a run. Ted Wilks relieved Munger and got Bill Rigney to bounce into a force out to end the inning.

Pound Reliefers

The Giants scored their final two runs in the ninth on four singles and a walk at the expense of Ken Johnson and Gerry Staley.

Whitey Lockman and Willard Marshall paced the Giants' 11-hit attack, collecting three hits apiece.

Reds Lose 7th in Row, 9-3, to Bums

Cincinnati, May 13 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers handed the Cincinnati Reds their seventh straight setback today as Lefty Preacher Roe pitched the National League champs to a 9-3 six-hit triumph.

Roe held the Reds hitless until the fifth inning when with two out, Danny Litwhiler singled, Virgil Stallcup doubled and Dewey Williams homered to account for all of the Reds' runs.

The Dodgers hammered Starter Ken Raffensberger for seven runs in the first four innings with Don Lund's three-run homer the big blow. Carl Furillo belted a roundtripper for the Dodgers in the second.

Benny Zientara, Cincinnati second sacker, was forced to leave the game after he and Jackie Robinson collided at first base in the third inning.

Pirates Beat Phils, 5-1, Move Into 2d Place

Pittsburgh, May 13.—Pittsburgh moved within a half game of first place, snapping a four-game Phillies winning streak, 5-1, here tonight before 29,789.

Bob Chesnes, a Pacific Coast rookie making his first major league start, was touched for the lone run in the seventh when he had to retire after breaking a blister on his pitching hand. In addition to receiving credit for the victory, he blasted a triple and single.

Frankie Gustine, Pirate third sacker, hit his first homer of the season in the seventh with a man aboard. Dutch Leonard was the loser.

Seven U. S. Open Golf Champions In Star-Studded Celebrities Field

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

SO YOU'RE A GOLFER. You not only play the game (or play at it), but you also never pass up a chance to see the topflight swingers in action.

If that's it, brother, you'll be shirking your duties if you're absent from roll call at Columbia Country Club Sunday.

The field for this year's National Celebrities golf tournament is more than a collection of the Nation's biggest names, it's also a roundup of a dozen of the most prominent figures in golf, past and present.

Look at this lineup, Mr. Golfer, and you'll know what we mean when we say golf won't be sold short, come Sunday.

THERE'S BYRON NELSON, rated the best golfer since Bobby Jones and he has a record to prove it. The Texas "mechanical man of golf" is now retired, playing in only one other tourney—the Masters—but he still has that sweet swing which won him the National Open, the PGA, the Masters and so many major tourneys that his fellow pros breathed a sigh of relief when he decided to call it quits.

The U. S. Open championship is conceded to be the toughest title in the world to win and the Celebrities field includes no fewer than seven who have annexed golf's biggest victory.

There's Nelson, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen (two-time winner), Craig Wood, Freddie McLeod, host pro who won the Open 40 years ago; Chick Evans and Washington's own Lew Worsham, who defends his Open crown next month.

SO MUCH FOR THE PLAYERS. A couple of others in the golf world who can't be overlooked are Freddie Corcoran and Elmer Ward. Corcoran is the fellow who made pro golf what it is today.

When he first started as their tournament manager, the pros were playing in $3500 tourneys. Today, largely through his efforts, they compete for almost $600,000 in prize money annually. Ward is the man who sponsors the $30,000 Goodall Round Robin tournament.

THE MEN DON'T have a strangle hold on the championships in this Celebrities field. Not by a long shot.

On the distaff side there's Babe Didrikson, present British Women's Amateur champion and the best female golfer the world has ever known.

And don't forget Betty Jameson, women's Open champ, and Helen Dettweiler, Washington's own girl golfing great.

Another thing, some of the people in this tourney who won their spurs in other fields can play this game of golf with better than average success, too.

Bing Crosby isn't a duffer and the same goes for Dizzy Dean, Senator Taft, Tris Speaker, Gen. Omar Bradley, Baseball Commissioner Chandler, Harry Parr and others.

Actually, the Celebrities Tournament is a double-header attraction. It presents golfers who became celebrities because of their golf ability and other celebrities who made their mark elsewhere, but who can play a creditable game of golf.

Even Weatherman Has Tourney Ticket

The District weather forecast went out on the limb last night and predicted it would be a "nice day" for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament Sunday.

"Fair and warm," he said, "and I mean it. I've got tickets to the tournament myself and I'm going to do everything I can to make sure Sunday's weather doesn't make my prediction all wet."

Good Seats Still Available For Bergen Show Sunday

Good seats still are available for the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy NBC (WRC) broadcast Sunday night.

Tickets for the broadcast and the National Celebrities Golf Tournament at the Columbia Country Club Sunday noon are on sale at the following locations:

Uline Arena, 3d and M sts. ne.; Fairway Sports Shop, 1328 G st. nw., and The Washington Post lobby, 1337 E st. nw., from 10:30 to 6 p. m., daily except Sunday.

Both events, under auspices of The Washington Post, will be held in support of Attorney General Tom Clark's efforts on youth opportunity, with all proceeds going to charity.

A limited number of golf tournament tickets will be sold in advance at $2. After Saturday, tournament tickets will be $3. Tickets for juniors (16 and under) are $1.

For the broadcast of the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy show, with Bing Crosby as guest star, at Uline Arena, reserved seats will be $2.50 and $5. Prices include tax.

The golf tournament will begin at 12 noon and the Bergen show at 7:30 p. m.

'Old Pete,' 61, Breaks Neck, but Quits Hospital

Albuquerque, May 13 (AP).—Grover Cleveland Alexander, who never let a sore arm stop his baseball hurlnig, today refused to let a broken neck keep him in a hospital.

"Old Pete," 61-qear-old baseball immortal, fell on the stairway at his hotel Monday night and was taken to a hospital. X-rays, his attending physician said, showed he fractured a vertebra in his neck.

This morning, the physician said, Alex refused to stay in the hospital any longer, signed a release and went on his way. The physician says another fall or slip could sever the spinal cord.

Heavy Rain Postpones Inquirer Golf Tourney

Philadelphia, May 13 (AP).—A heavy downpour today forced a one-day postponement of the opening round of the Philadelphia Inquirer's Invitational Golf Tourney.

Tournament officials said the flooded bridges and fairways would impose too great a hardship on the entrants. Under the revised schedule, the first round will be played tomorrow, weather permitting.

Nats Open 4-Game Set With Bosox

The Nats, who are on even terms with the Red Sox and not proud of it, were Boston-bound last night in an attempt to extricate themselves from their fifth-place tie.

They take on the Red Sox tonight in Fenway Park's first night game of the year as the opener of a four-game series that will be concluded by a double header on Sunday. In their only clash with the Red Sox this season, the Nats got a shut-out dose from Rookie Left Hander Mel Parnell.

The Nats will present a new outfielding face in tonight's game. Garden Gillenwater, the $30,000 purchase from Milwaukee, will move into right field and bat fifth in the lineup.

Sherry Robertson did not make the trip to Boston with the Nats nor will he be conspicuous for the next fortnight. Robertson, it was learned, suffered a twisted kneecap in his spill on the wet turf the other night against the Detroit Tigers and is hobbling in pain.

Walter Masterson will get tonight's pitching job against the Red Sox, an assignment that does not appear soft in the light of the recent hitting splurge of the Boston, Joe Dobson is expected to be Joe McCarthy's pitching choice.

Clark Griffith had time to ponder the Nats' situation yesterday following the posting of the "no-game—wet grounds" sign at 10 a. m. The game, finale of the Detroit series, was washed out by the rain of Wednesday night which caught the Washington club with its tarpaulin up—for repairs.

Griffith revealed that his dealings have not ended with the purchase of Gillenwater. "We could still use some more hitting in our infield and we expect to make at least one more addition perhaps within a week." Meanwhile the club must reduce its squad by one before the Thursday deadline to reach the 25-player limit. For Rookies Dick Welteroth, Sammy Meeks and Ramon Garcia it's an uneasy spell of time.

Braves Blank Cubs, 2-0, Behind Voiselle

Chicago, May 13 (AP).—Bill Voiselle, who appears to have regained his old-time form after a winter operation for varicose veins, hurled his fourth straight victory for the Boston Braves here today when he blanked the Chicago Cubs with a four-hitter, 2 to 0.

Johnny Schmitz was the unlucky victim. The southpaw also twirled a four-hitter to lose his fourth game against one victory.

Alvin Dark and Bob Elliott each collected two hits. Dark singled in the third, moved up when Jim Russell walked and scored on Elliott's single. The second run in the eighth developed from Russell's fourth straight walk, a wild pitch and Elliott's infield out.

Christiana Entry Wins 2d Straight

Pimlico, Md., May 13.—Jockey Carson Kirk of Silver Spring, Md., has come a long way since his early days at Charles Town when he looked like a schoolgirl on a runaway horse each time he rode. Today, the polished Kirk put up a well-judged ride to win the $7500 added Gittings Handicap, first run in 1938 and won by John A. Manfuso's Aneroid.

Kirk was aboard Christiana Stable's Service Pilot and his piloting was beautiful to see. An even dozen lengths off the front horse on the backstretch, the Maryland youngster failed to get excited. At the half pole he went to work in earnest and at the finish it was Service Pilot by a neck with King Ranch's Contest, the favorite, second and two lengths in advance of Miss Margie Fisher's Shivaree.

Was Second Choice

It was to the tune of a $6.80 mutuel as second choice that Service Pilot kept his 1948 batting average at 1.000—two starts and two victories. Running over a track deep in mud as the result of rain last night and this morning, the son of Pilate turned in time of 1.48 2/5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

Service Pilot, winner of $22,000 and some change in 1947, accounted for $6345 today to bring his earnings for the current season to $9270.

The estimated crowd of 12,000 saw Shivaree do the expected and go to the front directly after the break. Ocean Front, Laran and Contest followed the leader into the club house turn. Service Pilot was trailing.

Ocean Front Quits

Going up the back stretch, Shivaree continued to show the way with little change in the positions of the others. Service Pilot was a dozen lengths behind the pacemaker after three furlongs.

At the far turn, Service Pilot was taken to the outside and began his move. Laran and Contest rallied as Ocean Front quit. Shivaree finally tired in the stretch and Contest drove into a brief lead. Service Pilot, however, came on with a rush and caught Contest to be a going-away winner.

At Track Meet

Didrikson Will Appear For 'C' Club

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

BABE DIDRIKSON ZAHARIAS will wield the starter's gun in the "C" Club track meet Saturday at Central High Stadium.

A star of the 1932 United States Olympic team, she will be helping raise money for the 1948 Olympic squad. All proceeds taken in at the "C" Club meet will be used to help pay expenses of the American team.

The Babe does her bit for Sports America's drive to provide athletic equipment for the Nation's kids by appearing Sunday in the National Celebrities Golf Tournament at Columbia Country Club.

SHE WILL ARRIVE at the Central High meet Saturday at about 3 p. m., in time to start the National Capital Mile Run. Favored in that race is Tommy Quinn, former National AAU champion. He runs against Harry Hart of Quantico and several entries from Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Bill Hulse, American outdoor mile record holder, has withdrawn because of his pressing personal affairs.

Twenty-seven high and prep schools have entered a record 517 boys in the thirtieth "C" Club Meet. The schools hail from Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York and the District of Columbia.

Terps' Miller Wins In Net Tourney

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 13 (AP).—Seeded contestants in the annual Southern Conference tennis tournament lived up to advance billing with one exception today as play neared the quarter-final round.

North Carolina's top-seeded E. Victor Seixas defeated Dave Rothenhoefer of Maryland 6—2, 6—1. Bernard Bartzen, the Indians' third seeded contestant, won 6—0, 6—0 over Jim Wesley of Duke and will square off with North Carolina's Duke Wilder tomorrow.

Eddie Miller, Maryland, seeded number six, won by default over Jim Sherrill of N. C. State.

Preakness Starters Pared to 4

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., May 13.—The field for the seventy-second running of the $100,000 Preakness, that recently reached 10 starters on paper, has become a four-horse affair. William G. Helis' Salamagundi, considered an almost certain starter after his victory early this week, will not be shipped here for Saturday's engagement.

The promise of an off track was the reason given for his withdrawal. Salamagundi, the Santa Anita Derby winner, was scheduled to be vanned here from Garden State Park this afternoon. However, his handlers consulted the weather bureau, found predictions for more rain and sent word to scratch the son of Hash.

Only Win Bets Allowed

Baltimore, May 13 (AP).—The Maryland Jockey Club announced tonight that betting on the 52nd annual running of the $100,000-added Preakness Stakes Saturday will be limited to win only.

With Salamagundi out, only three colts were left to vie with Calumet's Citation in the famous test of a mile and three sixteenths, the second leg of the Triple Crown. They are: King Ranch's Better Self, Cornelius V. Whitney's Vulcan's Forge and Sylvester W. Labrot, jr.'s Bovard.

The heavy rains, here last night and this morning which precluded any chance of a fast track, was the reason given for Salamagundi's withdrawal. The colt has not taken kindly to off tracks in his two years of campaigning.

Jockey Club Says 60-Day Ban Will Stick

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 13 (AP).—A Federal grand jury failed to indict Earl Sande on a charge of illegal possession of narcotics today, but the Jockey Club announced its 60-day suspension of the onetime famous rider would stick.

The grand jury, after investigating the case, reported to Judge Leo Rayfiel without returning a true bill.

The specific charge against Sande, now an owner and trainer, was that he failed to register the fact he had a drug and failed to pay a tax on it. Conviction would have called for two to five years in prison.

Won Three Derbies

The charge was filed. U. S. Attorney J. Vincent Keogh said, after one of Sande's horses was found to have been drugged when it won a race at Jamaica April 21.

The 49-year-old ex-jockey, rider of three Kentucky Derby winners during his successful career, was arraigned May 3 before U. S. Commissioner Edward E. Fay.

On May 4 the Jockey Club suspended him for 60 days and denied him admission to the grounds of any track under its jurisdiction. Sande's foreman, Eugene Donaldson, and a groom, Francis Booth, were suspended for 30 days.

Marshall Cassidy, assistant secretary of the Jockey Club, said today the grand jury action would have no affect on the racing body's ruling.

"Sande was set down for violating a rule of racing," Cassidy added. "The suspension will stick."

Purse Taken Away

Big Stage, one of 12 horses saddled by Sande, beat out 10 other 3-year-old maidens in the 6-furlong dash at Jamaica and paid $12.40 for $2.

The purse for the race was $4000, which was redistributed after stewards disqualified Big Stage.

D. C. Olympic Boxing Trials Open Tonight

A determined group of amateur ringmen square off tonight at Griffith Stadium in an initial bid for Olympic boxing honors. Ten quarterfinal and six semifinal bouts are scheduled, commencing at 8:30.

Championship matches will be staged in the ball park next Wednesday night, and the eight finalists will compete in the regional tryouts in Philadelphia, May 24-25. Victors in the regional tourney will fight in the Olympic trials in Boston, June 28-29.

Highlighting tonight's card will be 1948 AAU titlists Pat Thomas, Holly Mims, Eddie Marshall and Eddie Grant. One Golden Gloves champion, Welterweight Leon Daughtry, will also see action.

Top 4 Play Sunday in Celebrities

The fifteenth annual Washington Post Scholastic Golf Championship starts at noon today on Manor Country Club course, with four of the participants slated to play an important part in the National Celebrities Tournament Sunday.

More than 100 entries, a record field, will take part in today's qualifying round of 18-holes medal play.

The lowest scoring 16 boys will gain the first round of match play 8 a. m. Saturday at Manor and the second round of eight competitors will be held at 11:30 a. m. that same day.

On Sunday, the four semifinalists will meet as part of the National Celebrities Tournament at Columbia Country Club. The four boys will be symbolic of the purpose of the Celebrities Tournament—to get underprivileged kids "into the game."

Final round of the Scholastic Tourney will be held Monday at 3 p. m. on the Chevy Chase Club links.

Winner of the scholastic championship, held presently by Marvin "Bubby" Worsham of Bethesda, will receive The Washington Post Trophy, to be kept at his school for one year. The victor will also be awarded a replica of the trophy for his own permanent possession.

Other prizes will be awarded for low medal score and for runner-up in the match play.

Although all four semifinalists in last year's championship tournament—Worsham, Murphy, Dave Clark of Blair and Eddie Reagh of Coolidge—have graduated, a strong field is entered this year.

Among the favorites to capture the coveted crown are Bob Wolfe, Blair; Bob Mair, Bethesda; Stanley Mouser, Bethesda, and Don Dedrick of Wilson.

Ball Game Wanted

—More Students Participate—

Catholic U. 'Amateurs' Winning Their Share Without Subsidizing Athletic Program

BACK IN 1940, they said Catholic University was de-emphasizing athletics. That was the year athletic scholarships were abolished.

However, now more students than ever are participating in sports. It seems to prove that perhaps a school doesn't need subsidization to have an athletic program. That's a fairly interesting supposition in this day of the NCAAA purity code.

At Catholic U., only about 1500 students are eligible for varsity competition. This year more than 500 tried for positions in nine sports. When students feel they all have an equal chance to make the teams, they'll turn out.

The Cardinal "amateurs" haven't been faring too badly in intercollegiate competition either. Army's boxing team certainly will agree. The Cadets were upset here, 5-3. In track, Catholic is defending Mason-Dixon Conference champ and already has won the tennis title.

Gene Augusterfer's baseball club took second place in the Southern section of the Conference and handed well-regarded Georgetown a setback the other day.

Athletic Director Eddie LaFond, a fixture at Catholic U. since he started as a student in 1923, is inclined to treat these triumphs lightly.

"We don't want to boast of any achievements," said Eddie, "I'd just say we're playing average ball in every sport and having a lot of fun out of it.

"Thing is, I've always maintained that you may have a sports program without having scholarships. And that's what we have."

LaFond quickely added that he has absolutely nothing against the granting of athletic scholarships—in fact, he wishes he had them to give.

"I got mine and that's how I was able to go to college," Eddie explained. "We're doing the best we can, following our school's policy."

After too many years of losing, financially, Catholic U. authorities decided to step out of the player market eight years ago. Now, while they undoubtedly provide more recreation for more students, they get by for about $50,000 a year.

In the old days, a hundred room, board and tuition scholarships cost them twice that much.

It takes a lot of scraping to stay within the sports budget. It means employing mostly part-time coaches and Athletic Director LaFond doubles as coach in boxing, the only sport that does make money. It also means belonging to the Mason-Dixon Conference, composed of teams all within 100 miles of each other.

LaFond was asked if he was having more fun under the new regime. He mused, "It's nice, not having a lot of pressure on you to win. But it's a lot of work."

Wilson, Tech Fight It Out For 2d in Interhigh Today

With Eastern firmly established in first place, the battle for the runnerup spot in the Interhigh League takes precedence on today's schoolboy sports calendar.

McKinley Tech and Woodrow Wilson, tied for the runner-up post with 4-1 records, meet today at 3:30 p. m. at Tech. The winner will be the second team to clinch a berth in the double elimination playoffs which begin May 24 at Griffith Stadium.

Unbeaten Eastern, which won a playoff spot last Tuesday, can clinch at least a tie for first place, by beating Western at Western. In other league games today Coolidge plays at Central and Roosevelt at Anacostia. They all start at 3:30 p. m.

Western, Central and Roosevelt are already out of the running for the playoffs since they've lost four or more games.

Over in Alexandria, the race for the Northern Virginia Class A title reaches a climax at 3:30 p. m. when Washington-Lee of Arlington clashes with host George Washington.

W.-L. has won three and lost none in league competition, making certain it'll win at least a tie for first. If W.-L. wins, it captures the title.

George Washington, defending State champ, has a 2-1 record, and can win the regional title only by beating Washington-Lee today. If G.-W. wins, a playoff for the Northern Virginia champ will be necessitated. The winner will participate in the State championship tournament in Norfolk beginning Thursday.

Bombers Name Grady Lewis Court Coach

St. Louis, May 13 (AP).—Grady Lewis, who started last season with the St. Louis Bombers and later was traded to Baltimore, has been signed to coach the Bombers next season.

The 31-year-old basketball veteran will replace Ken Loeffler who recently resigned to accept a similar position with the Providence Steamrollers. St. Louis, Baltimore and Providence are all members of the Basketball Association of America.

Lewis sought his release from the Baltimore club last Sunday in order to put in a bid for the St. Louis post. His release came through today after the Bomber management had made a cash settlement with the Baltimore club.

GETTING CLOSE ENOUGH FOR "GIMMES"

Knocking approaches from about 30 yards out—or shorter—close enough to the hole to look at your opposition with a "Gi'me?" gloat, is usually just a matter of: a correct grip, placing club to ball with arms extended, taking aim (with feet fairly close together), and meeting the ball crisply on the downward arc of the stroke thus avoiding any scooping tendencies. Do these things and you will get your percentage of "Gimmes."

Mason-Dixon Track Starts At CU Today

With Johns Hopkins favored to dethrone Catholic University, 275 athletes from 13 schools start qualifying trials at 2 p. m. today in the two-day Mason-Dixon Conference track and field championships at Catholic U.

Hopkins already has 5 points to its credit for winning the Conference mile relay in the Penn Relays and boasts a 27-man squad, the largest entry.

The Cardinals are handicapped by injuries to key men, including Jim Zuppa, who was spiked in the Penn Relays.

Five Virginia schools are competing and Roanoke and Randolph-Macon are conceded good chances of upsetting pre-meet dope by taking it all. Other Virginia entries are Bridgewater, Lynchburg and Hampden-Sydney.

Running for the last-named will be Lynn Chewning, former Navy footballer, who defends his championship in the 100-yard dash. A new sprint threat is Roanoke's Fagg, who beat Chewning recently. Another Roanoke star is Alvin Smith, crack distance man.

Johns Hopkins' Schwartz will defend his 440 title and also is entered in the 220.

Only three of the 16 Conference schools won't be represented, Delaware, Mt. St. Mary's and Baltimore U.

Loudoun Hunt Set Saturday

Leesburg, Va., May 13.—Everything is in readiness for the Loudoun Hunt horse show, which will be held Saturday at Raspberry Plain, estate of W. H. Lipscomb, two miles north of Lesburg. Mrs. Albert S. White, secretary, has announced an entry list of more than 150.

Twenty classes are listed, the first one to start at 9 a. m. There will be pony classes, breding classes and hunter classes. Highlighting the card will be the Massters' Challenge Bowl event, open only to horses who have hunted regularly with the Loudoun Hunt. They must be ridden by members of the Hunt. Championships will be pinned in the jumper and hunter divisions.

Among the exhibitors will be Mr. and Mrs. George P. Greenhalgh of Clarke County; Dr. and Mrs. Alvin Kay of Washington; Miss Anna F. Hedrick, Washington; Peach Brothers, Upperville; Miss Dorothy Fred, Middleburg; Miss Mary Rust, Leesburg; Col. H. H. Pohl and many others.

In the pony classes will be seen the Graham sisters, the Pancoast sisters, Blanche Paul, Jean Anderson, Aubrey Hall, jr., Carlyn Cushman, S. D. Phillips, jr., and Pamela and Caroline Read.

Managers of the show are Charles W. Sydnor and Albert S. White.

Annapolis Holds Pro-Amateur Golf

Annapolis, Md., May 13 (AP). — Some of Maryland's top-flight professionals will compete here tomorrow in a pro-amateur golf tournament sponsored by the Middle Atlantic PGA.

Andy Gibson and Bill Strausbaugh of the Country Club of Maryland, Baltimore; Walter Bogley and Al Houghton of Prince Georges Country Club, and Al Jamisson of Quantico, Va., are among entrants, Navy Coach Bob Williams said today.

Each pro will have three amateur partners, the best ball of the foursome being the official 18-hole medal score of the team. Low medal over the par-71 Naval Academy course will bring victory.

Midget Auto Opening May 21 Has 24 Entered

Twenty-four top drivers and powerful little cars are expected to compete in the opening midget automobile racing card at the West Lanham (Md.) Speedway a week from tonight, May 21.

George Fonder, leading money winner and point-scorer at Lanham for the past two years, will compete in a new Offenhauser car sponsored by Ken Hickey.

Martinsburg High Shut Out With 2 Hits

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 12.—High-class pitching handed Martinsburg High its second defeat here yesterday, this time at the hands of Williamsport (Md.) High, 5-0. Dave Cole limited the locals to two hits, struck out ten and didn't walk a man.

Waltonians Act Against Pending Bill

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

THE D. C. CHAPTER of the Izaak Walton League is against the proposed transfer of the Fish and Wildlife Service to the Department of Agriculture.

At its regular meeting, the chapter unanimously passed a resolution urging that the service be kept in the Interior Department.

The motion was introduced by Dr. Lewis Radcliffe, national vice president of the Waltonian group. Said Dr. Radcliffe, "I think all groups of sportsmen are satisfied with the present service they're getting and fear a transfer will be harmful."

Congress is holding public hearings on the bill (H. R. 6054) now.

TRADITIONALLY, MID-MAY heralds the arrival of the salt-water fishing season in this area. Chesapeake Bay and its environs provide fine fishing gounds within easy reach.

While many salt-water anglers who tried to get the jump on the season have reported disappointing experiences, others accounted for satisfactory catches. Consensus is that it may take another week or so to provide ideal conditions.

A report of one of the best catches of hardheads received by this department so far was John Cobb's. Fishing off Wicomico Beach, near Thompkinsville, Md., the Alexandrian was credited with 20.

Correspondent Charles C. Lancaster also reported that Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Whitesoe, 1810 N. Bryant st., Arlington, caught eight large hardheads last Sunday. The fish weighed from 2 to 3 pounds and the Arlington couple went out from Rock Point Hotel.

NOT SO LUCKY was Sid Atlas, of the D st. sporting goods clan. Atlas not only sells fishing tackle—he gets out and uses it every Monday he's off. His last trip to the Solomons was singularly unproductive. "A little too early," was his comment.

Even chumming failed. His chumming, Atlas explained, consisted of dumping 5 to 10 gallons of small grass shrimp over the side of the boat to attract hardheads. If they're around, they'll be drawn to the mass of swimming shrimp. Then the angler tries to get them to bite on his shrimp-baited hook.

It's an expensive way to fish. Fifteen dollars worth of grass shrimp won't go far.

MISCELLANY—The alert Alexandria Chapter of the Izaak Walton League holds its regular monthly meeting 8:30 Monday night at 1605 Cameron st. . . . Maj. Carl C. Edmondson, with Army Intelligence at the Pentagon, has been trying to catch Eastern chain pickerel at Arundel-on-the-Bay, across the channel from Annapolis . . . He thinks they can be caught with a June bug spinner. "Can't tell me it isn't a game fish," said the major, "I hooked one but couldn't land it." . . . Major Edmondson also reported an abundance of tiny grass shrimp along the shore. He said you can take enough for bait with a small seine, but not enough for chumming.

Sore Arm Sidelines Cavarretta Week Longer

Chicago, May 13 (AP).—Phil Cavarretta, veteran outfielder, will be lost to the Chicago Cubs for another week because of a sore arm, Manager Charlie Grimm announced today.

Dr. W. R. Fischer ordered that Cavarretta give the arm a complete rest for a week in order to heal the soreness that has plagued the Cub captain ever since the second week of spring training.

Navy Goalie Seeks Olympic Soccer Berth

Annapolis, Md., May 13 (AP).—Al Schaufelberger, Navy's lacrosse and soccer star, next Tuesday will seek to become the first collegian member of a United States Olympics soccer team.

Schaufelberger, named on the All-East squad in New York Saturday, is one of the two goalies on the Eastern team. The two best goalies in a game in St. Louis Tuesday will be named to the United States team seeking world honors.

Ailing Blackwell Has Two Teeth Extracted

Cincinnati, May 13 (AP).—Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's great right handed pitcher who has had a time getting started this year, had two teeth extracted today and will not accompany the club to Chicago tonight.

Blackie, who also is nursing a sore right shoulder, will rejoin the Reds in New York May 18. The tall pitcher, who won 22 and lost eight last season, has won only two games this year and has failed to finish the last four he started.

SEE CELEBRITIES PLAY

You can see the National Celebrities Golf Tournament at Columbia Golf and Country Club May 16 and your admission will be a contribution toward added recreational facilities for the Nation's youth.

Terps Seek Conference Track Title

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 13 (AP). Maryland's well-balanced veteran team has the best chance to dethrone the University of North Carolina in the twenty-fourth annual Southern Conference track and field championships here tomorrow and Saturday.

With 300 athletes from 14 of the 16 conference schools competing, one of the hottest scoring scrambles of recent years is anticipated.

North Carolina rolled up a record 93 points in winning last year; Duke, 1947 runner-up, and North Carolina State should provide sternest opposition. Maryland, third last year, romped off with Carolina relays honors here early this season.

Defending champions will be on hand for 12 of the 15 events as only three of last year's winners, all from the University of North Carolina, will be missing.

Three double winners last year are back for another shot at glory. Duke's Doug Ausbon took the 100 and the broad jump, the Blue Devils' Roger Neighborgall swept the 440 and 880 and North Carolina's Bob Seligman won the shot put and discus in '47 and all are back again.

Bottle Barrage Target Gives Up Grid Officiating

Weatherford, Texas, May 13 (AP). Jack Sisco, controversial figure of Southwest Conference football last fall, said today that he is withdrawing from the officiating field.

Sisco was the target of a bottle shower at last year's Texas-Oklahoma game, and he floored a fan with a punch to the jaw after the Southern Methodist-Arkansas game. He said he is quitting "for business reasons."

Sisco was named "Southwesterner of the year" by the Texas Sports Writers Association for "his courageous stand against drinking and gambling in collegiate sports."

Lujack Faces 'Irish'

South Bend, May 13 (AP).—If the "old timers" all show up and don't run out of steam Saturday, Notre Dame's varsity footballers may lose for perhaps the first and only time this year.

The "elders," scheduled to face the varsity in the annual game ending Irish spring practice, include Johnny Lujack, All-America quarterback, and Tackles George Connor and Ziggy Czarobski from last year's unbeaten team.

Louis Year Older

Bloomingdale, Mich., May 13 (AP). —Joe Louis, training here for defense of his world heavyweight championship against Jersey Joe Walcott in New York June 23, throws off diet restrictions today to celebrate his 34th birthday. Louis' chef, Bill Bottoms, has prepared a 30-pound turkey and a four-layer cake for the champion's party.

Measles Halt Tex

Boston, May 13 (AP). — Measles contracted by Dixie Anne, his 6-year-old daughter, will delay Pitcher Tex Hughson's start for Texas to join the Austin club in the Big State League.

The Red Sox optioned the former star righthander yesterday with the hope that his ailing throwing arm, which has been twice operated upon, would improve in a hotter climate. Hughson is a stockholder in the Austin club.

Barbara Accepts Car

Ottawa, Canada, May 13 (AP).—Barbara Ann Scott, world figure-skating champion, received an automobile as a gift from the city of Ottawa today—for the second time. Last time, Barbara Ann had to give it back to keep from jeopardizing her amateur standing.

Soon to turn professional, the pretty skater will appear Sunday at the National Celebrities Golf tournament in Washington D. C.

Turner's Schedules Female Mat Windup

Elvira Snodgrass will face Mae Weston in one bout, and another pair of outstanding women wrestlers are being sought for the other end of the double windup of Wednesday night's mat card at Turner's Arena.

Tri-State Golf League Starts Play Sunday

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 12.—The summer schedule of the Tri-State Golf League, comprised of clubs in the Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia area will open Sunday at Winchester, Va.

Good Ones Are Pros

Buenos Aires, May 13 (AP).—Argentina will not be represented in soccer, its national sport, at the Olympic games in London. The Argentine Football Association today blamed a scarcity of good amateurs for its decision not to send a team.

Blair Wins Opener

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 12.—The reorganized Blair baseball club made a successful debut here yesterday by defeating the Shepherdstown (W. Va.) Red Sox, 12-7, in a slugfest on the Blair diamond.

Dr. Dantzic Named Optometry Board Member 4th Time

Dr. Dantzic

Dr. Samuel J. Dantzic, one of the original members when the District Board of Optometry was set up in 1924, yesterday was named by the Commissioners to serve another term—his fourth.

The 63-year-old optometrist, who has practiced here since 1906, will serve a three-year-term as successor to Dr. George A. Baker, whose term expires June 7.

Dr. Dantzic served three previour terms between 1924 and 1932. He and Dr. Loell Failor were selected as nominees for the post by the D. C. Optometric Society, as provided in the District Code.

A native of Hancock, Md., he came to the District in 1906 after graduating from New York Eye College in the class of 1905. He and his wife, Mary Ann, live at 221 Whittier st. nw. Two sons, Drs. Oliver and David M. Dantzic, are in practice here with their father.

Pledges Sought For Concerts At Watergate

Fate of the 1948 series of Watergate Concerts of the Nationtl Symphony Orchestra was last night reported balancing on result of a last-minute effort to secure backers willing to pay its possible losses.

The appeal, in the form of telegrams to approximately 75 leaders in business and finance, was sent out Wednesday by George R. Titus, chairman of the cultural development committee of the Washington Board of Trade.

Titus stressed in his telegram to possible "angels" of the popular but deficit-producing concert series that the summer programs in the past seasons have lost as little as $5500. He said that though $25,000 was needed in pledges to sponsor the 1948 series, the underwriters might eventualy have to pay up but 20 per cent of such pledges.

Answers to these telegrams by late last night, a Trade Board spokesman said, weren't sufficient to indicate either success or failure of the plea.

Comptrollers Pick Hecht Official As Chairman

Paul J. Southard, assistant comptroller of The Hecht Co., has been elected chairman of the National Capital Group of Comptrollers.

Others elected were: D. K. Howard, chief of the accounting office of Julius Garfinckel & Co., vice chairman; Ralph J. Packard, assistant comptroller of The Young Men's Shop, secretary and treasurer; Eric A. Fredrikson, comptroller of The Young Men's Shop; Jenning Snider, treasurer of Julius Garfinckel & Co.; Fred H. Heenan, assistant comptroller of Woodward & Lothrop and Joseph L. Adeski, office manager of Lansburgh & Bros. department store, were elected to the board of governors.

J. C. Godwin, comptroller of Woodward & Lothrop, was named Washington representative to the comptrollers' congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

2 Youths Held Without Bond In Man's Death

Two youths were held yesterday by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage for grand jury action without bond for the fatal beating of a man last June.

The defendants are Elmore Lawson, jr., 18, of 1542 8th st. nw., and Willie E. Burke, 17, of 31 Rhode Island ave. nw. Both are unemployed. They were charged with the slaying of Hamilton S. Eustace, 65, a Calverton, Va., farmer, who lived 11 months after the beating.

Last week, Charles P. Pierson, 19, unemployed, of 507 O st. nw., was ordered held for the grand jury at a coroner's inquest into Mr. Eustace's slaying.

Police said the three young men used their firsts and feet to beat Eustace.

Independence Day Of Norway to Be Celebrated Here

Norway's Independence Day will be celebrated at a dinner and dance at the Hamilton Hotel, 14th and K sts. nw., Monday at 7 p. m.

The celebration will be sponsored by the Sons of Norway Lodge and the Norwegian Society of Washington. Representative Harold C. Hagen of Minnesota, will be toastmaster. Dr. A. Wetmore of the Smithsonian Institution will speak on the Kensington runestone which was acquired recently by the museum.

Attending the banquet are Ambassador Wilhelm Morgenstierne of Norway, Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.), and Representatives August H. Andreson (R., Minn.) and Harold Knutson (R., Minn.), Thor C. Tollefson (R., Wash.) and Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.), Henry O. Talle (R., Iowa) and Leroy Johnson (R., Calif.)

Johnson Seeks O'Daniel's Seat

Austin, Tex., May 13 (AP).—Representative Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) has announced his candidacy for the United States Senate. He seeks the place now held by Senator W. Lee O'Daniel. The junior Texas Senator has not announced whether he will be a Democratic candidate for re-election.

Sen. Young Files Answer In Taxi Suit

Senator William R. Young (R., N. Dak.) yesterday told his legal side of the argument with a Washington taxi driver who is suing him for $10,000 for assault.

His answer, filed in District Court by Attorney Edward Bennett Williams, says the taxi driver, John B. Edelcamp, jr., of 1736 G st. nw., used "violent profanity" and "physical force" in attempting to give the Senator the 25 cents he said he was overcharged.

The court action grew out of a taxi ride the Senator and his secretary took May 5 from the Senate Office Building to 9th and Constitution ave. nw., where the secretary got out. The Senator continued on in the taxi to the Wardman Park Hotel.

On arrival there, the driver told him the fare was 90 cents.

Young protested that he had always paid 50 cents for the ride and always tipped an extra quarter. In the ensuing argument, Edelcamp who had received a dollar from the Senator, attempted to give him back a quarter. He charged Young slapped him him on the wrist—a fact the Senator does not deny. He charged Edelcamp used "violent profanity" and threatened him with a physical beating.

Attorney Williams said a letter had gone to Hack Inspector Lieut. Thomas P. Heffernan, advising him that the Senator had no wish to bring charges against Edelcamp or deprive him of his license.

Plane Crash Kills 3 Army Fliers

Northampton, Mass., May 13 (AP). A big C-54 transport plane—flying on instruments through a driving rainstorm—crashed with an explosion and burst into flames here today, killing its crew of three.

Air Transport Command headquarters at Westover Field—a few miles away—identified the dead, all married, as:

Capt. Paul Lonquich, 40, of Yonkers, N. Y.; First Lieut. Wilfred W. Lavinder, 23, of Portsmouth, Ohio; Staff Sergt. Jack Zaresky, 26, of Jackson Heights, N. Y.

SECLUDED ESTATE
In Montgomery County, of 18 acres, approximately 10 miles from White House, back from the roadway 1000 ft., reposing snugly in a clear grove of huge oak, elm, red maple and profusion of dogwood, is this gem of a house. Over 3000 ft. of white board fencing inclose the property and the group of farm buildings adjacent to the main house. Here is a small estate with the house that will provide enjoyable living at its best. Modern in every respect, it has 5 bedrooms, 2 of which are on the 1st floor, with full tiled bath; 3 bedrooms on the 2d floor, with large tiled bath and abundance of closets, storage and other built-in features throughout. The main living room is 17x30, with a large fireplace. The large, cheerful dining room and the unusual 16x28 ft. solarium with fireplace baffles description. You just have to see them. STOCK FARM Near Warrenton—792-acre farm with water in every field. Three streams through property; river bounds farm at back. One-half of farm in woodland with estimated 1,000,000 ft. timber, balance in grass and crops. Stucco house with electricity, big cattle barn with 18x40 concrete silo. Contour of land is good. A good buy at $30,000. Terms. JACK L. MIDDLETON, Real Estate and Insurance, The Plains, Virginia.

Historic Bushfield Plantation

Here is the famous home of John Augustine Washington in historic Westmoreland County, Va., at the intersection of the Nomini and Potomac Rivers. The farm contains 164 acres of land, 152 of which is open and 12 acres of woods (more land available); in high state of cultivation plus 9½ acres of Oyster Grant under riparian rights. All of it is waterfront as Bushfield is a peninsula formed by Buckners Creek, the Nomini and Potomac Rivers.

The main house, brick with slate roof, was restored by Wadsworth Wood, one of the most famous of American Architects, in 1912. Is thoroughly modern in every respect. Electricity, water, oil heat. Excellent state of repairs.

First floor consists of large gracious center hall, music room, sun room, banquet size dining room (all with high ceilings), butler's pantry, electric kitchen, laundry and deep freeze room (12 ft. deep freeze included) as well as two large bedrooms with bath and fireplaces.

Second floor contains master bedroom (overlooking river) with bath, wardrobe room and fireplace. Milady's suite consists of bedroom, sitting room, overlook box garden and river, 1½ baths, wardrobe room and closets, two additional guest bedrooms with adjoining sitting rooms, bath and fireplaces.

In all, six bedrooms, 5 baths, exclusive of 4 servants' bedrooms and bath on 3rd floor. Large library or studio on 3rd floor, overlooking sun deck and 3 rivers and 6 miles of Potomac to Maryland Shore. Large linen room and farm office on 2d floor reached by servants, stairway to 3rd floor quarters.

Two guest houses with living room, kitchens and baths, 3 tenant houses, 2 with bath and electricity. 4 garden and tool houses, large orchard, cattle sheds, silo corn crib, 2 chicken houses, boat house and wharves. This is a going farm and all beef, hams, fish, oysters, wild duck, crabs are available as well as table vegetables and fruit and poultry.

The walled gardens are at their best now (garden week) and filled with box, crepe myrtle, horse chestnut, age-old elms, as well as every bloom imaginable. Present caretaker and farm help will remain. This is one of the most charming estates in Tidewater, Va., aside from its authentic history in a country famous for mild winters. The price for this—one of the most complete and beautiful in the South—is $80,000, which is about half of what the mansion house cost to build at a time when materials and honest efficient labor were cheap. Can be financed with half down. Brokers protected. Mt. Holy, Va., is 100 miles of Washington, 125 miles from Baltimore and 65 miles from Richmond, on excellent roads, and Bushfield will be shown by appointment. Wire, write or phone

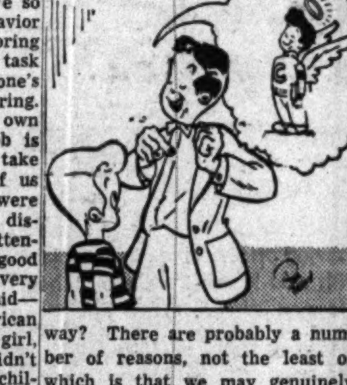
COMMUTERS HOMEWARD BOUND

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne



People's memories are a very comfortable sort of thing. We so often forget incidents or behavior which could reflect on us—bring discredit to us. It's no easy task to be completely honest with one's self when it comes to remembering.

And when it comes to one's own children—that's when the job is most difficult. If our children take seriously the picture most of us give of ourselves when we were children, they must be most discouraged. Papa always paid attention in school and got very good marks. And, of course, he did very well in athletics, wasn't timid—in short, he was the A-1 American Boy. And when mother was a girl, she was very cooperative, didn't say nasty things about other children, never lost her temper and was very glad to help her mother whenever she could.

Why do we parents talk this way? There are probably a number of reasons, not the least of which is that we may genuinely have forgotten those parts of our childhood which didn't do us too much credit.

Dinner Party Honors Gen., Mrs. Cates

THE Commandant of the Marine Corps, Gen. Clifton B. Cates, and Mrs. Cates were the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling entertained last evening at a dinner party at the Sulgrave Club. The dinner preceded the last of the Thursday dances given monthly at the Sulgrave.

Mrs. Curtis Shears Is Tea Hostess

MRS. CURTIS SHEARS entertained yesterday at the last of a series of three teas. Her guests of honor on this occasion were the board of governors of the Woman's National Democratic Club. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, president of the club, took a turn presiding at the tea table along with Mrs. Will Clayton, Mrs. Paul Porter, Mrs. Allen Phelps and others.

Mrs. Shears served a number of years as president of the Woman's National Democratic Club. Flowers sent her as gifts yesterday were used to decorate the apartment.

Wellesley's Fete To Salute Girls Of Foreign Lands

By Peggy Preston

WHEN local Wellesley alumnae stage an "International Fashion Fete" on May 26 at the Shoreham Hotel, they will salute students and graduates of the college who hail from many distant lands.

There have been young women of foreign birth at Wellesley ever since its founding in 1875. According to college records some of the first entrants were daughters of American missionaries working in remote countries, and in 1891 a Japanese girl, Tadzu Sugiye, came from her homeland to study at Wellesley. In 1906 when the Chinese education commission visited the college three scholarships were awarded women from that country. Since that time almost every nation in the world has been represented.

Many of these foreign graduates have distinguished records. The fame of Mme. Chaing Kai-shek, for instance, is world-wide. Her niece, Mary Jane Soong,, daughter of T. V. Soong, is now a member of the freshman class. Vasantha Rama Rau had a book, "Home to India," published by Harper's shortly after taking her degree at Wellesley in 1944. Scores of others have become prominent in fields of medicine, education and science.

The broad purpose of Wellesley's interest in and encouragement of students from foreign lands is to promote understanding among the various members of the world family. Since 1946 an Institute of Foreign Students has been held at the college each summer. While attending it the young women live on the campus, where they are taught English and are given instructions in American academic and social customs.

Each year about 40 girls leave the institute, well prepared to enter an American college, as a result of the summer's training.

This year brought several foreign students to the college for graduate work. There are four from China, and one from each of the countries of Poland, France and Brazil. In the undergraduate group are girls from Denmark, Peru, Honduras, Cuba, China, Scotland, Korea, France, Greece and Nova Scotia.

THE fashion show which the Wellesley alumnae are planning will raise funds to enable the college to continue bringing foreign students to this country. Proceeds will be for the benefit of the 75th anniversary fund.

Presented at a combination garden party and fashion show, the event will take place on the

TWO little girls from Switzerland who will model native costumes in the show are Cecile and Adelaide Fuchss, daughters of the Commercial Counselor of the Swiss Legation and Mme. Fuchss. They wear typical Alpine costumes, with laced bodices, full skirts and aprons. Their fetching bonnets, tied under the chin, are not unlike present-day modes

U. N. Postcard Pose of Romulo Vies With Lana Turner, Venus

By Marie McNair

CARLOS ROMULO, Philippine Ambassador to U. N., returned several days ago from Switzerland where he served as President of the U. N. Freedom of Information Conference in Geneva.

Arriving before him—in fact written aboard ship—was a very good likeness on a postcard of the former Resident Commissioner of the Philippines. It showed him mounting the rostrum to make the inaugural address at the opening day of the conference. Senor Romulo humorously points out that these postcards, selling at five cents each, were on display at all the Geneva curio shops, along with picture post cards of Lana Turner, Venus de Milo and Man O' War.

Carlos Romulo did such a splendid job as head of the conference that he is to get a whole flock of decorations. He has been notified from the delegates of France, Greece, Cuba, Mexico and Turkey that he'll get their highest awards. Moreover, in September, Mr. Romulo will receive an honorary degree from the University of Athens, Greece.

FORMER GOVERNOR ELLIS ARNALL of Georgia is tossing his hat in the Vice Presidential ring by way of picture postcards. The mails are flooded with these sketches of what has come to be called a "typical Southern politician." It shows a goateed gent with wide brimmed hat riding the Democratic donkey. The lariat he swings spells out into "Vice Presidential Ring" and in the center is Ellis Arnall's hat.

MARY BEIRNE ECHOLS is sailing next Friday on the Queen Mary to meet her fiance, Lieut. Charles M. Simpson, 3d, in Vienna, and to be married to him there on June 12.

Her mother, Mrs. Oliver P. Echols, is going with her, so is Miss Marian Morrell, who'll be her maid of honor. General Echols will fly over later to give his daughter in marriage. The bride will set up housekeeping in Vienna where the bridegroom is stationed and where his father, Col. C. M. Simpson, jr., and Mrs. Simpson are also living.

What's most needed in the newlyweds establishment will be kitchenware according to Lieutenant Simpson, so that's the reason for Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin's kitchen shower this afternoon.

Parties for the pretty bride-to-be have already been given by Mrs. Wade Haislip, wife of the General; Mrs. Hugh L. C. Stevens, 3d, and Miss Matilda Betts.

G. O. P. League Plans for Ball

Mrs. John P. Jackson turned over her house on McGill terrace yesterday afternoon for a meeting of committee members of the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia, who are putting on the Victory Ball at the Mayflower Hotel Monday evening, May 24.

Intermittent showers kept guests from enjoying the garden where Mrs. Jackson had planned the party but a group gathered on the covered terrace.

Plans for the ball are going ahead rapidly to make it an outstanding spring entertainment.

A new song and dance number called the "Republican Glide," will open the Victory Ball.

Vincent Lopez, whose orchestra will be featured at the dance, is making a special arrangement of the composition, and Jack and Jill, radio stars, will be here from New York to demonstrate just the right

Scouts Honor Mrs. Bradley's Memory

A Girl Scout "campership" has been established in memory of the late Mrs. Joseph Bradley, according to an announcement by Mrs. Adolphus Staton, president of the Girl Scout Board of Washington and Montgomery County. Mrs. Staton said that Mrs. Bradley had been the first camp chairman of the board and that the first Washington Girl Scout camping had taken place on the Bradley estate, Rosemont, at Rockville, Md., in 1919.

Among the contributors to the campership are Mrs. C. Law Watkins, a daughter of Mrs. Bradley; Mrs. C. E. Brooke of Sandy Spring who is active in Girl Scout work and who did her first camping at Rosemont when she was a Girl Scout; Mrs. Henry Flather, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman and Mrs. Garrett Miller, all past officers of the Girl Scout Board who worked with Mrs. Bradley when she was active in scouting.

Ashley DeWitt, Jr. And Miss McGowen To Marry in July

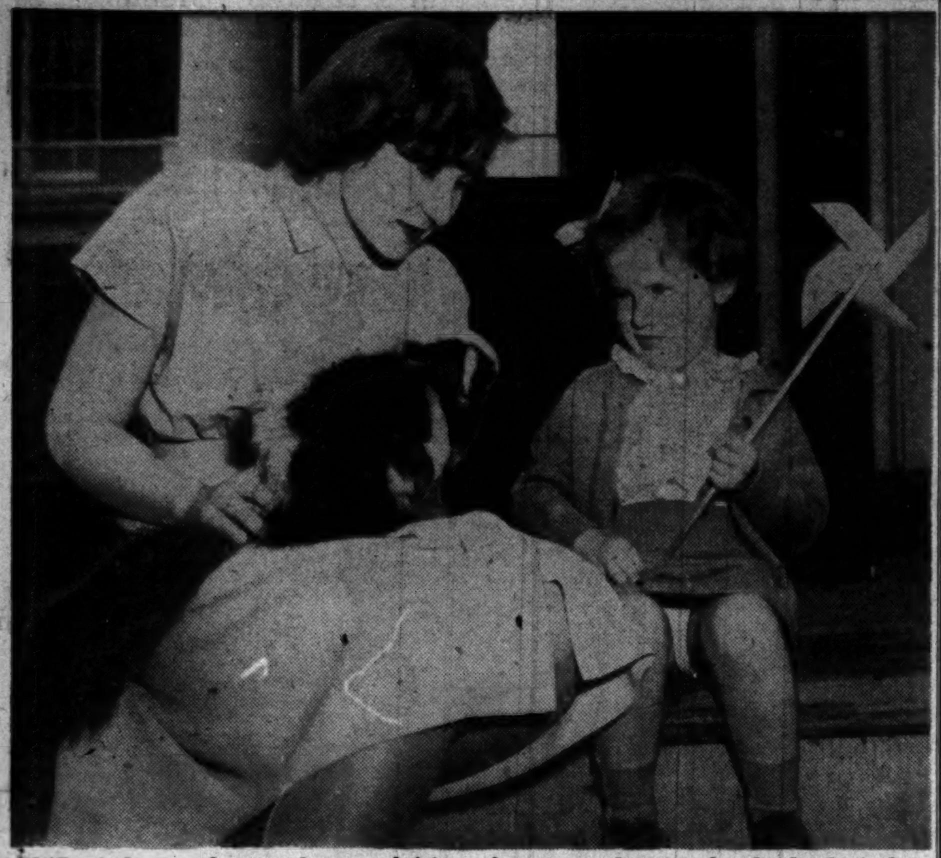
The marriage of Miss Lucille McGowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. McGowen of Chicago, and George Ashley DeWitt, jr. of Washington, will take place on July 10 at the home of the bride-elect's parents in Lake Forest, Ill. Only members of the two families and a few close friends will attend the ceremony and a large reception will follow at the Knollwood Country Club.

Miss Marianne McGowen will be her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids will include Mrs. Joseph F. Altemus and Mrs. Benedict Gross both of Washington; Mrs. James M. Fitzgerald and Miss Elisabeth Cox of West Virginia.

Mr. DeWitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. DeWitt, of Chicago, formerly of Washington, attended the University of Maryland. He served in the Army Air Force for three years. Miss McGowen is a graduate of Miss Porter's School and also studies at Barat College in Lake Forest.

Junior Dance Group to Hold Cotillion

The spring cotilllion of the Junior Dance Group sponsored by the Woman's Club of Bethesda will be held Saturday night. This has become an annual affair, and is eagerly awaited by members of the five classes and their guests. The dance—a formal affair—will be from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. Miss Bette Doyle, who has instructed these classes for the past few years, will be "Mistress of Ceremonies" and Jack Willis will furnish the music.



STAR of the pet show at the annual fair Saturday on the grounds of Virginia Seminary in Alexandria will be Mephitis, a domesticated skunk. Here Miss Keating Karig, who owns and trains the skunk, shows her unusual pet to a young neighbor, Fredericka Moss. Little Fredericka refuses to warm up to Mephitis

Report From Manhattan

Fashion's Pace Setters Pay a Pretty Penny for Season's Cotton Finery

—By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 13.—While the world is about to burn New York is doing some very expensive fiddling. Ladies of high fashion step out city and country evenings in little cotton frocks beautifully made, costing a neat three to four hundred dollars. Cotton numbers shot with gold, such as one launched by Mrs. Charles Amory, have special appeal. Eyelet embroidery is getting a good play, too. On dressy nights more carefully preserved flesh is on view than ever before—there doesn't seem to be a shoulder strap in town. A wardrobe of sensationally good taste is worn by Mrs. Thompson Biddle, Tony Biddle's second wife, whose blazing diamond necklace makes even the incurably blase blink.

Austins Gain New Vogue

LATEST TRINKETS to attract the Long Island set are tiny Austin station wagons which may be had 10 days after your check is certified. There is a new game, too. It is called canasta, which means basket in Spanish. A new form of Oklahoma, it is played with two packs of cards. It recently was legalized by having the Regency Club, Manhattan's exclusive card club, print a booklet of rules. It reached here via Biarritz and Mexico and was introduced by an Argentine delegate to the United Nations.

Though night club business is still dejected, a shot in the arm has been given by tall, angular, blonde, deadpan Kay Thompson. With four brothers (not her own) she sings with graphic bits of acting at the Directoire. The Directoire was formerly Uptown Cafe Society and has been so elegantly redone that the prices are definitely out of this world. Miss Thompson, incidentally, spent years in Hollywood training would be stars in ballet, singing and other cinematic tricks. Fired in an economy drive, she put her wry experiences to work and is the season's outstanding hit. Her song about a Caribbean Cruise is sidesplitting foolery.

Most talked of ballet is the Fall River Legend, the story in Dance of Lizzie Borden and her axe. New artist, whose erotic paintings are executed with precision, is Dmitri Petrov. Some are done on glass and have attracted crowds to his exhibition at the Victor Gallery.

Belmont is opening Monday with added attractions of a circular reflecting pool, thousands of red geranium plants and heavier than ever purses. In fact, racing is so popular that no less than 36 higher bracket income gents were unable to purchase boxes in Belmont's exclusive turf.

Though "Inside U. S. A." is sold out for weeks, the show itself might have been written 10 years ago. It is really Bea Lillie who hauls in the crowds. Meanwhile John Gunther, who gets a tiny royalty from lending his famous title, is off to Europe with his bride, the former Jane Van Der Cook. He will work his way through the Mediterranean, emerge in more northern latitudes and after four months will please the public with a series on inside Europe today.

Elsa Maxwell Tries Television

MEANWHILE ELSA MAXWELL is off to Europe within a month in the interests of television. She is going to skip around the ERP countries, see how money is being spent and put on a movie sound track a series of human interest interviews. The work is called Elsa Maxwell's Telecruise.

Attracted no doubt by the cheap franc, the upper cafe society set is making a bee line for France. Off within the week were Natasha Wilson, Russian wife of Producer Jack Wilson; Nicky de Guinzberg, new editor of Town and Country; Eric Remarque, who has just finished another book, and Coutouriers Vastillo and Christian Dior. Nicky de Guinzberg, incidentally, spent a mere 10 days in South America, taking with him a series of fur coats which were photographed on lovely senoritas in their own countries.

The lightly musical minded are enjoying the pop concerts in Carnegie Hall. You can munch sandwiches, guzzle beer while listening to pleasant tunes. And down on Long Island all is in readiness for the polo tournaments commencing June 6 for the benefit of disabled veterans.

At Piping Rock Bing Crosby paired with Charlie Cushing, tied for top score in a mixed charity match and the AWVS is picking up more coin at a bridge tournament. Run by Professional Charles Lockridge, entrants pay $10 as fee and the winner has to give a percentage of his gain to the AWVS. The whole works has been arranged by Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mrs. George F. Baker and Mrs. Angier Duke and will bring out social New York's fanciest players. Meanwhile the British movie version of Hamlet and Clifford Odets cinematized "Time of Our Lives" are eagerly awaited. Both are opening next week at very social charity premieres.

Club Luncheon Honors Diplomats, Ilka Chase

The Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Bruggmann were guests of honor of the United Nations Club yesterday at the club's regular Thursday luncheon. The weekly invitation luncheons are for members of the club and their guests of honor, with the object of bringing together people in various fields of public activity.

Yesterday's luncheon, at which Miss Meredith Howard, president of the club, presided, gathered in representatives of the Diplomatic Corps, including the Brugmanns, Gordon Huson of the British Embassy, the Egyptian Minister, Anis Azer; Mme. de la Colina, wife of the Mexican Minister; Thomas Venitez of the Philippine Embassy and Joseph Ku, First Secretary of the Chinese Embassy.

Ilka Chase, currently playing at the National Theater, was a representative of the stage.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Employed Pair Wrangle Over Earnings; Man Thinks Wife Should Help Support the Home; She Insists That He Should Pay All Bills

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: What do you consider a fifty-fifty basis for marriage when both husband and wife are wage-earners?

Since our marriage nearly a year ago my wife insists that custom requires a man to fully support his wife regardless of her income. I do agree that the husband should be the provider in the long run and I don't believe in evading this responsibility.

However, my salary alone is barely sufficient to provide the daily necessities, leaving no margin for savings or even clothing. Ellen's salary, nearly twice mine, is deposited virtually intact in her own personal bank account, in her maiden name.

I must admit I have never saved much money. An unduly large proportion of my past earnings has gone for phonograph records, concerts and travel, and Ellen undoubtedly feels unwilling to trust her money to me for that reason.

Man Says Friends Call Him Sucker

WE ARE trying to build a home together, and supposedly we are equally sharing the thought, planning, effort, etc., required to achieve that goal; but our divided concepts of home are seriously impeding progress.

I have advanced several budget plans based on our joint earnings, but each has been coldly rejected by Ellen, who keeps her financial affairs secluded behind an iron curtain, around which our "cold war" bursts into scenes of open violence at times.

Occasionally if I am short of funds and we wish to go out for the evening, I may suggest we go "dutch," which looses a barrage of invective branding me a first-class leech.

My friends tell me I am a sucker to pay all the maintenance bills while she quietly banks all her income. What do you think? I am willing to work unceasingly for unity, harmony and full cooperation, as I don't regard marriage lightly; and would appreciate your advice on this problem. L. J.

Wife Is Anxious; Man Is Childish

DEAR L. J.: The problem is almost insoluble, because it refers to almost total incompatibility of temperament, which just happens to hit on money as the major point of collision.

Ellen is selfish, yes, but anxiously so; and you are greedy, in a childish, clamorous, irresponsible way.

Ellen prizes money for its own sake, for the security it represents, whereas your disposition is to spend it for pleasure as you go, on the theory that tomorrow will take care of itself.

Doubtless each brought to marriage strong expectation of profiting materially at the other's expense, with Ellen counting on full support as a good business proposition (quite aside from romantic inducements) that would permit her to build additional security in the form of redoubled savings; and you thinking happily that two can live more handsomely than one, and should proceed to do so at once, if the wife is a substantial earner in her own right.

Man's Disposed To Be a Sponger

HENCE your dogged quarrel with Ellen's refusal to oblige your theory that she ought to pool her income with your lesser salary and thereby create a common fund for 50-50 current spending, with modest joint savings perhaps squeezed out.

I believe Ellen hits the nail on the head in branding you a would-be leech, in relation to her at any rate; because it seems to me that all your various budget schemes, based on "our joint earnings," are flank attempts to get your hands on her pocketbook.

For the rest, I think Ellen's attitude is somewhat better than yours, over all. Your greedy concern with her earnings brings into question the quality of your interest in Ellen herself, whereas her willingness to live on what you make, also her sometime cheery advice to "Buck up, learn to economize," suggest that basically she is fond of you and hopeful that by firm example and no pampering, she may eventually wean you from wastrel tendencies. M. H.

An Inferiority Complex

Be sure you're not so strict with children that you develop an inferiority complex in them and cause them to be nervous and lack confidence in themselves. It will prove a tremendous handicap in later life. Give them sufficient freedom that they develop their own instincts and talents, watching, of course, that they are in the right direction.

Ask Anne About Deodorizing Musty Furniture

Ever since last summer all our upholstered furniture has had a very unpleasant, musty odor. This is especially noticeable in the sofa and an extra Hollywood bed in the baby's room. We have aired, sunned and vacuumed the furniture whenever possible, but all to no avail! We would appreciate your advice on how to get rid of these odors and keep them away in the future. We have new bedspreads, but don't wish to use them until we're sure there's no more mustiness for them to take up or absorb, as our present spread and bed pads have done this. We have no basement in our bungalow, which may have something to do with this.
B. D.

Musty odor is caused, as you suggest, by dampness, so the best way to get rid of it is to air frequently and sun the furniture on a low humidity day.

In addition to airing, one other suggestion is to use deodorizers. Parodichlorobenzene (commonly called moth crystals) are excellent deodorizers. Sprinkle these in the creases of the furniture. When first used, the odor of the crystals will mask the musty odor, but as time goes on, the moth crystal odor will disappear and the musty odor will go with it. Also, you could use in the room the sort of deodorizer which comes in a bottle with a wick which you pull up when in use.

Can you give us any method for washing or cleaning enameled woodwork which will not remove the glossy finish—as soap and water sometimes does? B. D.

There are several very effective paint cleaners on the market which come in granular form. A few tablespoons of these are dissolved in water for washing painted woodwork and can be purchased in grocery, hardware and paint stores. Be sure to follow directions which come with the product you buy, for these products must be used in the concentration recommended by the manufacturer to wash painted surfaces safely and well.

Can you give me any suggestions for cleaning spun aluminum highball glasses and hammered aluminum trays which have become spotted with water? I tried steel wool pads with no success. J. L. E.

Here is a treatment which should improve the appearance of your aluminum glasses: Place them in a large kettle in which you have made a solution of two teaspoons of cream of tartar to each quart of water. Bring the solution to a boil with the aluminum in it. When the spots have disappeared, remove from the water, rinse thoroughly in hot water and dry. Be sure to dry your aluminum thoroughly after each use to avoid this spotted appearance.

Will you tell me if there is any way to keep lard from getting strong? E. S.

Storing lard in a tightly covered container, in a cool dark place will help to keep it fresh and sweet. Moisture, air, light and high temperatures all help to cause rancidity and the lard should be protected from each of these conditions. Also, fats readily absorb odors and should be kept away from strong flavored foods. If you have a quantity of lard and wish to keep it for some time, mixing some hydrogenated vegetable shortening into the lard will help to prevent it becoming rancid. Mix in the proportion of one part vegetable shortening to 10 parts lard.

Can you tell me how to get rust spots out of a sweater? The sweater was just made and washed for the first time, and pins were used to hold it in place. As the sweater dried, the pins rusted and left marks all over the sweater. F. E.

If this sweater is white you may be able to remove the rust spots by using a bleach such as oxalic acid. Spread the stained area over a bowl of warm water, moisten the stain in the water and apply a few drops of oxalic acid (poison) solution. Use three tablespoons of the crystals to one pint of water. Allow to stand a minute or so and dip into the bowl of water to rinse. This treatment can be repeated until stain is gone.

Since oxalic acid is a bleach, do not use this method on a colored sweater. In the case of a colored sweater, redyeing it a darker color which will cover the spots is a possibility. Or, using a color removing or dye-stripping agent which removes rust as well as color might be successful. In this case, you could redye it the color desired.

Good advice, Petunia! Soapy water causes pearls to lose their luster. Wearing your pearls as much as possible is the best way to preserve their sheen.

Seashore Salad: Alternating rows of cooked shell macaroni and salmon salad make a pretty picture of this main dish for a buffet supper

Flavor Is Distinctive in Salads

Fish Stars on Spring Party Menu

By Lucia Brown

FESTIVE fish can be real stars on your spring party menus.

Their tender, flaky texture and distinctive flavor make them ideal salad ingredients. Fish and shellfish casseroles are light but filling for buffet suppers. Seafood cocktails add zip to the most ordinary meal, and what's better for hors d'oeuvres than anchovies, smoked salmon, clams or caviar?

A tempting and unusual dish for the buffet is Seashore Salad, made of alternating rows of salmon salad and cooked shell macaroni. Here's the way to make it:

SEASHORE SALAD

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
4 ounces shell macaroni
¾ cup flaked salmon (1 7-ounce can)
½ cup diced celery
½ cup diced sweet pickle
½ cup salad dressing
Chopped parsley
Salad greens

Add 1 tablespoon salt to actively boiling water. Gradually add macaroni and cook until tender (about 10 minutes). Drain and rinse in cold water. Toss together salmon, celery, pickle and salad dressing. Arrange alternating bands of macaroni and the salmon mixture on a deep oval platter. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Chill. Serve on salad greens.

THERE'S a traditional elegance about lobster, which is one reason why a salad such as "Lobster in Eggs" makes any party an occasion. Serve this combination at a luncheon, afternoon party, or evening buffet.

LOBSTER IN EGGS

1 tablespoon chili sauce
1 teaspoon pimiento, chopped
1 teaspoon green pepper, chopped
1 teaspoon onion, grated
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 dozen hard-cooked eggs
1 head lettuce
5 tomatoes

Remove any cartilage from the lobster and cut meat into cubes. Add the seasonings and mayonnaise to the lobster. Chill. Cut the eggs in half lengthwise and remove yolks. Fill egg whites with lobster mixture and serve on tomato slices on a bed of lettuce. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and grated egg yolk. Makes 24 stuffed eggs.

FISH figure largely in the hors d'oeuvre department, especially shellfish and smoked and pickled products. Here are a few suggestions. No need to buy expensive imported caviar for the one featuring this fancy fish roe. American caviar, black or red, is excellent.

Anchovy Paste and Cheese: Mix 1 teaspoon anchovy paste and 4 tablespoons cream cheese. Pile diagonally on one half of square of toast. Cover other half with chopped sweet pickle.

Caviar and Onion: Make with black caviar, finely minced Spanish onions and lemon juice. Cut caviar slightly with lemon juice. Mix onions with enough olive oil to make stick. Saute small rounds of bread in olive oil. Cover one half of each round with caviar, other half with onion. Separate with a little strip of green pepper or red pimiento.

Clam, Egg, and Pate de Fois Gras: Spread sauted bread with pate de fois gras. Pipe around edge with yolks of hard-cooked eggs, rubbed through sieve, mixed with creamed butter, seasoned with salt and paprika. Inside of border, arrange ring of white of hard-cooked egg, finely chopped and sprinkled with finely chopped parsley. In center place Little Neck clams, seasoned with tomato catsup, lemon juice, salt, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco sauce and a few gratings of horse radish.

Toasted Codfish: Mix I cup flaked, cooked codfish, 1 tablespoon French mustard, 2 tablespoons tartar sauce and 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese. Spread on rounds of buttered toast. Place under broiler 5 minutes and serve very hot.

Crabmeat and Onion: 1 cup flaked crab meat, ¼ cup chopped pickled onions, 1 tablespoon French dressing and 3 tablespoons mayonnaise. Combine and mix well. Serve on assorted salted crackers.

Shrimp in Blankets: Soak shrimp in seasoned milk. Wrap in small, thin slices of bacon or salt pork. (Pin with toothpick if necessary.) Lay in broiler and brown on both sides. Serve on toasted wafers with quartered lemon.

Hip Slimming Exercises Still in Vogue

By Ida Jean Kain

The new look which neatly whittles the waist just naturally rounds the hips. That's fine, within reason. But many a gal laments that her hips are not within reason, and need no buildup. Surprisingly enough, hip-slimming exercises are still in vogue.

Of course, hip problems differ . . . widely. The extra padding may bulge out at the sides like an avocado pear, or assume an all-round spread. Or the projection may be rearward, south of the waist, bustle effect. Today's exercise routine deals firmly with all hip problems, including yours.

To make it more fun, turn on some music and swing through these.

Position: Lie on back on floor with arms out at sides and legs together and straight up in air from hips to form a right angle with the trunk.

Movement: Hold that right angle as you roll. Go over on one side to rest weight on one elbow and thigh. Up in the air with the legs again and roll ot the other side. Be sure to hit the fat pad on the outside of the hip with each roll.

For all-around slimming, a straight roll is best . . .

Position: Lie on back on floor, legs straight down and feet and head held slightly off the floor.

Movement: Roll straight across the hip span and over on the thighline, then back across to the other thighline. Roll 25 counts, later 50, but take it easy.

To scuttle a natural bustle:

Position: Lie on side on floor, legs straight down, knees straight.

Movement: Keep the bottom leg still and swing the top leg, up in front and then away out in back. Swing 12 counts, change sides and swing 12 more counts. Increase gradually to 20 counts each side, resting between each 10. This exercise can be varied to bring the abdominal muscles into the action by swinging both legs simultaneously. It's called the side-scissors. Lift the legs just off the floor for clearance, then swing the legs in a scissors-like action—one forward, the other back.

30th Anniversary of U. S. Air Mail Saturday; Display of Mail Planes Planned Here

A prophetic press agent wrote, back in 1937:

"Perhaps when the National Air Mail Week celebration is called for observance 10 years hence, there will be improvements that were scarcely dreamed of a year or so ago. Such is the progress of air transportation."

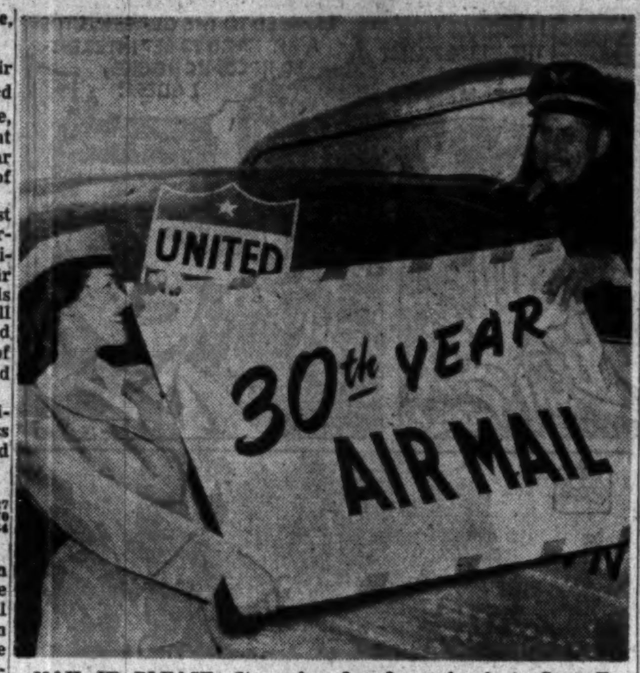
Indeed yes. In 1937, the latest thing was a 200-mile an hour airliner. This Saturday, thirtieth anniversary of the inauguration of air mail, jet planes capable of speeds of more than 500-miles an hour will shoot between New York and Washington with an exchange of letters from the Air Secretary and the Postmaster General.

There are some other comparisons ,equally startling, of progress within the past 10 years. Based on fiscal year figures:

	1937.	1947.
Air mail, lbs. carried	7,385,439	284,165,027
Air mail, pcs. carried	167,520,148	772,185,070
Route miles	29,622	102,454
Number pound miles flown with mail	12 billion	67 billion

From the humble beginnings on May 15, 1918, when the Post Office Department first dispatched mail by air, to August 31, 1927, when commercial airlines took over the Nation's air mail service has become big business.

Air mail was first developed experimentally in 1911. The first experiment was at an aviation meeting on Long Island, N. Y. First air mail route in the United States was between New York and Washington, with a stop at Philadelphia, and the first flight was made on May 15, 1918.



MAIL IT, PLEASE—Stewardess Lee Lucas hands to Capt. E. Hamilton Lee of United Air Lines a large airmail envelope symbolic of the thirtieth anniversary of the opening of the Nation's air mail service

In the following year, first step toward coast-to-coast service was taken when a route was established between Cleveland and Chicago. First coast-to-coast ,mail planes were Liberty-motored DeHavilands, ships declared surplus after World War I.

Today a letter mailed in New York City can reach London in 19 hours. China is 65 air mail hours from the United States; Africa, 44 hours.

On March 15, 1948, another advance was made in air mail on an international basis. An international air parcel post service from the United States to 23 foreign countries was established. Countries incorporated include Austria, Azores, Belgian Congo, Bermuda, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Egypt, Ireland, Finland, Gold Coast Colony, Great Britain and northern Ireland, Greece, Iceland, Italy, Netherlands, Newfoundland, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunisia, Turkey and the Union of South Africa.

Mail by air is certainly of age. And Saturday, at 2:30, public notice of this will be taken at the Washington National Airport when the latest type jet-propelled airplane will take off with a letter from Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson to Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington.

Simultaneously, at the Idlewild Airport in New York City, another jet plane will be on its way to Washington with a letter from Air Secretary Symington to Postmaster General Donaldson.

A man whose air mail flying career spans the history of the service is scheduled to arrive today to join in the thirtieth anniversary. Capt. E. Hamilton Lee, one of the intrepid pilots who flew the original Washington-New York route, is due to land at 1 p. m. with a cargo of Chicago high school boys and girls, winners in a United Airlines essay contest.

At the airport ceremonies here, planes of the various types used since air mail was born will be on display.

Reich Mayor Called Sorcerer Sues His Accusers in Vain

Frankfurt, Germany, May 13 (U.P.). A witchcraft trial, featuring testimony about eerie lights, midnight visions and "anti-evil" pills, was held at nearby Sarnau today.

"He bewitched our cattle," one farmer said, glaring at Burgomaster Werner Boldt.

Five Sarnau citizens were sued for slander after a year of spreading reports that the Sarnau mayor was a sorcerer. They were acquitted because German law provides no penalty for people who say others are enchanted.

Sarnau's 200 residents have been avoiding the burgomaster for a year. Some said they suffered from a "mysterious illness" after the burgomaster looked at them.

"I'm just taboo," the burgomaster told the court. "I have heard there is even some plot to remove me from office."

"Nobody could explain what it actually was," one elderly woman testified. "But lots of our cattle died after Boldt strolled by and looked at them."

The people went to Ilse Kolkos, an herb doctor. She advised them to stay away from a "certain house," but she didn't say which house. The people thought she meant the burgomaster's house.

About this time, one man said, he saw lights on a housetop at midnight. He said the lights formed the sixth and seventh books of Moses. A horseman was seen, by at least one resident, to jump into a lake for no apparent reason.

A delegation went back to the herb doctor. She gave them dozens of pills. Swallow these, she told them, and the burgomaster will be relieved of his "evil talents." Some of the Sarnau citizens said they had to endure numerous hardships "involved in the treatment," but that the treatment worked.

On the Town

PART of Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe has found its way down here in the form of three lovely chorus girls ... The new line of Lee Henderson Dancers in the Casino Royal is one of the loveliest lines we've had the pleasure of watching. According to their agent, some of the gowns the girls wear run as high as $500 apiece, but we really weren't too interested in the costumes with such cute examples of night club pulchritude ... A few of the girls were models before the dancing bug hit them ... One, according to their agent, is the daughter of a wealthy family and has been known to coast up to rehearsal in a chauffeur driven car.

Earl Wrightson

The De Flores are something pretty special in the way of dance teams ... Top moment in their routine is when Ricardo takes his partner's chin in his hands and spins around with her feet simply miles off the floor. Nino Ghezzi (of the well-known Ghezzi brothers) does a balancing act, and manages to jitterbug while standing on his hands ... It's the best show the Casino has had in some time.

"A" for effort, personality, ability and downright likeableness is the only possible grade to place Earl Wrightson in ... Right now he's entertaining in the Mayflower lounge ... Earl has the audience in the palm of his hand from the moment he walks on the stage, singing as he comes. After a song or two from Brigadoon or Finian's Rainbow he drops back 15 or 20 years to do an old timer, all of which keeps the folks of all ages pleased. Nothing more need be said except to see him as soon as you can.

THE SHOREHAM Blue Room's new show features Mario and Floria, a dance team with their share and more of grace ... Their routines are fresh and, despite opening night nervousness, a common malady, their performance was very good. This young team has a new member called the Old Blue Bonnett and the Stovepipe Hat that is a refreshing change from the usual run of ballroom routines.

Gene Archer, the other half of the Blue Room show, delivered a few oldies that are always good for a hand. Gene is one of the most popular baritones in the city, and justifiably so, but here's a suggestion that he prepare a few new routines that are a little different just to surprise his audiences. The surprise would probably be most gratifying on both sides.

Club Cairo came up with one of the best shows it's had for some time Wednesday night. Fresh-from-Florida-and-just-look-at-that-tan, Jerri Blanchard arrived back in town after an absence of about two years. Jerri is one of the country's top sophisticates of song and really earns her title. A recently added routine is that of a slightly spifflicated woman wrapped in furs who gives some generous advice on the evils of hooch. Another cute number is "I'm Bidin' My Time." The gal is top-notch and should be seen.

Lenny Kent, who used to work with Jackie Miles, delivers a routine that is fast, witty and at times satirical. It's his first return here in eight years, and the absence, now that we've seen him, was all too long. Unfortunately there was a heckler at the ringside who fancied himself a comedian, and was about as funny as the proverbial crutch. Well able to dish out the remarks, he became swinging-mad when Lenny tossed a few quips back. Why is it that these characters never realize that the guy with the microphone has all the odds on his side of the ringside, and that you're fighting a losing battle from the moment you open your hopper?

The Statler opens a new band Monday night. It'll be George Duffy. On Thursday Rolly Rolls will share the showbill with Andre, Andree and Bonnie.

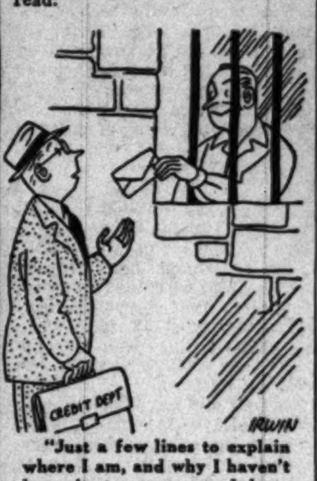
Customer Says Honesty Is Best Policy

An Arlington jeweler tells me that he's impressed with the honesty of his customers.

After extending credit to a patron a few weeks ago, the jeweler became a bit apprehensive when his customer turned up missing on installment day.

But shortly afterward the mailman delivered a letter which explained everything. The note read:



CREDIT DEPT
IRWIN

"Just a few lines to explain where I am, and why I haven't been in to pay you. I have been in jail ever since the 16th of March, and just as soon as I get out I'll be around and settle up."

LET US SPRAY

Edward D. Barrett of 2120 16th st. nw. is a kindred spirit. He, too, wonders why the Sanitation Department's trucks keep right on sprinkling the streets, even in the midst of a dowpour. Writes Ed:

Though sun may shine
Or rain may fall
Our spraying crew
Is on the ball.

MISCELLANY

Jim Wilfong of 1541 Montana ave. ne., has a Bing Crosby record that's so old Bing gets third billing on the label. It's Victor's platter of "Ho-Hum," played by Gus Arnheim's band, with vocals by Loyce Whiteman and Der Bingle. When Crosby comes here Sunday to participate in the National Celebrities Golf Tournament, I'll try to get him to autograph the disk for you, Jim . . . The Industrial Home School on Wisconsin ave. is trying to do a bang-up job for its boys and girls on an extremely modest budget. We can all help by contributing some of the things the kids need, such as a ping pong table, badminton set, soft balls, bats, gloves, basket balls, skates, a good encyclopedia, and sewing materials for the girls—buttons, needles, thread, snaps, dress goods, hooks, eyes, tape measures and all the rest. Mrs. Eugene Burr of 3134 Q st. nw. (Michigan 0424) can give you further details regarding this worthwhile project . . . Alberta L. Vehue of 4720 Hudson ave. se., Suitland's No. 1 booster, says this gem appeared in a recent issue of a suburban paper:

> "In case the typographical error which resulted in the omission of one line last week confused you—on the Suitland Seminoles' home lot the season, on May 2, will be held definite information regarding fu—just in back of the first and second courts on the west side of Homer ave."

That, of course, explains everything.

UNSOUND EFFECTS

S/Sergt. Benjamin Madison of 1935 9th st. nw. wants to know why there's so much background noise on the baseball broadcasts. He feels that modern radio engineers should be able to eliminate it.

They probably could eliminate most of it, Ben, but they don't want to. They feel that crowd noises in the background give the broadcast more "realism."

Besides, the sound effects give the audience something to listen to when the announcer isn't talking. Broadcasts of out-of-town games provide a wonderful opportunity to practice up on your Morse code.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—William Bendix, who is portraying Babe Ruth in the screen story of Ruth's life, was at Yankee Stadium Sunday afternoon. There, before the game started, he re-enacted the 60th Home-Run scene. Bendix met Louis Calhern later, and told him: "I felt awful—pretending I was Babe Ruth, in front of all those Yankee fans" . . . "I know just how you feel," said Calhern. "In Washington I played Mr. Justice Holmes, in 'The Magnificent Yankee,' before an audience which included the U. S. Supreme Court" . . . "The worst part," said Bendix, "was when I heard a fan holler 'Phoney' at me" . . . "I know how you felt," said Calhern. "At that Washington showing Mrs. Frankfurter wouldn't come, and said she couldn't see a mountebank playing the great Holmes."

The only unpublished writings left by Mussolini — his fragmentary diary, written between 1942 and 1945, discussing the disintegration of his Fascist regime — will be published by Farrar & Straus this fall. The diary was purchased from Mrs. Mussolini and will be translated by Frances Farnaye, who translated "Christ Stopped at Eboli." . . . Irwin Shaw will call his 1500-page novel about the war, "The Young Lions."

Weapons Held Our Best Reliance

By Drew Pearson

Now that the 70-group Air Force has been definitely decided on, let's take a careful look at the next big military question—the draft.

Two things are important:

1. When it comes to raising an Army of foot soldiers the United States can never compete with Russia. Her population is too great. Furthermore, no land army has ever been able to penetrate Russia. Napoleon tried it and met his downfall. Hitler tried it and discovered it was his greatest mistake. Therefore, the United States has got to develop weapons (airplanes and atomic bombs) that can take the place of a big land Army.

2. When it comes to a moderate-sized American land Army, we need troops for two chief purposes: (a) Forces to maintain bases abroad, (b) A police force to guard the United States in case of atomic attack at home.

Citizens Army

Regarding the other phase—that part of the Army which would operate abroad—it seems to me that defense planners have overlooked one of the most important of our potentialities—the National Guard and the reserves.

Gen. Cramer

The other day Senator Kilgore of West Virginia, Democrat, telephoned Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard Bureau, to ask him to appear as a witness in favor of a strong National Guard program.

"I can't come to talk to you," General Cramer excused himself. "I'm not supposed to make my views known."

Yet, in every war so far, the National Guard and the reserves have made notable records. In fact, it has been the resourcefulness and initiative of the individual American soldiers which have made the American Army victorious in every war so far. No conscript Army has ever been able to equal it.

Substitution for Draft

As a basis for congressional discussion, therefore, this column suggests the following:

1. A compulsory 3-month military-training program for 18-19 year olds; then let them join the National Guard.
2. Catalogue each man according to his abilities, so he can be called upon for Army or factory in case of emergency.
3. Put National Guard and reserve training under the Army's best men, not hacks and has-beens.
4. Have uniform requirements for National Guard and reserve officers. Make them take periodic examinations.

Such a program, plus the 70 air groups for offense, should give the United States an efficient, well-trained citizens' Army without foisting upon the American people the militaristic system they just fought a war to avoid.

Behind the RR Writ

Story behind the Government's last-minute injunction against the threatened railroad strike is the fact that the three brotherhood leaders themselves actually urged this move in a very frank conference with Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman just after the President seized the railroads.

Two of the leaders, Robertson of the firemen and enginemen and Johnston of the engineers, even told Steelman they would not put up to their strike committees the question of going back to work.

"You know what we're up against," declared Johnston. "We have our own problems. We are under pressure from all sides. If we asked the men to remain on the job with a lot of these questions still in deadlock, some members might think we haven't done our best for them, which isn't the case, as you know."

Therefore, explained the leaders, only the issuance of a court order by the Federal Government would satisfy the more aggressive elements in the rail brotherhoods.

Arabs and Nazis

Here is another secret telegram captured by the Allied forces in Germany showing how the same Arab leaders now threatening Palestine connived with the Nazis during the war.

The telegram is dated July 28, 1942, a time when Marshal Rommel was pushing the British to the wall in North Africa. The telegram, sent from Ambassador Ritter to L. R. von Neurath, Africa-Corps, shows how the Egyptian Government conspired to give secret information to the Germans just at a time when it hurt most. It follows:

"Two Egyptian military planes, piloted by an Egyptian officer and an Egyptian under-officer, have been instructed by the highest Egyptian authorities, to fly to Field Marshal Rommel.

"On both airplanes there were important maps and plans which are of vital importance for the German military authorities. The pilots had received additional oral instructions.

"The Foreign Minister of the Reich requests you for news by return, as to what has transpired about the two Egyptian airplanes.

"Sonnleithern."

Note—Although the British have been willing to make these documents public, the State Department has been opposed — reportedly because of pressure from the National Defense Department.

I Want to Serve You

O Lord, if there is anything . . . That You would have me do . . . Please let me know how I can be . . . Of service unto You . . . Enlighten me in all respects . . . According to Your will . . . And let my every sacred vow . . . Be one that I fulfill . . . I do not seek the comfort and . . . The luxury of life . . . But only how to do my best . . . In facing every strife . . . How I can help my neighbor and . . . The stranger on the street . . . And how to lead each lonely soul . . . To happiness complete . . . Believe me, Lord, and hear me now . . . In this my prayer sincere . . . That I may have the courage and . . . The strength to persevere.
